DEMOCRATS END TYDINGS PLANS FOR 25% SLASH

Caucus Drafts New Economy Promise.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The Democratic "new deal" on economy in government expenditures is hanging on the ropes tonight. It didn't last one round in the Democratic senate caucus today, and is now considered out of the ring for the remainder of the lame duck session, with Democratic hopes pinned to its resuscitation in the next congress.

MILLARD E. TYDINGS.

The caucus of Democratic new dealers was precipitated by the impetuosity of Senator Millard Tydings [Dem., Md.], who had moved yesterday to return the treasury-postoffice appropriation bill to the appropriations committee for a pruning designed to effect that 25 per cent slash in the cost of the federal government promised by the Democratic platform.

Told He's Dreaming.

Numerous new dealers, some of whom were fresh from the fount of the new deal at Warm Springs, Ga., proceeded to put young Mr. Tydings in his place. They convinced him that he was dreaming dreams, that the 25 per cent cut could not be realized without extensive legislation, particularly with relation to the "pork" in veterans' benefits, and provided him with a substitute resolution in which his aspirations for drastic economy were boiled down to a pious hope.

In the meantime the house appropriations committee brought out the independent offices 1934 appropriation bill totaling $1,002,890,000, which is $1,657,000 less than Mr. Hoover asked in his budget. The bill grants the full amount asked for veterans, $945,988,000, which is $15,039,000 more than for 1933.

Cut Farm Board in Half.

In anticipation of the abolition of the farm board by the Roosevelt administration, the allowance for that agency was reduced from 1 million to $500,000. Putting the brakes on economic investigations, the committee reduced the trade commision's allotment from $1,109,550 to $510,000.

The only increase over a budget recommendation was $50,000 for the White House to provide for repairing and refurnishing, the latter item to include a swimming tank which Mr. Roosevelt will require for the exercise prescribed for victims of infantile paralysis.

The Democratic caucus on the substitute resolution provided for Mr. Tydings declared it the policy of the senate to reduce appropriations "at the earliest practicable time to a sum equal to that of the estimated revenue," and instructed the appropriations committee to make reductions "wherever possible without impairing the efficiency of the essential services and conforming to the policy of strictest economy."

Tries to Withdraw Resolution.

Armed with this resolution, Mr. Tydings went upon the senate floor and asked unanimous consent to withdraw his resolution of yesterday, which had upset the equanimity of his associate new dealers. But the Republicans were enjoying the discomfiture of the Democrats over their economy pledges far too much to give such consent until after ample opportunity for rubbing it in.

Senator James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.] began the explication of the Democratic new deal on economy. He exploded the notion that the Democrats were pledged to cut a cool billion from the four billion cost of the federal government.

You cannot, he contended, cut the interest on the public debt and postal expenditures payable from postal revenues. On the basis of the expenditures when the 25 per cent pledge was made at Chicago, he calculated that $85 millions is the extent of the cut to which the Democrats are committed.

Calls Democrats Impractical.

Senator Daniel O. Hastings [Rep., Del.] told the Democrats they are impractical. With the war debtors defaulting on $29 millions of payments,

BRITISH DEBTS ENVOY IS CALLED BACK TO LONDON

Sudden Return May Indicate Hitch.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—A surprising turn was given to the international war debts situation tonight by the disclosure that Sir Ronald Lindsay had been summoned post-haste to London for a frank discussion of the projected British-American war debts and economic discussions now set tentatively for March.

The announcement that Sir Ronald would leave within the next few days on the Europa, the first possible boat, came two hours after the British ambassador had conferred with state department officials, presumably upon the Roosevelt-Hoover reaction to Great Britain's note of yesterday conditionally accepting the Roosevelt invitation to separate debt and economic discussions.

Both state department and British officials asserted that the hurried trip of Sir Ronald to London had not been interpreted as indicating a serious hitch had developed in the preparatory negotiations for the conference.

Indication of Deadlock.

Notwithstanding these assurances, the imminent departure of the British diplomat, coupled with the deep silence that has marked the arrival of the British acceptance of the Roosevelt conference invitation, served to arouse reports to the effect that a new debts revision deadlock had developed.

Offsetting these rumors were evidences of Democratic congressional support of the Roosevelt war debts and economic program. There were also the informal intimations by state department officials and Roosevelt advisers that substantial agreement had been reached with Great Britain to go ahead with the conferences.

According to persons close to the British embassy, Sir Ronald was called home to give the British government a first hand picture of the American reaction to the new European moves for reduction of the debts.

Senate Floor Visitor.

A visit by the ambassador to the senate floor yesterday caused a furor which today resulted in a renewal of the private feud between the senators Robinson—Joe T. of Arkansas, senate Democratic leader, and Arthur R., Indiana Republican. Indiana's Robinson called Arkansas' Robinson to task for having violated the senate rules yesterday by inviting the British ambassador onto the senate floor. The Indiana senator drew an admission of error from the Democratic leader.

"It was my mistake," said Senator Robinson of Arkansas. "I did not refresh myself on the rules and unintentionally violated them. The debts were not even mentioned."

Not Responsible for Call.

So far as could be learned there appeared to be no justification for suspicion that the publicity attending the Lindsay visit to the senate had anything to do with the decision of the British foreign office to cable the ambassador to return on the first boat. It was recalled in this connection that some time ago a visit by Sir Ronald to Chairman William E. Borah [Rad., Idaho] was followed by several new stories intimating the diplomat had been taking up foreign relations matters with Mr. Borah which normally are only handled through diplomatic channels.

In contrast to the Republican hostility displayed by Senator Robinson of Indiana in the senate was the sympathetic ear lent by the state department to Prof. Raymond Moley, President Elect Roosevelt's expert, and Prof. Rexford Tugwell, Prof. Moley's expert.

The two Democratic emissaries consulted with Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and other department officials concerning the debts and the coming international economic conference. They learned, for one thing, that the silver question was going to receive scant attention from the conference.

The conferences between the Roosevelt and Hoover administration experts are to continue.

BUNGALOW RAID LANDS 9 MEN, 2 WOMEN IN CELLS

Police smashed their way into a bungalow at 2531 North Meade avenue early this morning, arrested nine men—one of them a union business agent—and two women, and seized five guns. One policeman was fired upon and later knocked down in a hand to hand scuffle.

A shooting report prompted the raid. Detectives Tom Mackey and Steve Howard of the Cragin station responded. A man skulking in the areaway fired at him. A moment later Sergt. Walter Rentfleisz and his squad reinforced Mackey and Howard. They smashed in the doors. One of the men struck Mackey on the chin.

Search of the house revealed the weapons, concealed in various rooms. A quantity of beer and liquor was found also. Police said they would try to determine if the bungalow was a hoodlum hangout.

Those arrested were George R. Baker, 34 years old, 1452 North Kedzie avenue, business agent for the Coal Teamsters' union; his wife, Edwina, 25; Miss Sally Slitz, 19, 1644 Haddon avenue; Arthur Swanson, 33, 1648 North Paulina street; Thomas Kolibowski, 19, 1436 Cornell street; William Neza, 23, 2042 Huron street; Albert Pieniazek, 24, 723 North Ada street; Edwin Matthews, 29, 2930 Diversey avenue; William Minard, 28, 2641 Clybourn avenue; Edward Schreier, 20, 1413 Erie street, and his brother, Robert Schreier, 28, occupant of the bungalow.

MRS. ROOSEVELT GUEST TODAY OF MRS. HOOVER

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover plans to receive as a visitor tomorrow Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, her successor as first lady of the land.

Although no word was available at the White House tonight as to when Mrs. Roosevelt would arrive or how long she would stay, it was expected she would reach the executive mansion before luncheon.

Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. Roosevelt have known each other for many years, although they have met seldom if at all since the days when their husbands were respectively food administrator and assistant secretary of the navy during the Wilson administration.

Mrs. Hoover expects to show her visitor over the house and its living quarters in order that she may make plans for arranging this part of the mansion for herself and her family after March 4.

Some changes which could be put into effect before she actually becomes mistress of the executive mansion may be suggested by Mrs. Roosevelt, but it general practice is followed no major alterations will be made until after the inauguration.

French Cabinet Quits, Falls in Finance Crisis

BULLETIN.

PARIS, Jan. 28 (Saturday).—(AP)—The 40 day old Paul-Boncour government was overthrown early today by a boisterous, crowded chamber of deputies on the budgetary program by a vote of 390 to 193 after an all night battle. The ministry shortly thereafter called on President Albert Le Brun and presented their resignations.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 27.—The French government tonight is facing a fight for existence on its financial program in an all night session of the chamber of deputies. The cabinet of Premier Joseph Paul-Boncour believes it can survive as the result of a vote of confidence on a question of procedure earlier in the day.

The confidence vote, which was 348 to 243, was followed by the chamber's decision to sit all night. The senate will consider the financial bill, which covers appropriations for February, at its session tomorrow.

Increased Taxes Proposed.

The question of increased taxes has not been agreed upon even though the Socialists and Radical Socialists indicated a determination to hit upon a compromise financial program.

Back of tonight's debate is one fact: the crisis is creeping up on France and here are some significant figures to prove it:

On July 1 the 1933 budget deficit was between $240,000,000 and $280,000,000. By Sept. 17 it had risen to $484,000,000. Now it is estimated at more than $600,000,000 by Chairman Lamoureux of the chamber's finance committee, while the finance ministry places it at $500,000,000.

The parliament has issued more than $400,000,000 in new treasury notes. The temporary budget passed just before the end of 1932 dipped into the amortization fund to the extent of $25,440,000.

France Loses Gold.

The French 4½ per cent 1932 "rente" introduced in the bourse of Paris at 97 francs now is quoted at 92.75, which corresponds to an interest rate of nearly 5 per cent. The weekly report of the Bank of France on Jan. 19 revealed that a trifle more than $12,000,000 in gold had been drained out that week. In the week ended Jan. 26 $4,000,000 was taken away.

That made a total decrease in the bank's gold reserve for the preceding six weeks of nearly $50,000,000. Note circulation beats all records, according to the Journal des Debats, with $3,400,000,000 worth. Tax receipts have failed to come up to estimates by $260,000,000, of which the German reparations represent $80,000,000, the remainder being a shrinkage caused by the growing crisis.

Figures just made public regarding commerce show that exports in 1932 totaled $787,729,440, compared to $1,217,432,760 in 1931. Imports in 1932 totaled $1,193,033,760, compared to $1,688,233,200 in 1931.

Krenn Loses His $24,000 Life Income

When Edwin Krenn, the Austrian architect who was the close friend of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick and chief heir to her estate, was discovered dining modestly in a cafeteria recently, he was there because it suited his purse.

The arrangement whereby Krenn was to receive a lifetime annuity of $24,000 in return for waiving his five-twelfths share in Mrs. McCormick's estate has been canceled.

Krenn has been restored to his status as principal heir to what was once listed as one of the great fortunes of the land. But the estate is in such shape that only a sudden return of prosperous conditions, with a consequent restoration of real estate values, will prevent a writing off of all assets as a complete loss.

Details of Negotiations Told.

These and other hitherto concealed facts concerning the settlement of Mrs. McCormick's estate were learned yesterday from an authoritative source. Details of the negotiations between the heirs and the executor of the estate were related in full.

When the will of Mrs. McCormick was made public last August after her death and Krenn was revealed as the chief beneficiary, his five-twelfths share was estimated to be worth from five to ten millions of dollars. His relinquishment of this fortune for $24,000 a year created much wonderment.

Examine Tangled Affairs.

But when the executor, the Chicago Title and Trust company, began examining the tangled affairs of the estate it was found that the estate could not even provide an income sufficient to pay Krenn his $2,000 a month. The architect was informed that his agreement to relinquish his share was not practical in view of the condition of the estate and that the other heirs, Mrs. McCormick's three children, were willing that he reassume his position as heir to five-twelfths of Mrs. McCormick's property.

Krenn found himself in an ironical situation. Nominally heir to a great estate, he is actually flat broke. There is no work for architects these days. He is still a resident at the Drake hotel.

Invests in Real Estate.

The fortune of Mrs. McCormick was once estimated to exceed $40,000,000. At that time it was composed largely of Standard Oil and other stocks. But with the real estate boom in Chicago, which began in 1922, Mrs. McCormick became interested in real estate development on a grand scale.

At the time of her death all her stocks were gone and most of her money was tied up in real estate, which was held by the Edith Rockefeller McCormick Trust. Most of this real estate is heavily mortgaged. Practically the only unincumbered property is the Villa Turicum at Lake Forest, a great mansion in the Italian manner, for which a buyer has been sought in vain.

An inventory filed in the Probate court last November showed personal property worth $1,032,000 at present values. Jewelry for which Mrs. McCormick was reputed to have paid more than $5,000,000 was valued at $777,000.

Many Claims Filed.

Against these assets stand a host of claims filed in the Probate court and suits filed in other courts charging default of interest payments on bonds of the McCormick trust and seeking foreclosure of the properties upon which they were issued. Huge taxes are due.

Under these circumstances the heirs have been advised that they need not expect much from the estate. Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard, the former Muriel McCormick, Mrs. Max Oser,

SEIZED IN HIS HOME; FREED ON $10,000 BOND

State Acts to Balk Trip to Europe.

Ernest J. Stevens, former president of the La Salle and Stevens hotels, and former vice president and director of the Illinois Life Insurance company, was arrested last night on a bench warrant charging conspiracy to defraud the insurance company of $1,000,000.

State's Attorney Courtney procured the warrant from Judge Philip L. Sullivan in Criminal court late yesterday upon learning that Stevens had applied for a passport and was planning to sail for Europe with his wife and three sons next Monday. Stevens was taken into custody in the presence of his family in his home at 1314 East 58th street.

Father and Brother Named.

Named as co-conspirators in the warrant are his 80 year old father, James W. Stevens, former chairman of the boards of the hotels and the insurance company, and his brother, Raymond W. Stevens, former president of the insurance company. All three institutions are now in receivership. More than $10,000,000 of the insurance company's assets were frozen in investments in securities of the two hotels.

The state's attorney declared that as James W. and Raymond W. Stevens had committed no overt act their immediate arrest was unnecessary. He revealed that the affairs of the insurance company, whose $150,000,000 in policies were the largest of any insurance company in the state, would be laid before the grand jury next Monday.

Although Mr. Courtney had ordered Stevens locked up on his arrest, the hotel operator escaped this. By appealing to friends he procured a $10,000 bond and arranged to have Judge Sullivan approve and sign it at the judge's home. With the bond approved, Stevens was driven in a squad car to the detective bureau, where he signed the bond and an arrest slip and was permitted to go home. The bond calls for his presence before Judge Sullivan on Monday.

Start Search for Stevens.

Upon issuance of the warrant Mr. Courtney instructed his chief investigator, Capt. Daniel J. Gilbert, to search for and arrest Stevens immediately and lock him up at the detective bureau. Two police squads, led by Lieut. Frank Johnson and Sergt. Frank Reynolds, set out on the search.

Lieut. Johnson, to whom Capt. Gilbert intrusted the warrant, took his squad to the Stevens and La Salle hotels and later to the office of the insurance company, 1212 Lake Shore drive, but failed to find Stevens. A visit to the office of Stevens' attorney, Henry P. Chandler, 30 North La Salle street, was likewise unproductive.

Sergt. Reynolds and his men had proceeded directly to the Stevens residence at 1314 East 58th street, a two story brick structure. A rap with the door knocker brought a maid, who, when the police showed their shields, closed the door in their faces.

Protests Against Arrest.

Another rap ten minutes later brought another maid, who, on instructions called from within the house by Stevens, admitted them. Announcing they were there to arrest Stevens, they requested him to come with them to the detective bureau. Stevens remonstrated with vehemence.

"Where's your warrant?" he demanded. "I've let you into my house, but I'm not going to let you take me out of here without a scrap of paper to show your authority. Show me your warrant and I'll go."

The policeman asked permission to use the telephone. Sergt. Reynolds called Capt. Gilbert at the Criminal court. The captain instructed him to keep the squad at the house, adding that he would soon hear from Lieut. Johnson and send him out with the warrant. Lieut. Johnson reached the home shortly after 3 p. m.

Reads Warrant to Prisoner.

There, while Mrs. Stevens stood aside in one corner and while the sons visited with chums upstairs, Lieut. Johnson read the warrant and informed the prisoner that he must go to the detective bureau to be fingerprinted and locked up until bailed out. In the warrant Judge Sullivan had fixed bond at $10,000.

"You don't want to do that," said Stevens, striving to retain good humor. "I'm not going to run away. Just give me a little time. I'll call up a bonding company, arrange for the $10,000 bail, and we can go to the home of some judge in the neighborhood to have it signed. There are several judges living in the vicinity.

Lieut. Johnson repeated that his orders called for producing the prisoner at the detective bureau. Stevens suggested that he telephone the Criminal court building for further orders, which Lieut. Johnson agreed to do. Meanwhile Stevens dispatched a servant for cigars and invited the policemen to make themselves comfortable.

Policemen Decline Cigars.

Stevens, a hotel man all his life and still manager of the Stevens and La Salle, was an affable host, but the policemen manifested discomfort. They declined his cigars and stood awkardly around the room while he telephoned Attorney Henry P. Chandler. Failing to reach Mr. Chandler, he called a neighbor, Attorney Thurlow G. Essington, who hastened to his aid.

Mr. Essington expressed dismay at the suggestion that Stevens be locked up. All that could be avoided, he said, by telephoning Judge Sullivan. Thus, while Stevens called an Evanston friend, C. E. Lane of the United States Fidelity and Guarantee company, Attorney Essington called Judge Sullivan. Mr. Lane promised to speed from Evanston with the bond forms and Judge Sullivan agreed to hold court and approve the bond at his home.

At 10:30 p. m. Mr. Lane arrived with the bond. At 11 o'clock the party arrived at Judge Sullivan's home, 7545 Phillips avenue, and fifteen minutes later, with the bond approved and signed by the judge, Stevens was en route to the detective bureau in a squad car. Attorney Essington trailed in his own automobile.

Taken to Detective Bureau.

Lieut. Johnson had agreed that the finger printing might be waived, but insisted that department rules called for the prisoner to sign his bond and state his name and address to the desk sergeant writing the arrest slip. "I'm only thankful that this happened to me instead of my father," Stevens observed.

Photographers' flash guns popped and cameras clicked as Stevens alighted from the squad car at police headquarters, 11th and State streets. Without flinching or covering his face he strode inside, gave his name and address to Sergt. John Russell and joined Attorney Essington in his car to be driven home. It was indicated that Patrick J. Lucey, former attorney general and former attorney for Samuel Insull, would represent him before Judge Sullivan Monday.

"It was a great surprise," Mr. Stevens told reporters. "I had no intimation—I don't know what it's all about. I wasn't planning to leave the country. I want to stay here and face it. The passport—that doesn't mean a thing. I thought I might have use for it sometime, that's all."

Preparing Case for Jury.

Mr. Courtney had about completed the evidence he proposed to lay before the grand jury concerning the abstraction of the insurance company assets to save the tottering hotels when the state department informed him yesterday afternoon of Ernest Stevens' plan to leave the country. The state department conveyed the same information to United States Attorney Green.

The information, verified by records in the passport bureau at the federal building, was that Mr. Stevens had applied for passports for himself, his wife, and three sons to leave for an unstated European port next Monday. The United States attorney was the first to act.

Summoning to his office Mr. Stevens and Attorney Chandler, the federal prosecutor informed them that if Mr. Stevens tried to leave the United States he would issue a subpœna calling for his appearance before the federal grand jury. The United States bureau of investigation, as well as the state's attorney, has been investigating the affairs of the Stevens family.

In view of Prosecutor Green's threat, Mr. Stevens agreed late in the afternoon to cancel his application for a passport. Apparently unaware of the developments at the state's attorney's office, he left the loop for one of his offices or his home.

Appear Before Judge.

Discovery of his intended European trip moved State's Attorney Courtney to the drastic action he took last night. Mr. Rittenhouse was ordered to prepare the warrant. Judge Sullivan was asked to remain in court after his regular adjournment hour to issue it. Mr. Courtney, Mr. Rittenhouse, and other assistants appeared before the judge at 5:15 p. m.

"Your honor, we are contemplating criminal action in regard to the Illinois Life Insurance company," Mr. Courtney announced. "We have discovered that one of the former officers of that company has applied for a passport and may leave the country.

"After an audit of the company's books the state's attorney has come to the conclusion that a crime has been committed by one of the officers accused, and we desire you, as a committing magistrate, to issue a warrant to make sure that the officer named shall be within the jurisdiction of this court when we proceed before the grand jury."

Judge Sullivan broke in.

"I take it that you have made an investigation and have not had opportunity to take the matter before the grand jury," he observed. "I presume it is your purpose to retain this man in this country."

Others Named in Warrant.

"Yes, and the others named," said Mr. Rittenhouse, alluding to the fact that the allegations in the warrant named James W. and Raymond W. Stevens along with Ernest, while not calling for their arrest. "These others have not attempted to get passports, and hence we are not concerned that they will leave this jurisdiction."

"How about the bond?" the judge inquired. "I see the amount of $10,000 set forth here. Isn't that a little excessive for a conspiracy charge?"

"No, indeed," said Mr. Rittenhouse earnestly. "If your honor knew the facts as I do, you would not think the bond excessive."

Thereupon the judge assented to the bond and signed the warrant. Mr. Rittenhouse turned it over to Capt. Gilbert, whose men were waiting outside the building in a squad car.

HALSEY-STUART OPENS ITS BOOKS FOR U. S. INQUIRY

Officials Capitulate to Senate Demand.

Officials of Halsey, Stuart & Co., La Salle street bond house, capitulated yesterday to the demand of the United States senate banking committee for the right of the committee's investigators to an unhampered scrutiny of Halsey-Stuart's records pertaining to the Insull crash.

Served Thursday night with a subpœna which would have compelled them to produce all their books before the senate committee at a hearing scheduled for next Monday in Washington, Halsey-Stuart officials agreed to permit James E. Stewart, chief of the senate investigating staff, to send his auditors into the Halsey-Stuart office during office hours or otherwise, and promised the investigators full coöperation.

Hearing Is Postponed.

The hearing scheduled for Monday has been postponed indefinitely, it was announced, with Harold L. Stuart, president of Halsey-Stuart, and C. T. MacNeille, vice president and secretary, agreeing to appear before the committee whenever the hearing is resumed.

Announcement of the compromise was made by Investigator Stewart on behalf of Senator Peter Norbeck [Rep., S. D.], chairman of the banking committee. The announcement was as follows:

"An agreement has been reached with the officials of Halsey-Stuart & Co., by which they will give our auditors free access to their offices and records, and such assistance as is necessary to permit a speedy checkup of the various matters we are interested in pertaining to the Insull companies.

"Pursuant to this agreement the hearing set for next Monday in Washington has been postponed, and when it is held only such records as may be pertinent will be requested. In the meanwhile the committee is holding both H. L. Stuart and C. T. MacNeille under subpœna, subject to call at a later date."

Mr. Stuart was in New York yesterday and Mr. MacNeille in Chicago. It is understood that Mr. Stuart, a former director of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and of the Corporation Securities company, plans to spend a few weeks in Florida before returning here.

Judge Transfers Jurisdiction.

Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley issued an order yesterday transferring jurisdiction of the Insull Utility Investment, Inc., and the Corporation Securities bankruptcy cases to his colleague, Judge George A. Carpenter.

Judge Lindley ordered the transfer in response to a petition brought by attorneys for the petitioning creditors of Insull Utility Investments, asking for a review of the ruling of Referee Garfield Charles, who disqualified Calvin Fentress as trustee of the bankruptcy company. The attorneys contend that the referee erred in disqualifying Mr. Fentress.

By returning the two cases to Judge Carpenter, who originally sent all Insull cases to him, Judge Lindley relieved himself of passing on the qualifications of Mr. Fentress, who has been receiver of Insull Utility Investments by his appointment. Judge Lindley retains jurisdiction of the receivership of the Middle West Utilities company.

Cites Press of Work.

"The greater part of the administrative and judicial work involved in the future in these two companies will be lodged in the referee," Judge Lindley stated.

"The press of my work in my own district and in Chicago is such that if the service of a judge shall be required, Judge Carpenter is probably in much better position to render prompt service than I. Consequently, I have suggested to him that I transfer this cause and its companion case, Corporation Securities company, to him for further administration."

Natives in Uprising

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LISBON, Portugal, Jan. 27.—Press dispatches today said that authorities have discovered a terroristic conspiracy among natives at Sao Paulo de Loanda, Angola [Portuguese West Africa]. The plot, directed by a native police corporal, was aimed at the extermination of the white race.

(Angola has an area of 486,071 miles with a 1,000 mile coast line and a population of 2,500,000 native blacks and about 40,000 Europeans, 90 per cent Portuguese. The military force is composed of 740 Europeans and 6,000 natives.)

Loanda metropolitan police, while searching for revolt leaders, shot at a mob of 50 Negroes, who returned the fire. One was slain and several were wounded. Police arrested several Negroes in connection with the deaths of five white persons.

HOOVER AND AIDS TO VISIT PANAMA AFTER MARCH 4

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Panama, Jan. 27.—President Hoover, Secretary of Interior Wilbur, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, the President's secretary, Lawrence Ritchie, and perhaps other cabinet members plan to visit Panama immediately after Franklin D. Roosevelt's inauguration, THE TRIBUNE correspondent was informed by the United States legation tonight. Tentative arrangements for their reception and entertainment are under way.

Mr. Hoover and his party are expected to sail from New York soon after March 4 aboard an American commercial vessel. They will stay at the Hotel Tivoli, where Theodore Roosevelt as well as William Howard Taft visited during construction days of the Panama canal. They will remain here ten days, returning by way of San Francisco.

Recalling Secretary Ritchie's success at deep sea fishing, it is believed that Mr. Hoover plans to spend several days fishing around Pearl islands.

PERU REPORTED READY TO ACCEPT PEACE FORMULA

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Jan. 27.—(AP)—It was learned on reliable authority tonight that strong international diplomatic pressure, directed at Peru, has resulted in that nation's virtual acceptance of a Brazilian formula for settlement of its dispute with Colombia over the seizure by Peruvians of the Colombian port of Leticia, on the Amazon river. A Colombian river flotilla which started from Manaos, Brazil, toward Leticia several days ago, has received orders to halt pending Peru's formal acceptance.

The Brazilian formula provides that the Peruvians evacuate Leticia in favor of Brazil. Brazil, within a week or two, would in turn hand over the border town to Colombia, whereupon negotiations would be opened for settlement of the entire Peruvian-Colombian boundary dispute.

Mussolini Picks Economic Expert to Guide Industry

ROME, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Alberto Beneduce, Italian expert, assigned to the world economic conference, today was appointed by Premier Mussolini to head the new institute for industrial reconstruction. A government subsidy of $4,500,000 a year for 20 years beginning next July was provided for liquidating industry.

MARTIN INSULL IS REARRESTED ON NEW CHARGE

Freed on $5,000 Bail in Toronto Court.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 27.—A surprise move today by the state of Illinois in its effort to secure the extradition of Martin J. Insull, former utilities official wanted in Chicago on embezzlement and larceny charges, had the effect of changing the scene of the impending extradition battle from the little town of Barrie, 60 miles north of here, to the larger and handier legal center of Toronto.

By prearrangement between John C. McRuer, acting for Insull, and Edward Bayly, deputy attorney general for Ontario, acting for Illinois, Insull came down to Osgoode hall from his home in Orillia today, and was introduced by McRuer to Detective Sergeant Ewing.

New Charge Added.

After a hearty handshake and a bow by the detective in the center of the Osgoode hall main corridor Ewing placed Insull under arrest on a new provisional warrant, citing the old charges of larceny and embezzlement, with the added charge of "theft by bailee"—that is, theft by a person of property which he holds for another. This new charge makes the former utilities operator liable to heavier penalties should he be extradited.

Insull then was taken before Justice Kingstone of the Ontario Supreme court, where his counsel, McRuer, strenuously objected to Insull's rearrest on charges already awaiting hearing at Barrie. Furthermore, he argued, the addition of a new charge made no difference, but Justice Kingstone held the proceedings to be legally proper.

At a preliminary hearing later in the afternoon Insull was released after posting $5,000 bail, which was said to be an addition to the $50,000 bail previously arranged at Barrie. Insull then returned to his Orillia boarding house to await first his formal reappearance in the Barrie court on Feb. 7 and then his tentatively arranged reappearance in the Toronto court on March 6.

Hasten Extradition Proceedings.

The next stage in the proceedings is to determine whether there is a prima facie case for Insull's extradition to Illinois. Bayly said today he will file depositions in the form required under the extradition act. Insull's counsel asserted he would introduce a motion that the depositions be not admitted.

It is the intention of the prosecution to appear before Judge Dudley Holmes at Barrie at the February hearing and withdraw the earlier charges with which Judge Holmes was dealing in the capacity of an extradition commissioner.

'VILLAGE NUISANCE' OF CICERO AGREES TO TURN NEW LEAF

Frank J. Kopecki, 44 years old, described as the "village nuisance of Cicero," promised Justice Thomas Zasadil yesterday that he would endeavor to keep the peace hereafter. Kopecki lives at 3204 South 53d avenue, Cicero, and is a coal dealer.

He was arraigned on charges of reckless driving, disorderly conduct, damaging village property and driving while intoxicated. Village Attorney Edward J. Carmody recited a long tale of civic grievances against Kopecki, and described him as the village nuisance.

"We're spending too much time and money on him," complained Carmody. "Police squads are going to his home two and three times a week to make him behave."

Justice Zasadil dismissed two charges against Kopecki, but fined him $100 on each of the other two. He suspended sentence on Kopecki's pledge to behave.

SCHWAB'S NIECE ELOPES WITH AN IDLE SALESMAN

Morristown, N. J., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Miss Mary Jane Schwab, niece of Charles M. Schwab, the steel manufacturer, eloped yesterday with Arthur Leonard Knowlton Jr., an idle bond salesman working for an expressman here, it was revealed today by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Schwab. Mr. Schwab is a brother of the steel man.

The couple were married in Easton, Pa., yesterday after driving there from Morristown. According to the bride's mother, young Knowlton called on Miss Schwab yesterday, as he frequently has, and asked her to take a ride with him in his car. Late in the evening she received a telephone call from her daughter, who announced that she and Mr. Knowlton had been married.

Both bride and bridegroom gave their ages as 23.

PLANT SHUTDOWN LAID TO BUSINESS RIVALS BY FORD

Auto Manufacturer Says He'll Whip Them.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 27.—(AP)—A statement published in the London Evening Standard quoted Henry Ford as attributing his suspension of work, rendering 100,000 men idle, to "certain of my competitors who are operating against me," was declared to be "substantially correct" tonight by officials of the Ford Motor company.

[The London Standard statement quoted Mr. Ford as saying: "The actual truth is that certain bankers are trying to obtain control of the Ford concern." A member of Mr. Ford's staff said today, however, the motor magnate had told him that was not exactly correct.]

Can't Continue Production.

When the Ford company announced its suspension yesterday, it stated it "no longer could continue production without bodies furnished by the Briggs Manufacturing company," whose plants were shut down early this week following a walkout of 6,000 employés.

The Standard quoted Mr. Ford as saying, in a trans-Atlantic telephone conversation that "certain of his competitors" were seeking to prevent another Ford car from leaving the factory.

"I know this and I know what to do about it," the Standard quoted Ford as saying. "They have succeeded for a few hours, but I am going straight out now and clean up this whole affair. I'll fight them and prove that production of Ford cars can't be stopped."

Steps Taken to End Strike.

Ford visited the Highland Park plant of the Briggs company today, unannounced, and soon announcement came from that company that steps had been taken to end the walkout there. A guaranteed base rate of pay was offered by the company.

"It was the biggest surprise of my career when I was informed last night that 6,000 employés of the Briggs company had walked out without giving any particular reason," the Standard quoted Ford as saying. "I have had difficulties in my early career, but this was the biggest jolt of all. The result of their action is that the Ford plant is closed down. There is a complete holdup."

Ford, the Standard said, declared he did not "blame the employés of Briggs."

"They want to work," he was quoted as saying. "Neither do I think an attempt is being made by any one to force me to place my motor car body contract with any other firm. As for my employés, there is not a man among them that would strike."

The Murray works, another of the important concerns furnishing the automotive trade with bodies, has been closed temporarily. It was explained that this was not due to labor troubles, but to the fact that certain parts used in their manufacturing had been obtained under patent from the Briggs plant and were no longer available.

BAR ROOSEVELT FROM RECEIVING PRESIDENT'S OATH, CRY OF W. C. T. U.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 27.—(AP)—The Davidson county [Nashville] W. C. T. U. at a meeting here today adopted resolutions providing for a committee "to write Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes to protest his administering the oath of office of President of the United States to Franklin D. Roosevelt."

The resolutions declared that President Elect Roosevelt "by open opposition to a part of the constitution of the United States had disqualified himself to 'preserve, protect and defend the constitution.'"

JURY CONVICTS HUMPHREYS ON GUN LAW CHARGE

Public Enemy No. 1 Faces Year's Imprisonment.

Murray Humphreys, new kingfish of Chicago's criminal syndicate, was found guilty yesterday of violation of the Illinois concealed weapon law. He faces a maximum sentence of 1 year in the House of Correction and a fine of $300.

A jury in Judge Harold P. O'Connell's court returned the verdict after fifty-five minutes of deliberation. Judge O'Connell deferred passing sentence until after arguments for a new trial are heard on Feb. 4.

"I'll bet five to one I'm found guilty," said Humphreys, whom Chief of Detectives Schoemaker recently called public enemy No. 1, when the jury retired. "I haven't a chance against Tony."

Refers to Mayor Cermak.

His reference was to Mayor Cermak, whose order to arrest all known hoodlums led to the seizure of Humphreys and nine other members of his gang.

The jury which convicted Humphreys was completed yesterday morning after eleven of the members spent the previous night in a loop hotel under police guard. The only evidence offered was the testimony of Detectives William Drury and John Howe, who arrested Humphreys and found the gun. They told the circumstances of the arrest. The gangster did not testify and no witnesses were called in his behalf by Defense Attorneys W. W. Smith and Everett Jennings.

In their closing arguments they declared the search of Humphreys was illegal and un-American. Prosecutor Charles S. Dougherty said it was the duty of the jury to destroy the "supergovernment that goes about the city armed.

"The people of the state of Illinois do not have to ask for a guilty verdict in this case; they demand it," Dougherty said in conclusion.

Ask for More Instructions.

"I'm not a public enemy," Humphreys said while awaiting the verdict. "I was given a bad name by the Employers' association because of my union affiliations."

Once during its deliberations the jury asked for further instructions from Judge O'Connell. By agreement of Prosecutor Dougherty and Attorneys Smith and Jennings the jury was directed to write out its request for information.

"Was the search of Humphreys legal or not legal?" came the written message from the jury room.

The legality of the search had been upheld by Judge O'Connell on Wednesday when he denied a motion of Humphreys' legal staff to suppress the evidence. His decision on this point was given before the jurors had been selected.

The prosecutor and defense lawyers agreed that the judge should not answer the question, but should give the jury a copy of the instructions he had read to them. The instructions stated that the question was not for the jury to consider. Five minutes later the verdict was returned.

"I expected it," said Humphreys. "I'll stake my chances with the Supreme court."

Expects Reversal by Court.

"I haven't the slightest doubt the Supreme court will reverse the decision," Attorney Jennings said later. "Humphreys was pulled into a room and searched. Such a proceeding is against the fundamental law and contrary to all Supreme court decisions guaranteeing a citizen against an unreasonable search of his person."

The motion for a new trial was entered and Humphreys was allowed to remain at liberty on bail.

Humphreys was arrested last Nov. 1 in a raid on a suite of offices in the One La Salle building. "Three Finger Jack" White, and Charles Fischetti were among those seized. Last week Fischetti was found guilty of violating the gun law and sentenced to a year's imprisonment. White is to go on trial next week.

JURORS ORDERED LOCKED UP AFTER THREAT RUMORS

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday ordered a police guard for a jury in Judge Philip L. Sullivan's court which will decide the fate of six men charged with the robbery of a gambling house. The jurors were locked last night in a loop hotel, guarded by a detail from the state's attorney's office.

The defendants are Edward Lambert, already under sentence to life imprisonment as a habitual criminal; Frank Eulow, Edward Kerbeck, Frank Dean, Joseph Egan, and Ralph La Porte. Policeman William Houser of the Sheffield avenue station was in a gambling den at 752 Barry avenue, in plain clothes, making an investigation, when the robbery occurred. It was charged that the robbers made their raid because the gambling house was not paying tribute to the syndicate. The defendants are specifically charged with robbing Houser of $5 and a diamond ring.

Because of the story of a witness in the case that he had once been threatened by "Three Finger Jack" White, Assistant State's Attorney Ross Lee Lairs asked Judge Sullivan to lock up the jury.

Doctors Examine Babies in Health Contest

NO DEPRESSION EVIDENCED BY THESE BABIES

Maternity Center Has Health Contest.

It was a busy day yesterday for the medical staff at the Chicago Maternity center, Maxwell street and Newberry avenue. For the health contest for the babies of the center was in progress.

Bundled in pink or blue blankets or old quilts, their cheeks pink from stinging sleet, the babies were carried into the center by their mothers and fathers. There were very tiny babies a month old, another group six months old, a third group 1 to 2 years old, and a special class for twins. Most of them forgot to cry when the photographers' flashlights boomed.

Babies a Healthy Lot.

More than one mother smiled proudly as she watched Dr. Joseph B. De Lee, who founded the center, lift her child to be photographed. Dr. De Lee, with Miss Edna Foley, superintendent of the Visiting Nurse association, and Dr. Arthur Abt, a member of the medical consulting staff, were the judges in the health contest.

"I never saw a healthier group of babies, considering that their parents are receiving relief and there isn't too much of anything in any of their homes," observed Miss Foley.

And from Dr. De Lee: "No mother that we have cared for has lost her life, since the Maxwell street dispensary was taken over by us and converted into the Chicago Maternity center last July 1. It is just as safe for a mother to have her baby at home as in a hospital if she has good care. When I helped found the old dispensary 38 years ago, it was to save the lives of mothers wasted needlessly by ignorant midwives, and give their children a good start. If we didn't have this center there would be a reversion back to those old heart breaking conditions."

Nurses Provide Clothes.

"Sometimes we find the mother hasn't even prepared a wardrobe for her baby, so the nurse adds a whole layette," said Miss Alice Port, one of the three supervisors. "The mothers are so grateful and appreciative. We take care of them every morning for nine mornings, show them how to care for their babies, the doctor prescribes a diet, and then the mother is told to come to the center within six weeks for examination."

Dr. Beatrice E. Tucker, medical director of the center, reported that during the 38 years the dispensary delivered 46,000 babies. Since July 1, when the Chicago Maternity center, 2,006 babies have been delivered without the death of a mother.

The health contest and party for the mothers was given by the Mothers' Service club, of which Mrs. Harry Kunin is president. Articles of clothing were awarded to the winners.

CLASS TEACHERS AT ARKANSAS U. AS 'FOREIGNERS'

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 27.—(AP)—After heated debate, the house today referred to the education committee a resolution by Representative Grant of Jackson county charging that "75 per cent of the instructors at the University of Arkansas are foreigners of the rankest kind and extreme northerners," and proposing an investigation for the purpose of ousting President John C. Futrall.

Charges that instructors were teaching theories "tending to help destroy our government interests" were contained in the resolution.

"It seems," the resolution said, "that about 75 per cent of the faculty are foreigners of the rankest kind, being big headed and thinking we southern people have no sense at all; . . . that it takes a half million dollars or more per year to pay salaries alone at the university to a bunch of people that have no use for us, and we pay them so much money that they go to foreign countries to spend their summer vacations, while we, who pay the bills, cannot take our wives out of the kitchens for the summer."

The resolution also states there is general dissatisfaction with the administration of President Futrall.

Irish Raise Cry For Republic as De Valera Victory Grows

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Returns from Tuesday's general elections late tonight finally gave President Eamon de Valera and his Labor allies a full majority in the new Dail Eireann.

The president's Fianna Fail party had 70 seats in the new legislature and Labor had 7. There are 153 seats in the dail, plus the speaker, who votes in ties.

There are 16 seats to come, and if Mr. de Valera can gain six or seven from them, as seems likely, his party will have a clear majority over everybody, including his allies.

The party standing: Fianna Fail, 70; Cumann na nGaedheal [the party of former President William T. Cosgrave], 42; Independents, 9; Center party, 9; Labor, 7.

Raise Cry for Republic.

Fortified by the tremendous increase in popular vote, Mr. De Valera, his friends believe, will consider that he has received an emphatic mandate to proceed on the way dear to his heart—the development of Ireland as an independent unit among the nations of the world, and further severance of the bonds that bind the Free State to the Anglo-Saxon island across the Irish sea.

In fact, some quarters already are raising a cry for a republic. The Irish Republican army's newspaper, the Republic, in its leading article today declared:

"Let the anti-Cosgrave vote be interpreted rightly as a vote for the Irish republic. Let us hear no more of bargains with England, but let us hear instead the rally cry 'on to the Republic.'"

Figures Show Great Victory.

The tremendousness of the De Valera victory is better illustrated by the popular vote than by the figures on seats in the new dail. In 24 constituencies the number of first preference votes cast for the Fianna Fail was 528,000 against 422,000 last year. The Cumann na nGaedheal polled 334,000 in those constituencies against 357,000 last year.

If, with the constituencies as they are, the voting had been along American presidential lines instead of by proportional representation, Mr. De Valera might easily have gained every seat in the dail. A landslide of any sort, however, is most difficult under the proportional representation system current in the Free State.

A third woman was assured of a seat in the new dail today. She is Miss Margaret Pearse, Fianna Fail candidate, elected in Dublin county. She is a sister of Padraig Pearse, who was executed in the 1916 rebellion. Other women assured seats are Mrs. H. Concannon of the Fianna Fail, and Mrs. W. A. Redmond, Cosgrave supporter and widow of the famous Waterford leader.

Ulster Sounds Warning.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Lord Craigavon, prime minister of northern Ireland, announced today that it was the firm intention of Ulster Loyalists to resist to the limit any attempt to include Ulster in any Irish republic.

The premier said he could not help thinking that the nationalist abstention from the Ulster [northern Ireland] senate and house was "dictated from elsewhere" and had close connection with the movement to create an all Ireland republic.

He wanted it to go forth, he said, that the Loyalists of the north "are thoroughly prepared to defeat any attempts to incorporate Ulster in such a republic, no matter what the sacrifices and inconveniences entail. Our people will rise in wrath and spurn with contempt every endeavor to subborn their allegiance to the British crown."

LOESCH ASSAILS ACQUITTAL OF VARNER CORRY

The acquittal of Varner Corry, 17 year old killer, was pronounced an "unwarranted action" yesterday by Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission. The youth was found not guilty of murder on Thursday by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Thomas J. Lynch. Corry admitted the fatal shooting of Policeman Edward Smith in the John Marshall High school on Memorial day, 1931, but offered the defense that he did not realize what he was doing."

"I consider the crime a wanton killing by a bad boy," Mr. Loesch said. "I believe Corry should have had some punishment. The state was not vicious and did not demand the death penalty. The fact that the boy killed the policeman was not questioned."

The only comment of State's Attorney Courtney was that it seemed to him that "the jury was moved by the fact that the boy had been in jail for 20 months." A previous trial heard by Judge Joseph Sabath without a jury resulted in a sentence of 18 years in the penitentiary for Corry. The decision was reversed by the state Supreme court.

AUDIT, AUDIT, WHO HAS THE AUDIT? IS WEST PARK DIRGE

Undertaker Is Hunting for Remains of System.

James O'Keefe, 4680 West End avenue, is an undertaker. Yesterday he was called upon to take charge of the "remains" of the west park system. As is customary he asked for the certificate.

O'Keefe was appointed a west park commissioner by Gov. Horner, but this gave him no authority to perform post-mortem examinations. He has been told that calamity has overtaken Humboldt park, Garfield park, Douglas park, and the connecting system of boulevards—a financial calamity. Crêpe had been hanging over the pay roll department and the cashier's window in the Garfield Park Administration building.

Skeleton in the Closet.

West park taxpayers know there is a skeleton in one of the closets of the west park system and they have demanded a search for the remains of what was once a healthy and thriving park system.

Fred W. Sargent, chairman of the citizens' committee, revealed that the remains have been found and duly examined by an auditor, George W. Rossetter, who is president of the Chicago Association of Commerce. Mr. Sargent and his committee at first attempted to resuscitate the financially stricken park system, but had thrown up their hands and said it was a hopeless job.

"But the audit?" said west park taxpayers. "Where and why did the money go?"

A Record of Delays.

Chronologically the history of the case follows:

Nov. 15, 1932. W. R. James, president of the west park board, said he was not authorized to discuss finances. D. F. Kelly, for the Sargent committee, said the committee, having been given access to the west park books, was in honor bound not to make public their contents.

Nov. 16. "It is too hot to give out," said another member of the committee of the park audit.

Nov. 17. Auditor Rossetter said the park board was his client and he could not tell on his client.

Nov. 18. Mr. Sargent said: "The west parks are hopelessly insolvent; I can say no more."

Nov. 19 [and for many days thereafter]. Business men demanded a showdown. They were told a promise had been made that the audit would not be made public in order not to embarrass the retiring state executive, Gov. L. L. Emmerson, who had appointed the members of the west park board. The governor wanted no scandal in the closing days of his administration.

Awaiting a New Deal.

Jan. 9. Gov. Horner was inaugurated. New requests were made for the audit. It would be given to the man who succeeded President James as head of the west park system, the public was advised.

Jan. 23 Harry Joseph, 5800 West Adams street, designated by Gov. Horner as the man to succeed James. Commissions were sent to other commissioners, including O'Keefe. Gov. Horner said he wanted audit made public.

Jan. 27. Secretaries of Sargent, Rossetter, Graham, et al. said they didn't know where the aforesaid men could be located.

"Audit? Audit? Audit?" the secretaries said. "Don't know anything about it."

Park Commissioner O'Keefe, in possession of the governor's appointment, was measured for a gold [illegible] to be given him by admiring Democrats of the 30th ward. He hunted up desk room in the Park administration building.

"Nothing is going to be buried until the cause of demise is put in writing," vowed Commissioner-Undertaker O'Keefe.

AIR RACE TO CATCH ATLANTIC LINER WON BY CHICAGO WOMAN

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—A race against time was won today when Mrs. J. Sterling Getchell of Chicago climbed the gangplank of the Cunard liner Berengaria shortly before the vessel sailed for Europe.

Hastening to the bedside of her mother, who is ill in England, Mrs. Getchell started from Chicago by plane to catch the Berengaria, which was expected to leave its pier at the foot of West 30th street about midnight Thursday, the customary sailing hour.

Bad weather forced Mrs. Getchell's plane down at Cleveland. Snow over the Pennsylvania mountains prevented her from continuing her journey by air and she caught the first train out of Cleveland for Schenectady.

Meanwhile her husband, who was awaiting her arrival in New York, made futile efforts to hire a seaplane.

Roaring away from the Newark airport late last night, Mr. Getchell met his wife at Schenectady in the early morning hours and had his pilot immediately turn back for New York. The plane landed at Newark, where an automobile was waiting to rush Mrs. Getchell to Manhattan.

She reached the Berengaria at 5:30 a. m. Fortunately for her, tidal conditions had held the big liner at her dock for six hours and she did not get away until daybreak.

DEMOCRATS END TYDINGS PLANS FOR 25% SLASH

Caucus Draws Up a New Economy Promise.

the 1934 deficit will be at least 820 millions and to balance the budget would require a 40 per cent cut of the items exclusive of 735 millions interest, 311 millions trust funds and fixed obligations, and 305 millions contracts for public works.

A 40 per cent cut would mean reducing the army and navy 245 millions, veterans 375 millions, and miscellaneous 206 millions, which he regarded visionary.

Senator Arthur Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] twitted Tydings on changing his attitude since his party caucus.

"I didn't become wet after my party got wet," retorted Tydings. "Look in the mirror and you will see some one who has changed his mind."

MAPS FEDERAL ECONOMY

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—President Elect Roosevelt announced today that he has a large number of economists at work on the preparation of a three point program for lopping off the extravagances of the federal government. He said he wanted the program ready so he can wield his pruning knife immediately after March 4.

The business of bringing down government expenses will proceed, Mr. Roosevelt said, on three factors, which are:

1. Reduction of personnel.
2. Consolidation of government agencies.
3. Abandonment of government functions.

Sherley Directs Program.

All of the experts working on the Roosevelt economic program are clearing their efforts through Swager Sherley, former Kentucky congressman who has been given the burden by the President elect of coördinating the work and reporting the results concisely to Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Sherley was the war time chairman of the house appropriations committee having control over the spending of the huge sums employed during the war.

In the cutting down of the great army of federal pay rollers, the President elect said a system of staggering employment among the largest possible number of workers may be followed, although he said ultimately the army will be substantially reduced.

The President elect has indicated that wherever possible in the interests of efficiency and economy, he will consolidate the many bureaus in the federal system. He has already formulated a plan for grouping the governmental activities in transportation and communications under single bureau heads.

Not Specific on Third Point.

In connection with the third point of his economic setup the President elect was asked if he favored abandonment of the paternalistic functions of the government, but he declined to discuss the proposals specifically.

He did say that many present activities of the government are "luxuries," which might be permissible, he said, in flush times, but which now should be cut out to save revenue, and also because "they are being done better by private agencies."

He emphasized that he desires the program to be fully completed by the time of his inaugural, that immediate steps to put it into effect may be taken, and he declared he proposed conferring almost daily with Mr. Sherley on the program being made.

Maryland, My Maryland, Is Washington's Source of Joy

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The capital of the United States does not seem to be a city in which a policeman may expect to earn a dollar by walking on the other side of the street and minding his own business.

From the testimony of many residents it must be a hard drinking community, but there are no speakeasies of any permanence and the violations of the eighteenth amendment are carried on in the privacy of the home, mostly with materials supplied by mysterious bootleggers who specialize in a wine of the country known as Maryland rye.

Furnishes Southern Atmosphere.

Maryland rye is a form of hootch with the unmistakable gasoline taste of southern corn. It is bottled in square face Mason jars and two drinks may set a Scandinavian from Minnesota to babbling about his ol' colored mammy down home who taught him that powdered frog bones was a sho cure for the misery if you was to take a pinch of the same in the da'k of the moon. Does you drink you some corn you gits south'n, honey, and everything is magnolias and honeysuckle.

Being no detective, the customer does not know where his Maryland rye is made nor what goes into the making of it. He telephones to a friend for the bootlegger's name and telephone number and when he calls the number a woman's voice answers. She takes the order and calls back the customer's friend to check up.

Extensive Relay System.

She then relays the order to another number and it may then be relayed to still another number before it reaches the bootlegger. But they are very prompt and within thirty minutes a man arrives with a package done up in a shoe box. Price $5

By bouncing the business around from phone number to phone number the purveyors make things very difficult for the prohibition people, including the Washington police, who have a prohibition detail in each precinct.

The policemen have no crime problem comparable to those of other cities, so they spend much time and ingenuity trying to provoke the bootleggers into violations contrary to the recently expressed disapproval of the United States Supreme court and trap them when they respond.

A few days ago two detectives phoned an order and hid in the doorway of an apartment until the bootlegger drove up in his flivver. There was a woman with him who recognized the detectives as they stepped out of the hall.

She smashed the Mason jar in the street, but the law had come equipped with a sponge and thus sopped up a few drops, which were then squeezed into a vial and which now will go through the solemn routine of grand jury proceedings and a trial in court.

Other Stuff to Be Had.

The bootleggers also offer Scotch and rye of the standard New York and Philadelphia bootleg brands, presumably run down by sea from St Pierre and rolled into Washington by car. This merchandise is expensive, however, and is regarded as a luxury. The entire volume of Maryland rye must be enormous, because it is the standard drink of the respectable classes and the demand is constant from a big clientele.

There was for a time considerable household trade in the wine bricks which were sold with a solemn warning that they must not be put away in a charred keg for a certain length of time, with a cake of yeast for stiffening, because in that case the product would turn to wine of illegal alcoholic content. But, like all the other grape pulp products, the wine bricks produced more vinegar than wine and they have been generally abandoned.

Raw alcohol, probably recooked to eliminate the government's poisons, is the basis of another beverage in general use. Diluted with ginger ale and seasoned with lemon juice, it is not much different from the gin highball familiar elsewhere.

Few Speakeasies Run.

There have been a few speakeasies in Washington, but they are risky business and do not last long. There was a long bar in operation in a side street not far from the capitol a few weeks ago with hard boiled eggs in a glass bowl on the lunch counter and Baltimore beer on draft. There were also some slot machines.

A return visit after a couple of weeks revealed, however, that the law had been around and "kicked over" the place, which was just as well. The Baltimore beer was flat and soggy and the speakeasy was so secret that every chink was calked with soundproofing. This made it airtight and very uncomfortable.

It is an old story that "legation stuff" is to be had conveniently in Washington and, considering the broke condition of so many foreign diplomatic hands, especially the minor employés, it is strange that the legations do not compete with the local bootleggers. The diplomatic representatives of the banana republics are supposed to be especially generous with their supplies which come in free of the law.

However, as a popular source of supply they are negligible. A statesman, of course, has opportunities in this respect which are not open to newspaper people, who comprise a considerable group in the social life of Washington, or inferior government employés. There is no reason for any statesman to serve Maryland rye in his own home.

Horse Betting General.

The next favorite vice of the capital seems to be horse betting. The tracks of Maryland are close enough to inflame their interest, and my informant on this topic whom we will call Mr. Joe Nightlife, himself, states that the bookmakers have regular routes through the government offices.

They do a notion counter business, but a large turnover makes it worth while and one department chief found the betting to be such a nuisance that he barred out a bookmaker who had developed a fine clientele by patient, courteous service over several years. So the bookmaker had to take in a partner who could pose as a bewildered taxpayer going from desk to desk unwinding red tape in search of his rights.

There are a few horse rooms with blackboards and one crap table. In case of a raid the apron containing the crap layout is yanked off the table and stuffed away somewhere, and so far as the blackboard is concerned all present pretend that they are just playing school. In all such places almost everywhere it is customary for the customers and management to keep their hats on and, in season, their overcoats as well. When the raid comes, then the crew of the room are indistinguishable from any one else.

No Political Pull.

Having no voters, no precinct leaders or aldermen, Washington is almost impossible to organize. If a man is arrested there is nobody that he can call up, and the law deals heavily with offenders in the lower brackets. A colored boy out of a job recently got 90 days for stealing a few pennies off an honor system news stand, which served him right, of course, as stealing is wrong.

If he had been a congressman's son or aged pappy he might have been put on the government's pay roll for $2,500 a year, with nothing to do for the money but just stay home in Texas or Florida and set and set. But that would not be stealing. The law allows that.

BANKING CHIEF SHIES AT BRITISH RETURN TO GOLD

See McKenna's Speech as Reply to Roosevelt.

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Optimism for the future of England was voiced today at the annual meeting of the Midland bank, one of Great Britain's "big five," in a speech delivered by Reginald McKenna, former chancellor of the exchequer and a prominent candidate for a place on the British war debts mission to the United States.

But the flush of hope McKenna saw over Great Britain and a few other countries lost its bloom when his gaze turned to the United States, France and the other gold standard countries. There, he observed, prices are still falling. He also noted difficulties in balancing national budgets not encountered by nations which have followed sterling into unmapped regions of loose currencies.

Opposes Return to Gold.

As one of the chief financial advisers of the British government and the likeliest economic expert on the debts delegation which Britain will send to the United States next March, McKenna's opinions on Britain and gold are considered important.

He said Britain would not return to the gold standard until the country is assured that the events of September, 1931 [when Britain abandoned gold], would not be repeated. This is an answer to the generally accepted belief in London that President Elect Roosevelt will offer a reduction in the war debt in return for Britain's return to the gold standard.

McKenna also took up cudgels on behalf of inflation and the virtues of managed currencies.

Says Conditions Are Better.

"We meet today in conditions distinctly better than a year ago, notwithstanding the persistence of a deplorably high level of unemployment," he said. "Our national finances are sound, a marked reduction has been made in the balance of imports over exports, the volume of business has been fairly maintained, new industries have been established, and, although exchange and other restrictions are stifling trade with foreign countries, there are signs of steady development in interimperial trade.

"This unmistakable improvement at home certainly has not been helped by events abroad. Hopes arising from the Lausanne conference have vanished in the face of disappointment regarding war debts to America. Political uncertainty in many countries has clouded the prospect of recovery.

Gold Countries Worse Off.

Turning to gold, McKenna said there is only a superficial resemblance of conditions now to those immediately after the war. Then currencies were forced off gold, now gold is deserting money. He said:

"We have had the experience now of sterling divorced from gold over sixteen months. Nothing catastrophic has happened. A number of other countries are using sterling as their standard. The clear evidences of improvement in a number of countries off the gold standard have no counterpart in those still on gold, whose position, generally speaking, has become worse.

"To take a particular example, the level of business activity in the United States is officially declared as considerably lower in 1932 than a year earlier, whereas in Great Britain the level has been practically maintained."

McKenna urged internal price lifting by means of debasing sterling.

"Controlled inflation, instead of being the remedy of fools and knaves, has become widely regarded as the best available solution to our troubles," he said.

"It is, I believe, possible to achieve a rise in the internal price level by monetary management, and I am unshaken in this opinion by the frequent charge that 'reflation' already has been tried and found wanting by Great Britain and the United States. Deliberate monetary management specifically designed to raise the price level has not been tested in either country."

Bullitt Sees Paul-Boncour.

PARIS, Jan. 27.—(AP)—William C. Bullitt conferred with Premier Paul-Boncour last night, the foreign office disclosed today. A foreign office spokesman said Mr. Bullitt had arrived yesterday ostensibly as an emissary of Col. Edward M. House instead of as a direct envoy of President Elect Roosevelt, and that he was received out of courtesy for the previous roles he has played in American poltics.

Poland to Send Envoys.

WARSAW, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Poland expects to send a delegation to the United States to discuss the debt problem, M. Holynski, a member of the chamber of deputies, said today during a discussion of the treasury department budget in the budget commission of the sejm.

DAY IN WASHINGTON

[By the Associated Press.]

Senate Democrats ditched proposal to cut appropriations to exact total of estimated revenue, agreeing on less drastic economy policy.

House passed new first deficiency bill totaling little more than $3,000,000 after eliminating $28,000,000 for tax refunds.

Senate manufacturers committee reported 500 million dollar unemployment relief bill, including federal aid to states.

House appropriations committee reported independent offices bill carrying $18,000,000 increase for veterans.

House amended justice department supply bill reducing funds for prohibition administration, forbidding use of undercover men, purchase of evidence, and wire tapping.

Sir Ronald Lindsay planned to return to London to discuss impending war debts negotiations.

SENATOR GLASS CONGRATULATED ON CABINET JOB

Denies He Has Accepted Treasury Post.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] was overwhelmed with congratulations by fellow senators and others today on his selection by President Elect Roosevelt for secretary of the treasury, a post he held in the Wilson administration. He was pleased at the attention he received, but told everybody that "there is not a word of truth" in the reports that he has accepted the offer.

He did not deny, however, that he had received the offer of the cabinet place. Nor did Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.] deny that he had been offered the post of attorney general in the Roosevelt cabinet. He is understood to have the offer under consideration, gossip having it that he would prefer to be secretary of state.

Three Are Mentioned.

For the office of state, the men most widely mentioned have been Owen D. Young, Norman H. Davis, and Bernard M. Baruch, all of New York. Mr. Young, it has been reported, might be prevented from accepting a cabinet office because of the fact that his business connections demand his continued services.

If reports be true, there revolves around the person of former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia considerable maneuvering in connection with cabinet offices. Mr. Byrd, a vice chairman of the Democratic national committee and a strong supporter of Mr. Roosevelt during the campaign, is a dominating factor in Virginia politics. It is said that Mr. Byrd is anxious to come to the senate and that when six weeks or more ago it was suggested to him he might have the office of secretary of agriculture in the Roosevelt cabinet he immediately said that if Virginia was to have a cabinet office it should by all means go to one of the two Virginia senators, Senator Glass or Senator Swanson.

Should Senator Glass become secretary of the treasury, that would leave Mr. Byrd in a position to enter the senate. In the event that Senator Glass did not wish to become secretary of the treasury, Senator Swanson might be prevailed upon to accept the office of secretary of the navy, it is thought. There, too, the way would be made clear for Mr. Byrd to enter the senate.

The navy portfolio, if Senator Swanson remains in the senate, may go to former Senator Gerry of Rhode Island or to Mayor James M. Curley of Boston.

Henry Wallace of Des Moines, Ia., son of the late secretary of agriculture of the Harding administration, will get the office of secretary of agriculture, it is believed here.

DEFICIENCY BILL IS PASSED BY HOUSE AFTER ALTERATIONS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special]—The house today passed a renovated first deficiency bill from which the $28,000,000 appropriation for tax refunds and the McKellar amendment providing for congressional approval of all refunds had been eliminated.

The measure as originally passed, was vetoed by the President several days ago with the demand that the tax refund amendment be eliminated. The house voted to sustain the veto, sent the bill back to committee, and finally passed the new version reported today.

Minus the 28 millions for tax refunds, the bill now goes to the senate carrying only $3,756,535, as compared with the $31,756,535 it provided when first sent to the White House for the President's signature.

Mayor Will Take Action Against Slot Machines

Mayor Cermak announced yesterday that action would be taken against the slot machine evil. "Chicago is flooded with these machines," he said, "and a lot of them are owned by hoodlums. Many are installed near public schools to catch the nickels and dimes of school children. Seven blanket injunctions prevent the police from seizing most of these machines. I'm going to ask the law department to consult the judges which issued those injunctions, and see if permission cannot be obtained to seize all machines which are unquestionably gambling devices."

ABLIN 'GLAD HAND' IDEA MAKES HIM A POLICE GUEST

David [Cockeye Mulligan] Ablin, the racketeer, spent an uncomfortable day yesterday in the custody of Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker. He was lined up with other prisoners under the glare of the lights in the police showup at the detective bureau, where victims of crimes were allowed to look him over.

Today, according to Daniel J. Gilbert of the prosecutor's staff, Ablin will be given an opportunity to meet State's Attorney Courtney. Capt. Gilbert will take charge of Ablin and show him to his boss and to the police of the state's attorney's staff. After that Ablin may be given his freedom, the captain said.

Prosecutor Courtney is investigating Ablin's latest racket, the organizing of the filling station owners. Last Wednesday night, while the state's attorney was in a loop restaurant, Ablin tried to introduce himself to Mr. Courtney. The two day police program was arranged for Ablin after Capt. Gilbert told his superior the identity of the "gladhander."

Ablin, who surrendered at the detective bureau voluntarily, told Chief Schoemaker that he planned to take only $30 a week from his rackets.

"Baloney," remarked the chief as he ordered Ablin locked up.

ROW AT MORTON HIGH BECOMES A WAR OF PETITIONS

A war of petitions, one set demanding the resignations of the trustees of the J. Sterling Morton High school and the other seeking approval for their conduct, is being waged in Cicero, Berwyn, Lyons, and Stickney, the four towns served by the school.

The petitions designed to oust the board have been in circulation for ten days and 12,000 signatures have been obtained. When 25,000 names are registered the petitions will be submitted to Gov. Horner for action.

At a meeting of officials of the Parent-Teacher association and the citizens' committee in the office of Dr Henry Stimson, 6820 Windsor avenue Berwyn, president of the citizens' committee, it was charged last night that the petitions upholding the board were intended to deceive signers.

"These petitions are identical in shape and appearance to ours," said Chester H. Bragg of the Parent-Teacher association. "Many people are signing them in the belief that they are demanding the board's resignation."

The petitions seeking the board's resignations charge that the trustees have permitted the Morton High school to be discredited with the North Central association, hampered the orderly management of the school, operated the school at an excessive cost, summarily discharged the superintendent of the school without a fair trial, and failed to coöperate with civic organizations to correct the evils in the school.

WANTS DIVORCED HUSBAND TO CARE FOR INSANE WIFE

Martin Nordegg, an investment banker of Ottawa, Canada, appeared yesterday before Judge James J. Kelly on a petition to set aside the divorce which Arthur G. May, 1129 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, obtained from his daughter, Mrs. Marcelle N. May, in February, 1932. In his petition Nordegg charges that his daughter was insane and confined in a sanitarium in Hohemark, Germany, at the time the divorce was granted.

The petition was filed last May. Yesterday Nordegg and his attorney, Arthur L. Hall, presented depositions from German alienists as to the condition of Mrs. May. Dr. Leopold Frey, 2304 Roscoe street, also testified that he examined Mrs. May two years ago when she was passing through Chicago on her way to Germany, and stated that he believed her a victim of dementia praecox.

Mrs. May's mind became unbalanced, her father contends, after she had been trapped in Tientsin, China, with her 7 year old son during the revolution of 1927. May was then a representative of the Standard Oil company in China. He obtained a divorce on grounds of desertion, and was granted custody of the son, Walton, now 12 years old.

"I only want to assure myself that provision will be made for the care of my daughter," Nordegg told Judge Kelly. "I am willing to allow the divorce to stand if an arrangement can be made for the payment of alimony for her support after my death."

Judge Kelly took the case under advisement.

AURORA HEIRESS GETS A DIVORCE FROM G. S. ABBOTT

A decree granting a divorce to Mrs. Emma Frankie Chapman Abbott, 61 years old, an Aurora heiress, from George S. Abbott, former New York theatrical man, was signed yesterday by Circuit Judge William J. Fulton in Geneva. A jury had upheld the charge of desertion of Mrs. Abbott and dismissed the adultery charge of the husband.

The decree was signed after Judge Fulton had overruled the motion of Abbott for a new trial. Attorneys for the husband argued that Mrs. Abbott had no legal right to bring suit in Illinois. Her residence, they said, is in New York, where the only ground for divorce is adultery.

Attorney George Carbary, state's attorney of Kane county, who represented Mrs. Abbott, held that a wife has a legal residence with her husband although she is not living with him. Judge Fulton ruled with Attorney Carbary. Attorneys for the husband announced that they would appeal. Mrs. Abbott is the daughter of Matthew Chapman, who was the head of the American Well Works of Aurora, and who left an estate of $750,000 when he died in 1921.

AUTHOR DORSEY ESTATE SHRINKS IN STOCK LOSSES

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Dr. George A. Dorsey, author, left an estate appraised today at $31,630 gross and $18,199 net, but the appraisal included $13,774 as the value of 509 shares of Kreuger & Toll stock at the time he died, on May 29, 1931. He had four other stock holdings found to be worthless, while no present value was found for four of his books. His library was appraised at $540 and he had personal effects worth $793. He gave his estate to his widow, Susan Dorsey. One of his books was entitled "Why We Behave Like Human Beings."

JUDGE WEIGHS DIVORCE PLEA OF MRS. WM. LOEB JR.

Mineola, N. Y., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Supreme Court Justice Paul Bonynce reserved decision today after hearing final testimony in the divorce action brought by Mrs. Elizabeth Loeb, 35, against William Loeb Jr., son of the secretary to the late President Theodore Roosevelt. They were married March 29, 1926, at Petersburg, N. Y.

Mrs. Loeb, who resides in Brookline, Mass., and is an instructor in philosophy at Smith College for Women at Northampton, Mass., charged Loeb, who is seven years her junior, with misconduct in November, 1931.

Loeb denied the allegations of misconduct. In answer to her application for $200 a month alimony Loeb declared he receives $25 a week as a representative of the Army and Navy Journal.

Mrs. Loeb has brought suit against Mr. and Mrs. William Loeb Sr., alleging alienation of her husband's affections.

HOUSE SLASHES 17 PER CENT OFF DRY LAW FUND

Votes Out Stool Pigeons and Wire Tapping.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The rising tide of wet protest against the "abuses" of national prohibition today swept through the house three amendments slashing the federal dry enforcement fund by approximately 17 per cent below the appropriation for the fiscal year 1933.

One amendment called for a straight appropriation reduction below the budget estimates for the current year. The others effected slashes through banning the use of federal funds for financing wire tapping activities of dry agents, the use of "stoolpigeons" as informers, and the purchase of intoxicating liquor to be used as evidence in dry law prosecutions.

13 Per Cent Below Hoover Budget.

Senate approval of the house action today would mean that the prohibition unit would have $8,440,000 for its dry enforcement activities for the 1934 fiscal year beginning July 1.

This sum is $1,510,000 below the appropriation being expended this year and $1,59,943 below the sum recommended for next year's activities by President Hoover in the budget. The slash thus represents a 13 per cent cut below the Hoover estimates and approximately 17 per cent below dry expenditures in the fiscal year of 1933. The dry bureau is spending $10,250,000 this fiscal year.

The shearing of the dry enforcement fund climaxed a two hour verbal slugging match between wets and drys, during which prohibition took one of the severest lacings of its 13 year career. The organized wets first attempted to knock out the whole prohibition enforcement fund. This failing, they obtained a favorable house vote on an amendment to the pending four department bill, including the department of justice, reducing the federal dry war chest from the $9,120,000 recommended by the appropriations committee to $8,440,000. Previously the committee had clipped $479,944 from the budget prohibition fund before reporting it to the house.

New Yorker Fires First Blast.

The vote on the house cut today was 129 to 118. A move to cut the enforcement fund to $7,799,956 was defeated by 138 to 113. Wire tapping was knocked out, 132 to 107. An amendment ending paid informers and liquor purchases was approved by 132 to 78.

Following the schedule announced yesterday, Representative Anthony Griffin [Dem., N. Y.] fired the first blast for the wets with an amendment to cut 20 per cent from the amount carried in the bill. This proposal was defeated by the close vote of 113 to 128. The wets, however, immediately submitted another amendment to knock 7 per cent of the bill's recommendation. It was this amendment which carried, 129 to 118, amid cheers from the wet ranks.

The liquor purchase and informer amendment was submitted by Representative Malcolm C. Tarver [Dem., Ga.], normally a dry, with the explanation that he offered it as a "friend of prohibition" who could not countenance "despicable and contemptible" methods of enforcement.

Tells of Thousands Drinking.

Mr. Tarver's brief speech in support of his amendment climaxed two hours of heated debate. Into it he brought the now famous barbecue held by the National Press club on the Maryland shore last spring.

"I recall that barbecue," said Mr. Tarver. "Barrels and barrels of beer were brought in and thousands of people stood around drinking it. Hundreds of members of congress were there. I did not drink any, but from my observations it was apparent that it was intoxicating. Gentlemen, why should we spend money in petty, despicable, enforcement methods when the law is openly violated in the presence and with the good will of thousands, hundreds of them members of congress?"

'CUSTOMER' ROBS DIAMOND BROKER OF $10,000 GEMS

Albert Solomon, a diamond broker with offices at 5 North Wabash avenue, was robbed of unset diamonds valued at $10,000 yesterday in room 419 of the Mallers building, 5 South Wabash avenue. He had gone there to show the stones to a man who had rented the office two weeks ago under the name of Charles A. Goldberg and who had represented himself as a jeweler.

Solomon told police that he was met by two men, who told him that Goldberg was out but was expected to return shortly. They asked to see the diamonds, Solomon said, and drew revolvers when he produced them. Solomon was bound with tape and gagged.

A police search was started for the tenant of the office. The office had the name Goldberg on the door and contained a table and an empty showcase and several chairs. Police questioned other jewelers in the building and learned that Goldberg had told them that he was just starting in business and wanted to establish contact with a reliable diamond broker.

GUARD BANKER'S 2 HOMES FROM EXTORTIONERS

Both the Chicago and Lake Forest homes of Solomon A. Smith, president of the Northern Trust company, were being guarded yesterday as a result of new threats to kill the banker unless he paid extortioners $5,000.

A note was received on Wednesday ordering that the money be put by the gate of the Lake Forest residence at 1185 North Elm Tree road. Lake Forest police and representatives of the Secret Six, the organization which has been investigating the Smith extortioners for two months without results, took up a vigil there and were still guarding the home last night.

Yesterday the Chicago police, for the first time, were asked to protect the Chicago home of Mr. Smith at 1242 Lake Shore drive. Chief of Detectives Schoemaker at once ordered a guard detailed there.

On Nov. 9 a bomb was received at the Lake Shore drive home.

33d National Auto Show Will Open Today

33D NATIONAL AUTO SHOW WILL OPEN HERE TODAY

Expect 65,000 Out of Town Visitors.

BY HAL FOUST.

The Thirty-third National Automobile show will open in the Coliseum at 3 o'clock this afternoon and will remain open tonight until 10:30 o'clock. Tomorrow, and thereafter until next Saturday night, the hours will be from 10 a. m. to 10:30 p. m.

This exhibition by America's largest manufacturing industry initiates the stimulated activity of the World's Fair year in Chicago.

Expect 65,000 Visitors.

Ten thousand automobile men were moving into local hotels yesterday to launch their 1933 sales campaigns. Sixty-five thousand out of town visitors, outside of the trade, are expected in the city for the show.

The displays, 250 passenger cars and chasses, were being hauled into the Coliseum yesterday and last night. They represent the latest advancements in highway vehicles, automobiles improved in style and engineering and with reduced prices.

Show Itself Improved.

It's an exhibition that speaks volumes for the aggressiveness of the industry in combating the depression. Ingenuity, inventiveness, and effort were doubled in 1932, while sales dropped to the lowest since 1918. The result is an improved product, uniformly faster, safer, better looking, and more economical.

The show itself, as a show, has been improved. Displays demonstrate and dramatize new mechanical devices. Other displays are dressed up with the finish of a stage presentation. If the New York edition of the automobile show is an accurate basis for a forecast, the Coliseum today, tomorrow, and next week will hold as large crowds as during the boom years. The public's acquisitive interest in motor cars has not diminished.

BLAST WRECKS BANKER'S HOME; 4 HURT; HUNT 2

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 28 [Saturday].—(AP)—Four members of the family of John M. Di Silvestro, prominent banker and national president of the Sons of Italy, were critically injured today in an explosion which demolished their three story home in South Philadelphia.

Mrs. Di Silvestro and a woman secretary, believed to have been buried in the ruins, have not been found. A son and three daughters of Di Silvestro were dragged from the wreckage and taken to hospitals.

The blast rocked the neighborhood and was heard in suburban sections miles away. Police expressed the opinion it had been caused by a bomb and attributed it to discord they said had been rife in the Sons of Italy organization for months.

Di Silvestro was not at home at the time, but arrived about five minutes after the explosion in time to aid in the rescue.

Di Silvestro, a personal friend of Premier Mussolini, returned with his family two days ago from a four months' trip to Italy.

Fete Awaits Homecoming of Larry O'Brien from Prison

Chicagoans yesterday were being invited to pay $2.50 each for the privilege of attending a welcome home party for Lawrence C. O'Brien, former state legislator, upon his release next month from Leavenworth penitentiary. The near north side was reported to be quite stirred up about it.

O'Brien was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment for failure to pay income taxes amounting to $102,368, with penalties, on his income of $436,000 in the years 1926, 1927, and 1928. In addition he was fined $6,000.

Profits in Whoopee Era.

Much of his income was derived from Sanitary district contracts in the days when Timothy J. Crowe, now under sentence of imprisonment, was president of the district board and dispensing millions with a lavish hand. O'Brien's defense was that he didn't believe the law would compel him to pay a tax on money derived from taxing bodies like the sanitary district, Lincoln park and the City of Chicago.

For 14 years O'Brien had been a member of the state legislature, representing the 29th district.

Party Has $5,000 Surplus.

When it came time for him to go to Leavenworth the boys of the district gave him a farewell party and they had $5,000 left over from the ticket sale after the food bill was paid. "Larry" went to prison Dec. 11, 1931, and with time off for good behavior is expected to emerge Feb. 11.

So the boys were preparing last night. And the word was that some pressure was being used in forcing tickets upon unwilling purchasers.

A note of discord in the program, however, was that Larry's return to Democracy promises to be not altogether pleasant for all concerned. He had resented the fact that Ald. Dorsey Crowe and Ward Committeeman William J. Connors were unable to exert enough influence to save him from prison.

Forfeits His Citizenship.

O'Brien's return is scheduled for Feb. 12, and the party to be held at the Medinah Athletic Club building, now in receivership, on Feb. 21, comes a week previous to the aldermanic election of Feb. 28. So the ward is agog, knowing there will be a counting of noses, and the folks are wondering if it will be safe to attend or safer not to attend.

Unless his citizenship is restored, O'Brien will be ineligible to vote or hold office because of his conviction of a felony, but he has announced his intention of reëntering politics.

GEORGE F. ORDE, BANKER, IS DEAD IN MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 27.—(AP)—George F. Orde, 68, manager of the Lincoln branch office here of the Northwestern National bank, died today in an automobile while on his way from the bank to his home.

More than forty years ago Mr. Orde started as messenger boy for a bank in Ontario. He had been an American banker since 1894, when he entered the American Exchange National bank of Chicago. He was cashier of the Northern Trust company of Chicago in 1905, when he came to Minneapolis.

At the time of Mr. Orde's death his wife was on her way home from California, where she had attended the funeral of a sister.

Besides his widow he is survived by a daughter, Eleanor; a sister, Juliet Orde, Ottawa, Ill., and three brothers, C. W. Orde of Chicago, Bertram Orde of New York, and Markham B. Orde of Glencoe, Ill.

Funeral services probably will be conducted here Monday afternoon.

LET OWNER HOLD BUILDING; SAVE RECEIVER FEES

Forgotten Law Invoked in Foreclosure Case.

A forgotten law was invoked yesterday in Circuit Judge Joseph Burke's court as a means of abolishing the costs and abuses of receiverships on foreclosed properties.

Under the law the judge denied a motion for the appointment of a receiver for an apartment hotel and allowed the owner of the property to remain in possession on furnishing a bond. The decision eliminates the fees of a receiver and his attorney and additional management costs.

It was estimated that the decision will save at least 10 per cent of the gross income of the property for distribution among bondholders. Recent investigation has revealed that the fees of the receiver and his attorney approximate 10 per cent of the gross income of properties, and management under receivership consumes another 3 per cent or more.

Owner Allowed 3 Per Cent.

Judge Burke allowed the owner of the property 3 per cent of the gross income in return for the management. This 3 per cent set against the 13 per cent charge under receivership will result in the savings, attorneys said.

General adoption of such procedure in foreclosure actions was advocated by Judge Burke. Not only does it eliminate the receivership costs, he said, but it gives the owner of the property a chance to make good the default which brought about the foreclosure.

"If the method is followed in all cases where the owner of the property is a responsible party," Judge Burke said, "hundreds of thousands of dollars would be saved on fees alone. Further, the property will be managed by a person who has experience and an interest in it."

Defaults on Interest.

The law was cited by Attorneys Benjamin F. Goldstein and Harry Ruskin in behalf of Thomas Weinstein, owner of the apartment hotel at 1432-36 Morse avenue. The building has 52 rooms and 2 stores. Foreclosure proceedings were brought at the instigation of bondholders by the First Union Trust and Savings bank. The owner had defaulted on principal and interest payments on a $110,000 bond issue.

The law, section 2 or paragraph 56 of the act concerning the appointment and discharge of receivers, reads:

"On an application for the appointment of a receiver, the court may, in lieu of appointing a receiver, permit the party in possession to retain such possession upon giving bond with such penalty and such security and upon such condition as the court or judge may order and approve; and the court may remove a receiver and restore the property to the possession of the party from whom it was taken upon the giving of a like bond."

Savings Are Illustrated.

An illustration, for the purpose of demonstrating the difference in receivership costs and what it would have been under possession of the owner with 3 per cent compensation is offered on the following properties:

Ellen Court apartments, 6636-42 Greenwood avenue:	Receivership.	Owner possession.
Gross receipts.
April, 1931, to July, 1931.	$ 15,327	$15,327
Attorney's fees	900	000
Receiver's fees	800	000
Owner [3 per cent]	000	459
Balance	$ 13,727	$14,868
Davis hotel, 163 Walton place: Gross receipts.
Yr. ending Jan. 31, 1931.	$488,911	$488,911
Attorney's fees	24,000	000
Receiver's fees	50,500	000
Owner [3 per cent]	000	14,667
Balance	$414,411	$474,244

In giving possession of the property to Weinstein Judge Burke issued an order to protect the interests of the bondholders. Weinstein is required to deposit the net income of the premises for each month on the tenth day of the following month. He is further required to make an accounting of all receipts and disbursements at the same time.

The income must be deposited in a joint account with the surety company in a bank selected by it. Weinstein's bond was set at $3,000. The bond is to run from month to month so that it may be terminated if protest is made against Weinstein's stewardship.

Other Protection Provided.

Judge Burke further provided that the entry of his order shall not prejudice the right of the complainant to renew its motion for the appointment of a receiver at any time on presenting evidence warranting the ouster of the owner.

In giving Weinstein possession of the property the judge gives him 18 months to make good the defaults against the property. Attorneys pointed out that he would have a much better chance of redemption than if fees of receivership were added to the defaults. Also Weinstein faces the loss of possession if expenses mount, the judge was told, while a receiver may be able to increase these costs without being penalized.

"I see no reason why the law is not applicable in all foreclosure cases," Judge Burke said. "There is the danger that an owner might run off with the money he collects or milk the property in some other fashion. However, surety company will not give bonds until they are sure the owner is responsible and if the proper court orders are issued the owner will have no chance to milk the property to any extent between the monthly accountings."

Lucy Briggs Turner Wins Divorce for Desertion

Mrs. Lucy Briggs Turner, 1366 North Dearborn street, active in Junior league affairs, was granted a divorce yesterday on grounds of desertion from Tracy L. Turner Jr., an official of S. B. Chapin & Co., brokers. She received an unannounced settlement out of court and waived alimony. Mrs. Turner told Superior Judge Joseph Sabath that they were married Jan. 9, 1927, and that her husband left her Jan. 10, 1932. Her witnesses were Miss Charlotte Welch of the Drake hotel and Mrs. Harold Richardson of Evanston.

EDWIN KRENN LOSES $24,000 A YEAR INCOME

Benefactor's Estate Is Unable to Pay Him.

the former Mathilde McCormick, and Fowler McCormick, the heirs in addition to Krenn, have allowed him to rejoin the ranks of the heirs.

After Mrs. McCormick's death and the reading of her will the two daughters and the son were reported unanimously agreed that Krenn should relinquish his share for $24,000 a year.

Krenn, on his part, had few friends in Chicago and wished to travel, it was said. He was reported as completely satisfied with a guarantee of a comfortable income for life.

Offer Made to Dato.

Edward A. Dato, partner of Krenn in the real estate firm of Kren & Dato, had guaranteed the $24,000 yearly income and was to have taken over Krenn's five-twelfths share. When preliminary negotiations were started, Dato in exchange for his share, was offered the position of agent for the trust in the sale of properties and the collection of money, receiving 25 per cent commission on the sales and 5 per cent on collections.

Further investigation revealed, however, that the sale of properties would be rare and the collection of money infrequent. Dato, it was learned, may still take the position of agent if he wishes, but is reluctant to do so.

Settlement Is Sought.

Numerous conferences have been held in the attempt to arrive at some settlement agreeable to all parties. Participating in these meetings have been members of the law firm of Cutting, Moore & Sidley, representing the estate; officials of the Chicago Title and Trust company as executor, and Attorney Robert J. Hilliard, counsel for Krenn & Dato.

At present these negotiations have come to a standstill. The heirs are reported resigned to the fact that the assets of the estate are so frozen that little or nothing will be left after debts have been paid, claims settled, taxes paid and the expenses of litigation met.

RUTH JUDD WINS 58 DAY STAY OF EXECUTION

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Winnie Ruth Judd, under sentence of death for the murder of Mrs. Agnes Anne LeRoi, today was granted a stay of 58 days by the Arizona board of pardons and paroles. The previous date of her execution was Feb. 17; the new one is April 14.

It was also announced that the board will set a hearing soon on the application of Mrs. Judd for a pardon or at least a commutation of sentence. Hearings are to be held both in the state prison at Florence, where Mrs. Judd will testify, and in Phoenix, where witnesses from California, whom her attorneys have promised to produce, will be heard.

CLEAR SUSPECT HELD AS N. SHORE HOME PROWLER

Lester Hartley, 30 years old, 845 West Madison street, was arrested yesterday by Evanston police on suspicion that he was the prowler who invaded the bedroom of Miss Dorothy North, 51 West Old Elm road, Lake Forest, and robbed her of $80. Later Miss North went to Evanston and, after viewing the prisoner, said that she could not identify him. The same prowler who scaled the side of her home to reach her room is also believed to have attempted to enter the room of Mrs. Lloyd Allen Laflin, 275 North Mayflower road, Lake Forest, only to be frightened away by her screams. Mrs. Laflin did not see the intruder's face.

DEMAND OUSTER OF TRUSTEE OF $850,000 BONDS

Suit Asks for Injunction Against Central Trust.

Charges that the trustees of an $850,000 mortgage bond issue manipulated the assets in a manner which caused the bondholders to be defrauded were made in a bill filed in the Superior court yesterday. The suit asked the removal of the trustee, the Central Trust company, an injunction to restrain the trustee from forming its own bondholders' protective committee, and an accounting of funds.

The complainant is Mrs. Lillian Baer, administratrix of the estate of Mrs. Frieda Schatzkis, who owned more than $40,000 worth of the bonds originally issued by Rosenwald & Weil, Inc., clothing manufacturers. In her bill she also asked for the establishment of a reserve fund to pay off certain debts to the bondholders, and petitioned for a court order defining the obligation of the present mortgage equity holder to the bondholders.

Investment Company Named.

With the Central Trust company the Greenebaum Sons Investment company also was named defendant, the latter company having floated the bond issue. After the filing of the suit yesterday Edgar N. Greenebaum, vice president of the investment company, issued a statement for both defendants, as follows:

"This suit is similar to many filed by attorneys who make a practice of seeking out holders of defaulted bonds and who attempt to upset reorganization plans based on sound business principles and in the best interests of the bondholders. The threat that a suit will be filed is frequently used by certain attorneys in their attempts to obtain money on bonds owned by their clients or by the attorneys personally."

Mrs. Baer is represented by Attorney Meyer Abrams. In her suit she sets forth that the $850,000 bond issue was floated by the Greenebaum Sons Investment company on Jan. 2, 1923. Advertisements of the issue stated that the mortgage was secured by property and machinery worth twice the total amount of the issue, according to the suit. The trustee, then the investment company, made a profit of $42,500 from the sale of the bonds, the bill stated.

Machinery Sold, Is Charged.

The clothing company occupied a building at 3815 Armitage avenue, the bill stated. On Sept. 16, 1927, it was alleged, the Greenebaum company allowed Rosenwald & Weil to remove part of the machinery from the plant. The bill asserts that this machinery was sold by the trustee for $45,320 and the proceeds kept by the Greenebaum company. The bondholders were not notified of this removal of assets, the bill asserts.

Soon after this transaction, the bill charged, the Central Trust company became trustee. In a deal then negotiated the original lien, reduced to $650,000, was transferred from the clothing company to the White Book House, Inc., binders, who took over the Armitage avenue plant and machinery. On Jan. 15, 1931, the book bindery defaulted on $50,000 in principal and interest.

Not until after the default were the bondholders informed of the change in the mortgagor, the bill charged.

EX-KAISER IS 74; DONS ARRAY OF FIELD MARSHAL

Crown Prince Gives Toast to Father.

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Former Kaiser Wilhelm II. of Germany, in high spirits and apparently restored to health, celebrated his 74th birthday today in the midst of numerous members of his family and a considerable group of friends.

Among those who participated in the celebration were three of his sons—Friedrich Wilhelm, the former crown prince who now is 50 years old; Prince Eitel Friedrich, and Prince August Wilhelm, and a grandson, Prince Louis Ferdinand.

Former Rulers Present.

Two members of former ruling houses—Grand Duke Albrecht of Wuerttemberg and Margrave Friedrich Christian of Meissen, heir to the Saxon throne, came from Germany, as did the children of Princess Hermine, the former kaiser's second wife, and several more distant relatives.

It was learned that Prince August Wilhelm came especially to demonstrate to the world that he and his imperial father are not on the outs.

"They merely have a difference of opinion concerning the National Socialist movement," a Hohenzollern spokesman said. The prince, known familiarly as "Auwi," is an enthusiastic follower of Adolf Hitler.

At luncheon the former crown prince, as the ranking member of the family, proposed his father's health. Wilhelm responded with a bow.

The former monarch, an exile since his flight from Germany Nov. 10, 1918, invited in a number of prominent Hollanders to a formal dinner where full dress uniforms were prescribed. Wilhelm himself wore a field marshal's uniform.

Sends Message to Germans.

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—(AP)—A message from the former kaiser occupies the front page of Der Aufrechte, organ of the Hohenzollern family, today, in observance of his 74th birthday.

"I bear my fate with resignation, for the Lord knows what he is doing," the one-time monarch wrote. "He knows why he laid this test of faith upon me.

"Only one thing grieves me—the fate of my country and my people. I am pained at the severe suffering of my German fellow men which, while I am compelled to live in exile, I cannot help them to bear.

"Here in my loneliness I think only of and for the German people. Even harsh criticism never can subdue my love for my land and my people. I shall remain true to Germany, no matter how some Germans may look upon me."

Clark Leaves for Capital to Take Oath as Senator

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Bennett Champ Clark, senator elect from Missouri and the son of the late Speaker Champ Clark, left today for Washington, where Mr. Clark will be sworn in as United States senator. Clark will succeed Senator Harry B. Hawes, who has resigned, effective Feb. 3, to give Clark seniority in committee assignments over senators who take office March 4.

VON SCHLEICHER FIGHTS TO HOLD GERMAN RULE

Chancellor Seeks Power of Dictator.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 27.—Chancellor Kurt von Schleicher is tottering as chancellor. Threatened with a vote of nonconfidence when the reichstag reconvenes on Tuesday, Von Schleicher will call on President Paul von Hindenburg tomorrow noon to ask for power to dissolve the reichstag and proclaim a new "dictatorship" under article 48, the so-called "dictatorship clause" of the constitution.

If Von Hindenburg refuses the chancellor will resign. In that event political circles in Berlin expect the president to appoint a cabinet in which former Chancellor Franz von Papen again will play a prominent rôle.

Will Warn President.

Von Schleicher is determined to warn the president that reinstatement of Von Papen on the same platform he previously held means reaction pure and simple and that the masses will oppose it most violently. The chancellor, with his back to the wall, is fighting for a few more weeks' time to show what he can accomplish. The president, who has always remained in closest touch with Von Papen, will gladly welcome any pretext to reinstate him, political observers insist.

Von Papen's supporters have been attempting to undermine Von Schleicher's position with the president. They redoubled their efforts against the chancellor after he announced that he would insist on a most thorough investigation "of scandals in farm relief," in which junker landowners are charged with profiteering at the cost of taxpayers and dividing great sums of relief money among themselves.

Papen Woos Hitlerites.

Von Papen has been negotiating with Adolf Hitler's National Socialists and the Catholic Centrists. He still hopes to induce the Hitlerites to join him in a new cabinet. The Centrists, who heretofore have violently opposed Von Papen, declare that if he can prove that the Nazis will coöperate with him "on a line safeguarding the constitution," and if he himself guarantees to respect the constitution, they will agree to tolerate him in the reichstag. This would give Von Papen a majority and a "national bloc."

Hitler arrived in Berlin this afternoon and conferred with the Centrist leader, Dr. Ludwig Kaas, and later had a formal conference with his former ally, Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, leader of the Nationalists. He then addressed his lieutenants and political leaders with the prospect of continuing the negotiations all night. Dr. Hugenberg believes he succeeded in convincing Hitler of the necessity of resuscitating the "Harzburg front" in an alliance between Hitlerites, Nationalists and Steel Helmets behind Von Papen.

THE RULES

1. In the accompanying jingles certain words have been left out. You are invited to fill in the words you think best fit each jingle and try for the $150.00 in cash prizes the Tribune will pay.

2. To the persons who send in the best entries in accordance with these rules, the Chicago Tribune will pay $150.00 in cash prizes. First prize, $25.00; second prize, $15.00; third prize, $10.00; next ten prizes, $5.00 each; next ten prizes, $2.50 each; next 25 prizes, $1.00 each.

3. This offer is open to all—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing.

4. Awards will be paid to the persons who send in the best entries. Each entry must consist of the ten jingles printed today. Simply fill in the words you think best fit the jingles. After you have written in your choice of missing words, check the food and grocery ads in today's Tribune and place a cross mark in the square if you find the item advertised in any of today's Tribune food and grocery ads. If the item is NOT advertised, make NO mark.

5. All entries will be considered by a committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Contestants agree to accept the decisions of the committee as final. Judgment will be based on suitability of words inserted, accuracy in checking, and neatness. No special consideration will be given to elaborate entries. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded to tying contestants. Only one entry may be submitted by any one contestant.

6. Address your entry to "GROCERY STORE A-B-C's" the Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1720, Chicago, Ill. All entries must be received in the Tribune office before 6:00 p. m. on Wednesday, February 1, 1933.

7. You need not purchase the Chicago Tribune to compete. The Tribune may be examined at the Tribune offices or at public libraries free of charge. You may use the handy blank supplied here or you may submit your entry on a separate sheet of paper. Winners will be announced in the Tribune as soon as possible.

SHARP DECLINE IN BUTTER AND EGG PRICES HERE

Vegetables Also Off from Last Week.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The return of wintry weather to whet the appetities of Chicagoans prompts week-end shoppers to take advantage of last minute anouncements by many grocers that there have been further drops in food prices this week.

A market visit will disclose some unusually attractive bargains for the Saturday and Sunday menus. Egg and butter prices took a last minute fall yesterday with the thermometer. Sweet potatoes, lemons, green beans, grapefruit, carrots, cooking apples, flour, and tomato juice in cans or bottles all are lower than a week ago.

Eggs Head Bargain List.

Better grades of eggs at 17 to 22 cents, according to quality, constitute the outstanding market bargain for the day. There are some bulk eggs as low as 15 cents. Wholesale prices have dropped 16¼ cents a dozen since Jan. 1.

"Just think of fresh country eggs at such low prices," remarked Mrs. Clara G. Snyder, poultry marketing expert. "Not even the oldtimers in the egg business remember such prices. It means that six scrambled eggs, enough for four persons, cost less than 9 cents. Enough eggs for an angel food cake cost only 12 cents."

The peculiarity of the egg market here is not only that all eggs on sale are fresh from the country, the storage stocks having been depleted, but that favorable weather conditions have resulted in carloads of them coming from the northwest at a season when normally most of the country supplies would be from the southwest.

Country creameries also are sending in an abundance of freshly churned butter at bargain prices, fine brick butter selling for less than 20 cents a pound.

Bargains in Canned Goods.

Following a week of conventions of food canners, wholesale grocers and food brokers in Chicago, the acknowledged food capital of the nation, many groups of stores are quoting special prices in canned edibles. Medium sized cans of fine quality tomatoes and corn sell at two for 19 cents, of which 4 cents is the cost of the cans themselves.

Tomato juice in cans or bottles is available at a new low price of 10 cents for enough to fill two and one-half cups. All kinds of fruits in rich sirups are commanding low prices in the canned food sales.

At the fresh fruit and vegetable counters are to be found a wide variety for the week-end salads and side dishes, gathered from far and near. There are big heads of iceberg lettuce from the Imperial valley, as well as carrots, cabbage, and celery from California and Florida. Spinch from Texas, hothouse rhubarb from Michigan, Hubbard squash from Minnesota, apples from the northwest, Michigan, and Illinois, and potatoes from Idaho and Wisconsin vie with the citrus fruits from the gulf states and west coast for a place on the shopping list.

Artichokes Low in Price.

Many housewives will be tempted to surprise the family with some of the American artichokes at their present low prices. This nonstarch product of Texas gardens has many ways of being served, looks like a potato, but has the combined flavor of Brazil nuts, cocoanut, and celery.

For breakfast the offerings of cereals are enticing to the appetite and the purse. For a dime or less one may buy a package of oatmeal, wheat cereal in several forms or yellow corn meal. Large servings are possible at half a cent a person.

The many other forms of rice, corn, wheat and oats also are surprisingly low in price. Some are priced at a quarter for two large packages, while others range up to 22 cents a package. The packages range from 6 ounces to more than three pounds.

Flour also is at a new low price today. Onions are a fraction of their early winter prices and much below those of a year ago, even the new southern Bermudas selling as low as two pounds for a nickel.

In the meat markets pork cuts were offering the most in price inducements. Legs of lamb are 15 cents to 18 cents a pound. Those able to purchase beef cuts from the larger beef carcasses will be able to cut their meat bill nearly in half, as packers report less demand and lower prices on the meats from larger beef animals this week.

Woman Leaps to Death from Window of Hospital

Mrs. Helen Eifler, 37 years old, 2229 Berwyn avenue, plunged to her death yesterday from a fifth floor window of the Belmont hospital, 4058 Melrose street. Police were told Mrs. Eifler had been despondent since her baby was born dead four days ago. Miss Alberta Moses, a nurse, said she left the room and returned to find the window open and Mrs. Eifler gone.

LEDGER OF 1848 REVEALS TODAY AS BARGAIN AGE

Pioneer Merchant's Price Often Higher.

Striking evidence of the unusual economies in food buying which today's low prices make possible was given yesterday by the figures in a musty old ledger book kept in 1848 which recorded the daily business transactions of Thomas Antrim, pioneer Indiana storekeeper.

Mr. Antrim, grandfather of E. M. Antrim, assistant business manager of THE TRIBUNE, operated a store in the locality now known as Converse, in Grant county near Marion. There were no large settlements in that time, and there was an Indian reservation near the present site of Marion.

Staple groceries, ginghams, and calicoes, drugs, a few books, tobacco and other items of necessity were brought from New England by way of the Erie canal and then into Indiana by wagon.

$1 a Day for Man and Team.

The customers, it is revealed in turning the dog-eared pages of the old Antrim ledger, brought some cash, but largely products of their hands to this store. A man and team worked all day for a dollar; a woman washed and ironed all day for a quarter. Exchange units today unknown included half-cent pieces.

Wheat in those days was 70 cents a bushel, compared with present country prices of 30 cents. Farmers brought in ginseng worth 25 cents a pound, home rendered lard worth 9 cents a pound, tallow at 8 1-3 cents a pound, chickens at 5 to 7 cents apiece, eggs worth 5 cents a dozen, or home churned butter valued at 8 cents a pound "in trade."

Today lard retails in Chicago at 5 cents. Sugar then cost 7 to 8 1-3 cents a pound while today it is selling at less than 5 cents. Raisins were then a luxury at 26 cents a pound, while today they are three pounds for a quarter.

Price Much Lower Now.

Starch then cost 10 cents a pound and today comes packaged at five pounds for 36 cents. A quarter pound of tea cost Thomas Antrim's customers 25 cents and some good grades sell for that now. Coffee was 12½ cents a pound, hardly to be compared with the modern fine roasted and blended coffees at somewhat higher prices.

Entries carefully penned in the ledger carried many Hoosierisms, including five "knots of paten thread" for 5 cents; 1 spellin' book for 12½ cents; 1 "pare of galises," 12½ cents; 3½ yards of "janes" or denim for overalls, $1.62½. Many were recorded as working out their accounts by "covern corn 1 day, 50 cents," or "picking chunks 1 day, 50 cents," while others hewed by hand shingles or molded brick which sold at very low prices.

ORDER NITTI TO TRIAL FEB. 3 FOR ASSAULT TO KILL

Frank Nitti, leader of a remnant of the Capone gang, will stand trial on Feb. 3 in the Felony court on a charge of assault with intent to kill Sergt. Harry Lang of the mayor's squad. Nitti was shot three times and Sergt. Lang was wounded during a raid on the gangster's loop headquarters. A continuance was granted the state yesterday by Judge Donald S. McKinlay because Prosecutor Charles Dougherty, who has been handling the case, is engaged in the trial of Murray Humphreys.

Defense Attorney Rocco de Stefano had asked that his client be allowed to go to Florida to recuperate from his wounds.

"If Nitti is able to go to Florida he is able to come to court," said Assistant State's Attorney William A. Rittenhouse.

"Surely," the defense attorney agreed, "I'll bring him here in an hour."

"You wouldn't make that offer if the state were ready for trial," Prosecutor Rittenhouse retorted.

HELD ON ROBBERY CHARGES.

George Lang, 22 years old, 3428 Emerald avenue, and Charles Gamble, 26 years old, colored, 447 Oakwood boulevard, were held to the grand jury yesterday on a charge of robbery. They were alleged to have held up a gasoline filling station.

SKULL AND CROSSED BONES SKETCHED ON LETTERS TO MINERS

Taylorville, Ill., Jan. 28.—(AP)—Marked with a skull and crossed bones, several letters signed "The Gang" were turned over to the National Guard here today by miners who said they received them by mail.

They were of the same handwriting as threatening letters sent to Tovey miners several days ago. One received by Clarence Green, former special deputy, who was shot in the shoulder in recent rioting, read: "We intend to get you. Shot won't be in the shoulder next time."

Arthur Collier and Leon Deleu of Taylorville received a threat of "horrible death," with the statement "we have a way of dealing with scabs in southern Italy."

The letters were postmarked yesterday in Springfield.

CHINESE CLAIM RECAPTURE OF CITY OF JEHOL

[Copyright: 1933; By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 27.—Nanking officially claimed today that 1,000 Chinese volunteers under Gen. Ken Chi-Chow had captured Chaoyang, important Jehol gateway, last Monday. Chaoyang was occupied recently by the Japanese. Two days' fighting was said to have resulted in thirty Japanese and ten Chinese casualties.

Chaoyang, which is about twenty-five miles within the border of Jehol, was the farthest point reached by the central column of three Japanese and Manchukuo forces that had begun an advance on Chengteh, the provincial capital.

As a result of protests made by the United States legation in Peiping Japanese troops have evacuated the Methodist Episcopal mission property at Shanhaikwan. The United States embassy at Tokio conducted an investigation which revealed that the properties had been considerably damaged. It was understood the mission authorities would present a bill of claims, which the legation would assist in collecting.

Girl Recovering After Taking Sleeping Potion

Miss Margaret Fisher, 23 years old, 1425 North Dearborn street, a student at Lewis institute, who took an overdose of a sleeping potion in her room on Thursday night, was reported recovering yesterday at the Henrotin hospital. The Hudson avenue police learned that she was the daughter of well to do parents of Decatur, Ill. She previously attended the University of Chicago, it was said. Police said they learned that she had been despondent because she had lost her job recently.

HORNER HOPEFUL HARMONY IS NEAR IN COAL FIELDS

Submits Proposals for Peace to Rival Groups.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner was more hopeful tonight than he has been that success will crown his efforts to establish harmony between the two Illinois coal miners' unions, the Progressives and the United Mine Workers. The governor thus described his own feeling—what might be called his "hunch"—at the close of another long conference with representatives of the two groups in his office in the state house. During that meeting, which lasted nearly three hours, the governor made confidential proposals upon the basis of which he believes an agreement should be reached.

Response Surprises Him.

Although he said he could not place his finger on any definite cause for his increased optimism, it is believed that he was pleasantly surprised by the manner in which the two sides received the terms he urged for peace. It is understood that there was a fear that when he stated the conclusions he has reached after many hours of study of this problem that the negotiations might be snapped short.

Instead of a breach there was a promise from the representatives of both groups to talk with their organizations and to let him know the results. The miner participants declined to discuss either what the governor said or their views as to the outlook for harmony through unification or some similar method.

The conference, in which President John H. Walker of the United Mine Workers and Claude Pearcy, president of the Progressive Mine Workers, head their delegations as usual, did not dissolve until after 7 o'clock this evening. The miners left first and then Gov. Horner came out of his private office wearing his hat and overcoat. But he stopped to talk with the waiting newspaper men for a few minutes.

Suggestions Are Specific.

"I'm a little more hopeful than I was," he said slowly, "although there is no specific reason for it.

"I made suggestions which both sides have very courteously agreed to consider."

"Were they specific suggestions?" he was asked.

"They were fairly specific," he replied, "but neither side has intimated anything more than its willingness to consider them. We'll meet again after each side has had time to consider them."

It is understood that each union will submit the proposed peace terms to its board and it is possible that they may be presented to their memberships if the boards consider that step necessary. No date was set for the next conference.

Governor Signs First Bill.

Gov. Horner today signed his first bill—the Jarecki-Cermak bill for the elimination of the Chicago registration day heretofore scheduled for next Tuesday.

The governor will not go to Chicago today as he did for the two previous week-ends since his inauguration. Instead "Chicago will come to Springfield." That is one description given the plan of Mayor Cermak and some of his advisers to come here for conferences Saturday night and Sunday with the governor on the legislation Chicago needs.

The resignation of Clyde I. Backus of Chicago as assistant director of registration and education has been announced. His successor has not been named.

"Gretna Green" Divorce Evil Is Assailed by Judge Sabath

After he had heard and granted pleas in the Superior court yesterday for the dissolution of five Crown Point marriages, Judge Joseph Sabath was roused to an attack upon the Gretna Greens existing in county seat towns surrounding Chicago. In the five cases, the judge pointed out, the evidence showed that all of the couples had been drinking before they went to Crown Point, and all were married in the small hours of the morning.

"There must be a cure for these vicious, thoughtless marriages and semi-elopments," said Judge Sabath. "I discovered that one of these couples had been at a dance, got intoxicated, went right out to Indiana and got married, and then never lived together.

Young, Heedless Couples.

"This is the type of marriage which is clogging our divorce courts. It is also a type which can be halted by legislative action and by cooperation between authorities of the two states. Practically all of these marriages are between young, heedless couples who regret their action within a few days.

"A law making it necessary to declare intent to marry five days before the ceremony would allow a chance for this sudden ardor to cool. Such a bill is now pending before the Illinois legislature.

"Of course, this alone wouldn't prevent the use of such Indiana towns as Crown Point and Valparaiso as Gretna Greens, but if Indiana authorities would cooperate with us it would be possible to prevent these marriages there. If proof of marriage intent were strictly demanded by county clerks in the border towns, Indiana could force Illinois applicants to comply with any regulations our state may make for its own citizens."

Laws of Other States.

Judge Sabath pointed out that residents of Michigan or Wisconsin, who apply for licenses in Chicago, are required by County Clerk Sweitzer to comply with the license laws of their own states.

Among the decrees which Judge Sabath granted were those of Mrs. Etta Vopat, 5104 South Kilpatrick avenue, who received an annulment of her marriage to Joseph Vopat on the grounds that they never lived together after their Crown Point marriage on May 14, 1932; Mrs. Marion Balter, who got a divorce from Irving Balter after testifying that he deserted her a week after they were married at Crown Point on July 25, 1928, and Mrs. Mae Marsona, who testified that she married Joseph Marsona at Crown Point on March 18, 1932, and left him a week later when he beat her.

STATE CHAMBER O. K.'S SALES TAX FOR IDLE RELIEF

Approval of a state-wide general sales tax, similar to the bill now pending before the legislature, was voted yesterday by the legislative policy committee of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce. The action was prefaced by the statement that the first move of the state government should be a drastic reduction in the costs of government.

The committee added that the sales tax revenue should be used for emergency relief purposes only, and for a limited time, and that the returns should be administered by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

Among those at the meeting were B. F. Affleck, Robert F. Carr, Fred Clutton, F. H. Massman, Don Mowry, Omar H. Wright, Walter W. Williams, and R. M. Lundstrom.

SEEK $6,535,000 FOR RELIEF OF IDLE IN FEBRUARY

State and County Agree on R. F. C. Loan Plea.

Applications for loans totaling $6,535,030 to continue relief of the idle throughout the state next month are to be filed with the Reconstruction Finance corporation by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission and the Cook county board, it was announced after a joint meeting yesterday.

The commission will request a loan of $553,250 for downstate counties and general overhead expense. The county board will request a loan of $5,981,780 through the commission, and will offer bonds of the $17,000,000 county relief issue as collateral. A loan of $6,770,000 obtained for this month is secured in that manner.

Near Borrowing Limit.

If the loans are granted, relief officials said, they will raise the total amount loaned to Illinois by the R. F. C. to $39,028,258, which is $5,971,742 less than the maximum of $45,000,000 that may be loaned to any state for the support of the idle under the R. F. C. laws.

The joint meeting of the commission and county board was held behind closed doors in the office of the commission at 10 South La Salle street. Newspaper men were barred, but a number of other persons not members of either group were permitted in the meeting, including Joel D. Hunter, superintendent of the United Charities; County Supervisor of Public Service Frank H. Chambers, and Joseph L. Moss, director of the county bureau of public welfare.

The joint meeting received the report on conditions in the commission's shelters that was prepared by Commissioner Charles H. Weber of the county board. No action was taken pending a study of the report. Continuance of the subsistence garden program was approved.

Drop Coal Penalty Clause.

Charles B. Goodspeed, assistant to Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the commission, appeared to discuss the charity coal specifications supposedly drawn by a committee of six experts. The joint meeting instructed him and Mr. Chambers to revise the specifications to eliminate a penalty clause and to include a means of policing the coal deliveries to prevent substitution of other than contract grade fuel. The revised specifications are to be taken up by the county board on Monday.

A proposal to give work to 10,000 persons on the relief rolls was presented to the county board yesterday by Maj. Rufus W. Putnam, head of the engineers' committee on work relief, and Robert Kingery, head of the Chicago Plan commission. They proposed that the idle be used to conduct a general study of traffic volume and control in the county, in addition to the established program of work relief.

A subcommittee composed of Cimmissioners Dan Ryan, Grace Fleming, and William Busse was appointed to investigate the proposal. Under the plan draftsmen, structural engineers architects, and surveyors who are idle would be employed, as well as laborers.

The report of Commissioner Weber on the commission's shelters, which he made public, reiterated that "relief is being given to bums, the dregs of humanity, and to a large number of ex-convicts, drunks, floaters, and nonresidents of Chicago.

"We look for an increase in this classification, because the word has spread that Chicago is on a $4 dole plan; the hobos and good-for-nothings are making tracks for Chicago."

Commissioner Weber's report charged that known communist agitators not only are allowed to live in the shelters but are coddled and given special consideration by Robert Beasley, director of the clearing house for men, and his assistants. Communist meetings are permitted in the shelters, it is added.

Dole Provides Liquor.

Clothing issued to the idle in the shelters is sold by them to buy booze, the report states. Between twenty and thirty speakeasies have opened in the district around one of the shelters at 758 Harrison street, to cater to the men living there who have had money to spend since the $4 a week dole went into effect, Commissioner Weber said.

The report demanded that special services now being conducted in the shelters be cut out to effect an annual saving of about $3,219,000. The services include medical and dental care, $19,200 a year; recreation, $16,200 a year; administration of the dole plan, $25,000, and payments under the dole plan, $3,100,000 a year; and inside shelter work, $48,600 a year.

The report demands standardization of salaries in conformity with the recommendations of the commission on taxation and expenditures, and the elimination of an employment service which merely duplicates the services conducted by the state and federal governments.

Finger Printing Urged.

A revision of the system of investigating applicants for shelter relief, eliminating bulky files and records, and requiring only that the applicant prove he is a resident of Chicago and is in need, is included in the report. The finger printing of all men living in shelters is asked in order to avoid the harboring of criminals. Investigation of the shelters by the department of labor and deportation of all aliens is stipulated.

Commissioner Walter J. La Buy proposed at a meeting of the public service committee of the board that all ambulatory cases be sent to needy physicians by the relief agencies instead of to hospitals, to be treated at a cost of 90 cents a visit, plus cost of medicine. Medical service is now provided at hospitals by the relief organizations.

HUNGRY SCHOOL CHILDREN'S FUND PASSES $20,000

Goal of $40,000 Set for This Year.

The Hungry School Children's fund went over the $20,000 mark yesterday. True, there wasn't much margin to spare, but when the day's gifts were totaled, it was with a sense of relief that the fund's bookkeeper saw the preceding day's total of $19,972.44 changed over to $20,014.94.

It appears to be a long climb to the final total of $48,000 raised last year, but the $20,000 was raised in four months, and with four months still to go, fund officials believe that a total of $40,000 can be reached and this is the goal they have set.

One step in that direction is the bridge party to be given this afternoon for the benefit of the fund by four young women in the St. Clair hotel. They are Frances Ruth Fridstein, Carolyn Alschuler, Jane Weber, and Mabel Chapman, students at Northwestern university and the University of Chicago.

The following contributions are acknowledged:

$5—S. S. Gibling.
$3—Mrs. J. R. Ledwell.
$2—Mrs. Jennie G. Anderson, Oak Park, Ill.: In Memory of My Mother, Rosa Pascal.
$1.50—W. W. K. Co., Friends of Olive Kepple.
$1—Bridge Prize W. B., Harriet Richards, G. F. Williams, V. D.

DEPUTY SHERIFF EYES COMEDIAN IN STAGE SHOW

Clifton Edwards, motion picture and radio entertainer, was seized by deputy sheriffs yesterday an hour before he was scheduled to appear on the stage of a loop moving picture theater. The arrest was made on a writ issued by Superior Judge James J. Kelly on the charge of Mrs. Gertrude Ryrholm, Edwards' divorced wife, that the comedian is $6,752 in arrears in payment of support money for his son, Clifton Jr., 13 years old. Both of the boy's feet were amputated 18 months ago after a railroad accident.

Edwards was unable to post the requisite $5,00 ne exeat bond last night and he gave his theater performances under the eye of a deputy sheriff in whose custody he was placed until his appearance in court next Monday.

Through her attorneys, Joseph H. Hinshaw and George S. Martin, Mrs. Ryrholm, who lives at 5041 Mango avenue, informed Judge Kelly that Edwards has paid only $300 for the support of his son since the railroad accident. The hospital and doctors' bills amounted to $1,700, they said.

Kidnaped, Forced to Drink Bad Liquor, Robbed of $3

ROBBER CAUGHT AFTER VICTIM SEIZES HIS GUN

Louis Mueller, 56 years old, became a holdup man last night. He and another robber divided up their work. Under the plan Mueller was to carry a shotgun and terrify the victims while his partner seized the money.

The first place they stopped was Joseph Kryml's cigar store at 1416 Cullerton street. The proprietor and a customer obeyed the gunman's command and raised their hands. Then the second robber seized $35 and started out of the store. At this point Kryml wrested Mueller's shotgun from him. The customer, whose name was not learned, knocked down the gunman.

With the bandit's weapon, Kryml ran outside and fired at the second robber, but missed. Mueller was held for the police. He said that he had been living in the Y. M. C. A. hotel, 636 South Wabash avenue. He refused to disclose the identity of his companion.

JACOBS ORDERS TAX ON GRAIN IN ELEVATORS HERE

Assessor J. L. Jacobs yesterday informed operators of six of the largest grain elevators in Cook county that they will be assessed for the grain stored in their plants. The assessment, as estimated for the 1931 personal property books, amounts to $10,000,000.

The grain elevator operators have protested that they do not own the grain, merely holding it for delivery. They pointed out that the grain is sold daily in the Board of Trade pits, and stated that the actual owners should be assessed. County Tax Attorney Hayden Bell, however, stated that the elevator operators should be held responsible for payment of the tax on the grain.

The assessor stated that assessments would be made today and sent to the board of tax appeals for certification.

FRANCE ACQUITS 'SPY' SENTENCED TO DEATH IN WAR

Man 'Without a Country' Is Vindicated.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 27.—Henri Guilbeaux, anarchist and pacifist journalist who was sentenced to death as a traitor during the war, was unanimously acquitted after prosecution was dropped today. Guilbeaux, a modern "man without a country," returned to France voluntarily last August from 13 years of exile in Switzerland, Russia and Germany. The court had dismissed the wartime death sentence in order to permit Guilbeaux to stand trial.

Contrary to expectations of those who were expecting a tense political drama, the Guilbeaux trial did not prove anything except the hairtrigger tendencies of wartime court martials.

Find Germans Were Not Spies.

The case against the pacifist agitator, who was condemned as a spy in his absence, was completely annihilated when former French secret service agents in Switzerland, testifying behind closed doors, produced evidence to show that the Germans with whom Guilbeaux had relations during the war were not spies for their country.

This left the prosecution without a leg to stand on, as the military prosecutor admitted, and no objections were raised to the anticipated verdict. There was nothing left for the army judges to do but officially declare that the charges against Guilbeaux were without foundation.

Severe moral judgment was passed on Guilbeaux by the prosecutor and was even reflected in the court's comments for his pacifistic agitation during the war and communist activities in Russia after the war, but since the indictment was limited to the specific charge of "intelligence with the enemy," no action could be taken on these counts.

Can Stay in France.

In the public eye Guilbeaux was quite well reëstablished by a long file of character witnesses, including many personal adversaries who testified that Guilbeaux was fanatical, arrogant and conceited in upholding wildeyed pacifist theories, but personally incorruptible.

One French journalist told an anecdote of how Guilbeaux was nearly massacred by a Nationalist Socialist mob in Germany because he tried to harangue the crowd in French.

The "man without a country" now is free to live peacefully in France.

JUVENILE ASSN. TELLS OF YEAR'S WORK FOR NEEDY

Efforts of the Juvenile Protective association to keep families together despite hard times were described yesterday in the annual report presented to Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, president.

The report asserts many children who are inadequately fed and clothed become truants and drift into vandalism and delinquencies.

"Progress in social service can only be made through groups representing both the community and professional social service," the report concluded.

HAS MONEY FOR TRIP TO EUROPE, BUT LIVES ON RELIEF; IS JAILED

Ottawa, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Mike Serbian of Oglesby, who is a prisoner in the La Salle county jail, was bound over to the grand jury today on a charge of fraudulently obtaining food from the relief organization.

Learning that Serbian was contemplating a trip to Europe, an investigation was started. It was found that Serbian had withdrawn $3,500 from his bank account recently. Sheriff E. J. Welter searched his home and found four trunks filled with new clothing and materials. There were four new suits, 14 new shirts, between 40 and 50 linen tablecloths, and tapestries. Serbian and his family had purchased the goods and were preparing to take them to Europe.

CAPT. STEDMAN IS GIVEN MEDAL FOR SEA RESCUE

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Capt. Giles C. Stedman, youthful master of the American liner American Merchant, today received the freedom of the city from Mayor John P. O'Brien and a gold medal in token of New York's appreciation of the rescue by the liner's crew of twenty-two men from the British steamer Exeter City, disabled in mid-Atlantic.

In response to the mayor's eulogy, Capt. Stedman spoke for his men. He understood, he said, that the honors were accorded him not as an individual, but as the representative of his crew, who had worked courageously against a winter sea to take off the survivors after the captain, the third officer, and two men had been lost overboard from the Exeter City.

NEW GIFTS SEND WELFARE FUND TO $4,640,000

Additional subscriptions from publishing and electrical firms brought the Emergency Welfare fund to $4,640,000 yesterday. The fund is seeking to raise $7,500,000 to maintain the private welfare agencies of the city.

Gifts from publishing and allied companies totaled $7,000. The publishing group has thus far provided a total of $201,170, or about 90 per cent of its campaign quota. Included in the publishers' division are advertising agencies, magazines and metropolitan newspaper publishing companies. Under the chairmanship of Charles Daniel Frey, head of the company bearing his name, the group has been one of the most liberal contributors to the welfare organization, according to Robert A. Gardner, general chairman of the campaign.

'COUNT' PLEADS NOT GUILTY; SET TRIAL FOR FEB. 8

Henry Dechow, alias Count Enrique von Buelow, appeared yesterday before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward and pleaded not guilty to a charge of possession of $96,000 in counterfeit $100 bills. His trial was set for Feb. 8 by agreement between Prosecutor Owen A. West and Defense Attorney Henry Balaban.

The continuance was granted to await disposal of removal proceedings in New York next Monday against Dr. Valentine Burtan, who is under indictment as an accomplice of Dechow.

COMMUNISTS GO CAPITALISTIC AND WIN PROSPERITY

Youth Forces Change in Iowa Colony.

Amana, Ia., Jan. 27.—(AP)—There's prosperity a plenty in Amana—even since the strictly communistic settlement has gone capitalistic.

Until the beginning of 1933 the members of the Amana colony ate food from a community kitchen, cultivated their fields in common, and shared alike their needs.

It was a revolt of youth that brought capitalism to the colony.

The younger generation—hitherto confined to the privileges that the elders saw fit to grant—arose and took a more important part in the government.

Under the system that went into effect with the new year the colonists purchase food and clothing with their wages from farms, stores, and woolen mills. Every member of the colony is a stockholder in the corporation. The church, which formerly controlled the lives of all colony members, is separated from the government.

Operating at Profit.

And the Amana corporation is operating at a profit. It is building up a fund to provide free medical and dental care for all members and to insure their comfort in old age or misfortune.

There are no bread lines—no idleness—in the seven villages of the colony. Wages are paid on the earning capacity of the corporation and are comparatively low, but accumulated savings have brought predictions that a bank would be organized.

The woolen mills operate on a double shift and colony leaders speak of a feeling of security among the villages of the settlement.

Boys and girls, when they reached the age of 16 or 18, formerly left for jobs in nearby cities. The population declined from a peak of 1,800 to 1,400 at present.

Rule Against Return.

Many of them have sought to return since pay rolls dropped off in the cities, but Amana doesn't want them. The board of trustees has decreed they shall not return.

Incidentally, the board of trustees has become more youthful since the younger generation grew in power. The average age of trustees used to be 60. Most of the present members are less than 50. Amana is joining step with the world after being unchanged for almost a century.

20 Rumanian Officials Seized; Accused as Spies

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Twenty postal and telegraph officials employed in handling military mail and telegrams were arrested tonight and charged by police with espionage in favor of an unnamed foreign power.

TECHNOCRACY NO MORE; ALL HAIL TO ALCONOCRACY

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Technocracy is dead! Long hail alconocracy, Benjamin De Casseres, iconoclast, announced today his new system, which really is based on a jit—plural jitters.

De Casseres said a jit is a unit of alcoholic stimulation, there being 25,600 jits in a pint of rye. A bloog, he explained, is 50,000 jits, or the equivalent of one alconocracy horse power.

"Suppose you consume one bloog, or 50,000 jits," he said. "You then are capable of going out and lifting one horse.

"Technocracy can never conflict with alconocracy. In the first place, a good robust alconocrat has not got an erg to his name. Ergs will be swept away by an avalanche of jits and bloogs. Perpetual motion will be accomplished.

"It is time that the American people came to a realization of the tremendous power in a hangover. When I get in the White House I'll take one good alconocratic hangover and make it build a Boulder dam, a Muscle Shoals, and settle the Philippine question. The conservatives, or nondrinkers, will not be permitted to vote.

"I'll give 500,000 American citizens four bloogs each, and let the Japs come on.

"Then we will harness the hiccup and I'll be in the White House, with H. L. Mencken as my secretary of jits, Sinclair Lewis as secretary of bloogs, and Ernest Boyd as secretary of dark brown tastes."

BEG YOUR PARDON

In a recent article reprinted by The Sunday Tribune from the columns of The Forward, it was asserted that Walter Duranty, Moscow correspondent of the New York Times, received a rebate of two-thirds the regular rate on cable dispatches.

The New York Times states that the statement on rebates is untrue. The Times cable tolls "are paid in London at the same rate as applies to all other press dispatches, and Mr. Duranty has nothing to do with this."

Dry Agents Burn Home; House Votes Owner $2,500

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—(AP)—The house tonight passed the Horr bill to pay $2,500 to Gottlieb Stock because his house near Vaughn, Wash., burned down after prohibition agents set fire to a still nearby.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

NUTHOUSE LEGISLATION.

Congress has voted 90 million dollars to be distributed by the secretary of agriculture in the form of crop loans to farmers. The secretary may, but he need not, insist that as a consideration for receiving the loan the farmer reduce his acreage by 30 per cent.

The enactment of this measure raises the question whether the country wouldn't be considerably better off if the members of congress were drawn from the insane asylums. At a time when almost every one is agreed that farm surpluses are the cause of much of the agricultural distress in the country, congress deliberately goes ahead lending money to be used for increasing these surpluses. For every farmer who will be helped a thousand will be injured.

Congress still thinks, apparently, that what the farmers want is more debts hanging over their heads to be repaid with interest. Congress still goes through the motions of enacting these crop loan laws, well knowing that for much the most part the farmers who want this kind of short term money are the incompetents and the dishonest who do not mean to repay. It is obvious to every one that the loans are calculated to provide a political fund for the congressmen in rural districts.

It is no answer to say that if the Reconstruction Finance corporation is doling out the taxpayers' money to industry and finance it can dole some out to the farmers as well. The simple fact is that there is little or no justification for any of these loans and all must be stopped if the federal treasury is to remain solvent for more than a few months.

THE BENEFACTORS OF ILLINOIS.

An income tax bill has been introduced in the Indiana legislature and has the support of farm organizations. The measure provides a graduated tax, starting with 1 per cent on personal incomes of a thousand dollars and advancing to 6 per cent on incomes of over $5,000. The bill also provides a tax on corporate incomes, starting at 1½ per cent on the first $1,000 of net profit and climbing to 6 per cent on incomes of more than $5,000.

Illinois observed the enactment of such a measure in Wisconsin with great equanimity. The proposal could have only one result: the driving of wealth, whether individual or corporate, out of Wisconsin into neighboring states which did not penalize successful business management. Now that Indiana and Iowa, too, are considering similar measures, Illinois can observe the development with positive satisfaction. If we continue to promise relatively fair dealing to individuals and business houses we shall find factories moving here in increasing numbers.

Incomes are derived from business and business employs men. The Wisconsin law and the Indiana bill are calculated to encourage depopulation and unemployment. Other things being equal, it will pay the Wisconsin and Indiana business managers to move into Illinois. A company which makes a million dollars a year under the Indiana law would be required to pay something like $60,000 a year in income taxes and its resident officers would be required to pay comparable sums in addition to their property taxes. Sixty thousand dollars is the income of a million. To escape that tax the Indiana factory management would be justified in spending up to a million dollars in moving its activities across the state line. In the long run that can only injure the farmers of Indiana, whose produce is sold to greatest advantage nearest home. The farther Indiana farmers have to move their hogs and milk to find a customer the less the farmers will receive for their produce.

VOX POP AND HIS BIRDS.

Vox Pop is a great bird lover, as his communications so frequently show, but he seems incorrigible in his unwillingness to distinguish between the ordinary and extraordinary phenomena of winter bird life. A Cicero citizen reports that he experienced a thrill on seeing a woodpecker the other day. At least two varieties of woodpeckers do not give the idea of going south for the winter half as much attention as the Cicero citizen easily might. He may go to Florida, but they'll stay regardless of the north wind.

Thursday night there was a bit of snow with temperature above freezing in the morning. Brooks ran black alongside the fresh fallen snow. With gray skies and a bit of zip in the air, there was the full suggestion of early spring. That was an inspiration for the cardinal, and as dawn cleared into day he released about everything that he has in his catalogue of song. When he does that the nightingale goes into second flight. Not even the brown thrasher in his day in the sun can fill the morning with so many illusions as can the cardinal in full song, because the thrasher sings to the blossoming thorn and the cardinal goes into an ecstasy over fresh snow on brown leaves.

That is among the ordinary winter phenomena of bird life in these parts. When the Cicero woodpecker is in the mood he'll let go of some sounds which may start the hearer to looking for the first robin. He also can create the illusion of something freshly arrived from blossoms and soft winds. The bluejay is another who can take it when winter dishes it out, and the nuthatch may lead the sentimental listener about the woods searching for something just up from the south, which turns out to be merely a permanent resident enjoying himself in a little turn of song. There's another cheery little rascal whose name invades these columns so often that just for a change he shall be known as parus atricapillus, with no further identification than black capped titmouse. That, however, is not his name as he is known in our woods.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR VOLSTEAD.

Congressmen opposed to national prohibition yesterday obtained a reduction of 17 per cent in the enforcement appropriation as compared with the appropriation for the fiscal year 1933. Congressman Britten says there is no feeling in the opposition that the appropriations should be cut off entirely so long as repeal is an undecided issue. This is a moderate position and from it the opponents of Volstead could easily move forward to one more advanced. The attitude of the drys in the closing days of this session of congress has been the one to be expected, but it is not creditable to the persons assuming it. The Volstead cause has been tried and lost. The verdict is against it and a great majority of the people have indorsed the Democratic platform for repeal and they have elected men pledged to that platform. Congress has not as yet been changed in personnel. The drys take advantage of this fact to resist the popular decision in every way they can.

If such willfulness continues, the opposition to Volstead would be perfectly justified in cutting the enforcement appropriations out completely. Mr. Britten and his associates would have warrant for a declaration that if the drys did not submit the repeal amendment to the decision of the people they would not give the department of justice a dime to continue the operations of a law already rejected and discredited.

The moral grounds for such action are well to the front. These appropriations have been used to promote some of the most unworthy acts to which a government can commit itself. They have been used to gratify the personal ambitions, the narrow prejudices, the embittered emotionalism and the sanctimonious self-satisfaction of bigots and zealots who seized government as an instrument of their own desires. The government has paid for wire tapping, manslaughter, invasion of property, merciless prosecution, and a form of entrapment and espionage involving singularly low forms of human depravity. Methods which no self-respecting law enforcement body would use or even consider have been forced into government conduct and have been paid for by these prohibition appropriations.

The opposition was very moderate indeed in proposing merely a slash in the amounts heretofore voted this official terrorism, lawlessness, and depravity.

MANNING THE BOATS.

A proposal to substitute women for men as waiters and stewards on ships should be put promptly and firmly in the waste basket with all the other foolish notions of the day. The modern ship is not yet invulnerable to disaster. Fire and fog and tempest are still perils which put all men's strength and skill to the test. A lifeboat is a difficult thing to manage at best, and we believe that, apart from the stewards, there are not enough men to spare in a ship's complement properly to man all the boats.

No doubt economies are needed in shipping operations as in other fields of business, but they should be made at the expense of some of the luxuries with which the traveler is now tempted, not at the expense of safety.

Editorial of the Day

PRIMARY REPEAL BILL.

[Indianapolis News.]

The proposal to repeal the direct primary law is untimely and unfair to the general demand for a full test of the merits of the plan. The state recognized the possible benefits of the system when it provided for the nomination of all candidates by direct vote of party members. It found, however, that in nominating candidates for state offices voters were not able to judge from personal knowledge and were compelled to depend to a large extent on instructions. The result was no improvement in the ability of nominees. It was also felt that the primary enabled demagogues to gain control of state affairs, which would not have been possible under the convention system. The assembly reflected the trend of popular opinion when it provided for the nomination of all state candidates by party conventions. The delegates to these conventions are chosen at primaries, however, so that the control of the party choice remains largely in the hands of the party as a whole.

The primary law still calls for the nomination of county, city and township candidates by direct vote. It has been reduced to community nominations. It should be left in this position until all the possibilities of its benefits have been explored. As long as it enables individual members of parties, or other citizens voting as such, to pass judgment on candidates whom they can know personally, or whose public careers are matters of intimate community knowledge, it affords the means of protecting local government from the encroachments of minor political machines. These machines may gain control of primaries, but they can neither gain the control nor hold it against a public movement to use the primary for machine destruction.

To repeal the primary at a time when the state is approaching its municipal primaries would be unfair to the whole experiment. In nearly every city the administration has undergone a test of its ability to revise taxes downward to conform to the paying capacity of the people. In many instances the welfare of the people has been sacrificed to political expediency. Administrations in this class will attempt to perpetuate themselves and their exploitation policies by using their patronage to nominate like-minded candidates for the fall elections. The same tendency will be manifest in next year's elections. It can be frustrated by leaving the nominations in the hands of the people.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

IT MUST BE great fun to be a Washington correspondent right now and make a guess every day on who will be members of Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet. After studying the lists sent out by various correspondents we believe we have guessed the method. They write all the names on slips of paper and put them in a hat, shuffle the lists around, and then have a little blindfolded girl draw them out twelve names. That's the next cabinet for the day. But maybe that isn't it. Sometimes we think they take a copy of "Who's Who in Washington" and open it at random. Then, shutting his eyes, one of the correspondents stabs his finger at a page and the name that it strikes is the new secretary of commerce or secretary of the navy or whatever the job is that is under discussion. It must be a mad, merry life and afford the correspondent a lot of good clean sport.

IN THIS QUIET HOUR.

Thy snow is falling softly on the earth,
The earth that lies serene for all our plight;
O Father, let another peace descend
Upon earth's troubled sons this winter night.

Look down upon them in their anxious dark;
The fathers sleepless with their fear and care;
The mothers with their prayers upon their lips,
The prayers that stand between them and despair.

It is so long, so long that they have borne
These heartaches and privation! Though it be
For men to solve this anguished riddle, Lord,
What have they ever done except through Thee!

Let fall Thy comfort as this soundless snow;
Let men grow conscious in some deeper way
Of Love beside them in this quiet hour,
Of Strength with which to meet the coming day!

ADELAIDE LOVE.

THE NEW MEXICO legislature is considering a bill to abolish all fraternities and sororities from the state university. That seems rather harsh. Why, those Greek letter boys and girls will have to go back to studying.

WE'RE HAVING enough trouble with all the new words the technocrats have shot at us, but here comes Doc Ivan Wright, down at the University of Illinois, with another awful hunk of language. It's "recredivation." You may use it safely when the present economic situation is being discussed, but don't brandish it around too much or you'll be forced to admit that you don't know whether recredivation has horns and gives milk like a cow or sits up in a tree like an owl and says, "Whoo, whoo."

"A SQUAD OF DETECTIVES have ben guarding Solomon Smith's house on the north shore."—Exchange. Now, you see, it's your fault. You've been pronouncing it this way all the time, so finally the newspapers just give up and spell it that way.

JUST ONE.

If I can but one perfect gem create,
One carven song to last the coming years,
One dream of beauty all immaculate,
Spun from the substance of my smiles and tears,
I'll turn my back upon the whole world's hate,
And render love for all its taunts and jeers!

E. LESLIE SPAULDING.

THE VERY SIMPLE inaugural parade of Mr. Roosevelt has been ordered simplified some more and until it will be only two hours passing a given point. Old Tom Jefferson's inaugural only took about two seconds passing a given point, unless Tom said "Whoa" and stopped his parade right dead on the given point. But, otherwise, Tom's parade passed along in about two seconds and when he got to the fence back of the capitol he hitched his parade to the fence, gave it a bucket of water and went over and got sworn in. Then he came back, unhitched his parade, climbed into the saddle and rode home. But simplicity, like everything else, seems to have changed.

"ARRANGING THE FLOWERS on the Dinner Table the Problem the Hostess Has to Face."—Headline. Nay, not so! The greatest problem is to see that that fool bootlegger gets over with the gin for the cocktails. The big boobs, they're always getting into jail or being taken for a ride or stewed or something. Oh, my dear, bootleggers are so trying!

FRANCE declares Mr. Bullitt is an accredited representative of Mr. Roosevelt and has received him with the customary honors, bands, and champagne. But Mr. Roosevelt says Mr. Bullitt is not his official emissary. Maybe Mr. Bullitt has been fired. Or perhaps he is a split-nose bullet that, once it has lodged in something, is very difficult to extract.

WHEN I AM OLD.

When I am old, and days crawl limp and slow,
When I am free from toil and weariness,
Then I shall calmly sit till sunset glow
Recounting all the hours God sent to bless.
Ten thousand dawns shall come again to me
To loose me from the fear of shrouding night;
Old-fashioned gardens limned by memory
Shall haunt my noontide with their pure delight.
Soft, through the windows, tender words shall come,
Voices I knew when life was April-sweet;
Then I shall sing, no more shall I be dumb;
Youth shall return, to make my joy complete.
When I am old, and quieted all strife,
My heart shall say, How good, how kind, was life!

CERTIFIED MILK.

A NUMBER of years ago the physicians of Newark wanted a supply of milk that was clean enough to feed raw to babies. They knew the raw milk supply available to their youthful patients was very unclean, measured by the standards of a baby's needs. They considered the matter of sufficient importance to hold a meeting for discussion. Dr. Coit was given the task of finding a safe product.

He got hold of the largest and best milk producer on the market and, with him, worked out a method of producing a clean milk of standard quality, and of marketing it so as to bring it to the consumer when fresh.

The medical men formed a certifying commission to supervise the production and marketing. The names and other material were copyrighted. The commission entered into a contract, giving the producer the right to use the name "certified milk," and to advertise the supervisory control exercised over the production and marketing of the milk. They employed veterinarians to examine the milk cows, physicians to examine the milk handlers, sanitarians to examine the premises, and laboratories to examine the milk.

The other party to the contract, the producer, agreed to be regulated by the rules laid down to protect his milk against all exposure to diseases that it might transport, to keep it clean and cold, and to deliver it when fresh.

The commission was to receive no compensation except the fact that a safe, clean, and fresh supply of raw milk was to be made available to the community. While they employed the inspectors and other supervisors and paid them, the money needed was assessed against the producer on the basis of his supply.

This certified milk method, originated in Essex county, New Jersey, a third of a century ago, has since spread throughout the country. Nearly every city now has its supply of certified milk. When the movement began milk was frequently the means by which epidemics were spread. The users of certified milk were reasonably free from milk-spread diseases at a time when the general run of children were not. Now city milk is rarely responsible for epidemics, though smaller places with no supply of pasteurized milk or certified raw milk frequently suffer the consequences of their deficiencies. Health authorities consider certified raw milk and pasteurized milk jointly as responsible for much of the freedom from contagious diseases and diarrheas which cities enjoy.

BOY'S EATING HABITS.

Mrs. F. A. writes: I have a boy going on 4 years of age who constantly eats burned matches or any ashes from cigarets that he can get hold of. I have been told that it is from lack of cereal, but he won't eat this food. I have tried every brand and he just looks at it and turns away. If I try to force it on him he gags. Is there something I can give him that will take the place of cereal either in a food or a tonic? He eats fairly well otherwise, but is very thin.

REPLY.

You are paying too much attention to the boy's eating. Could you send him away from home for a while that he might get the advantages of neglect? The best place for him would be in a home with some three to ten children of about his own age. He would soon learn from the others what to eat and what to leave alone.

ASTHMA.

W. E. H. writes:

1. Is bronchial asthma a form of tuberculosis or a tubercular symptom?
2. Is it hereditary?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. Within limits, it is.

THEY GET IN YOUR HAIR.

D. K. writes: For the last three weeks I have been troubled with vermin in my hair. I do not know how or where I got them, since I have not had them before. I have tried medicated soap, ammonia, and kerosene with no success.

REPLY.

Wash your hair with kerosene. This will kill every louse that does not escape into your clothing. The kerosene can be removed after, say, thirty minutes. If you have tried this and failed it was because of one or more faults.

1. The lice that escaped into your clothing returned after the kerosene odor had been removed. To prevent this, either cover the clothing with towels before using the oil or else strip and stand on a newspaper.
2. Nits or eggs left in the hair subsequently hatch. To prevent this wash the hair with warm vinegar and then comb out the nits.
3. Your associates lend you a pair or more to start a new colony. Do not choose to associate with people of that kind.

NOT YOUR OWN HEART.

Y. T. writes: I eat as many as five pieces of raw garlic a day between meals. I was told garlic is bad for the heart. Is that true?

REPLY.

No.

POLICE EXAMINATION.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—[Friend of the People.]—When does the next police examination take place? How much education is required? Where may one file an application? After the examination how long must one wait to be assigned? Are there any on the waiting list now? Where may one obtain a sample of an examination? What are the general requirements? C. F.

I wish to inform you that another examination for patrolmen will not be held for some time. We have, however, placed the name of your correspondent on our mailing list for notification of same when called.

This examination is open to all citizens of the United States who have been residents of the city of Chicago for a period of at least one year immediately preceding date of examination. Applicants must be between the ages of 21 and 28 years. The minimum height and weight required is 5 feet 9 inches, 145 pounds.

A large eligible list now exists for this position, the result of the examination held last year. The commission does not distribute copies of previous examinations, but at the time the examination is called, when application is filed, he may peruse a copy of same at this office.

A DISCRETIONARY MATTER.

Gary, Ind., Jan. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am expecting a divorce from my husband, who has some real estate. Am I entitled to some of this estate and to what part? S. C.

The property and alimony settlement is largely discretionary with the divorce judge, depending on all the equities of the parties. Presumably you have employed an attorney to handle the case for you. If so, he is in a better position to handle the case for you than we are.

MECHANIC'S LIEN.

Oak Park, Ill., Jan. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would greatly appreciate information regarding a mechanic's lien, when it should be filed and all particulars regarding same. J. F. H.

A subcontractor or material man in order to procure and enforce a mechanic's lien must within sixty days after completion serve notice on the owner. [Sec. 24.] The principal contractor has as against third parties four months in which to sue to enforce his lien, or to file with the clerk of the Circuit court a lien claim for which a printed form can be secured from a stationer. [Sec. 7.] As against the owner his claim may be filed at any time within two years after completion.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 28, 1917.

LONDON. — State, military, and naval leaders of all the central powers are gathered today at German great headquarters to celebrate Kaiser Wilhelm's fifty-eighth birthday. Telegraphing to the Berlin Academy of Science in reply to birthday congratulations, Emperor William reiterated the assertion that the German people will obtain peace by the sword, says a Reuter dispatch from Amsterdam, which declares this information was obtained from German newspapers. The emperor's message, as quoted, read: "The unshakable will to victory of the German people, who are prepared for every sacrifice of blood and treasure, will, I trust God, preserve the fatherland from the ruin contemplated by its enemies and will force by the sword the peace necessary for the blessed development of the people."

WAR SUMMARY—Berlin reports that repeated efforts by the French to regain the ground lost north of Verdun in the vicinity of Hill 304 failed. Petrograd claims that the Russians made some advances in the region of Riga east of Kaintsem road, toward Chlok. Rumanian reports, covering many days of fighting, say gains were made against the invaders at various points. Lloyds reports the sinking of four more ships by German submarines, one British, one Danish and two Norwegian.

PARIS.—The wrecking of the Dresden arsenal by an explosion, in which 1,000 women and girls are said to have been killed, was made known here. This information was obtained from a letter taken from a German soldier prisoner. The letter, dated Dec. 30, was written by a friend in Dresden, who said the windows within a radius of twelve miles had been shattered and that travel to Dresden was restricted by the authorities in an effort to keep the news secret.

WASHINGTON.—As commander in chief of the army, President Wilson issued the formal order for the evacuation of Mexico by the United States troops led by Gen. Pershing. The American soldiers, after ten months on Mexican soil, already are on their way northward to the border and it is expected that all will be on American soil within the next fortnight. The retirement of the Pershing force from Mexico is the result of Gen. Carranza's repeated demands that the invasion of the revolution ridden republic be halted and that the American soldiers be withdrawn. It marks the end of the "punitive expedition" sent into Mexico by President Wilson to "get Villa dead or alive" and exact satisfaction for the massacre of the Americans at Columbus, N. M., last March. The expedition not only failed to capture Villa, but recently has been menaced by the bandit.

CHICAGO.—"Mammy's baby," Marjorie Delbridge, is still missing. Thirty hours of painstaking search have only intensified the mystery that envelops the fate of the strangely starred little girl since she stepped from the home of Mrs. Louis Brock, 6826 Cornell avenue, for a last farewell to "Mammy" Camilla Jackson, colored. The police hold the threads of a dozen theories, the latest of which was suggested by "Mammy" Jackson herself. She suggested that some southern woman's club members had taken the child, but authorities take no stock in this theory. The club had opposed Mrs. Brock's possession of the white girl; she had been given the child's custody pending investigation of "Mammy's" fitness to keep her.

CHICAGO. — Plain potatoes from Wisconsin, shipped in burlap sacks, sold on a parity with Michigan grown apples in the Chicago produce market yesterday. They reached the highest price in the history of South Water street—$2 a bushel in car load lots. Commission dealers made forecasts that the prices will advance to $3 a bushel within the next few weeks.

CHICAGO.—The Hobo Players are rehearsing a hobo play written by the head of the Hobo college, to be produced at the Hobo theater, 917 West Washington street. The play, written by Irwin St. John Tucker, is entitled "The Dope Fiend." It is in one act and portrays the struggle of a victim of the morphine habit against his appetite for the drug. The part of the dope fiend will be played by Harry Wilson, a wandering actor belonging to the Hobo college. Two women in the cast will be furnished by Maurice Browne's Little Theater players.

CHICAGO.—A charge of criminal libel against Vlademir Geringer, 1906 Washington boulevard, managing editor of the Svornost, a Bohemian daily newspaper, was dismissed by Judge Rafferty in the Des Plaines street court. Frank Iska of 1510 West Eighteenth street, editor of the Weekly Vesmir, another Bohemian newspaper, had alleged that Geringer in editorials in the Svornost had accused him of being a traitor to Bohemia and with favoring Austria.

THE QUEEN OF '93.

Ada, O., Jan. 24.—The publicity for the coming World's Fair recalls to me the excitement that prevailed in the little town of Urbana, O., just forty years ago when the World's Fair of 1893 was being publicized.

At that time I was living in Urbana and well remember the joyful pride of the townspeople when Miss Nellie Helmick, a pretty brunette girl of nineteen, was chosen "World's Fair Beauty."

Miss Helmick was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Helmick, who lived on a farm one and one-half miles east of Urbana. The young lady was a charming, vivacious, black haired beauty, popular with every one because of her sweet disposition.

I can remember the ovation she was given when it was learned that she had been chosen and how the townspeople accompanied her to the railroad station for a royal sendoff when she left for the World's Fair.

During the intervening forty years I have lived most of the time in Canada and lost track of the Helmick family. So many changes occur in this length of time. Not long ago I revisited Urbana and made inquiries of the whereabouts of the former World's Fair beauty, and no one seemed to even have heard of her. I hope she is alive and well, and that it will be her privilege to visit the great World's Fair during the coming summer. JOHN G. THOMAS.

POLITICIANS FOR POLITICAL TASKS.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—On seeing Mr. Orr's cartoon implying that what we need is business leadership, my first thought was the mess just such leadership has gotten us into during the past twelve years. Haven't we had big business men in office for twelve years? Haven't three Presidents served under Andrew Mellon during that time? How about the Dawes plan and the Young plan? Didn't their chief virtue lie in the fact that they were drawn up by business men and not by statesmen?

It is interesting to note that whenever a job is bungled by our so-called best minds it is always turned back to the politicians to straighten out. Perhaps if we had more statesmen and fewer big business men in Washington we would be better off—certainly not worse. G. H. H.

THE TAX ON THE CONSUMER.

Pontiac, Ill., Jan. 15.—Are your writers sincere in taking such a decided stand against the allotment plan, because it means a tax on the consumer of over a billion dollars? At the same time you say agriculture is in a bad way and propose a tax rebate on idle acres. Have you stopped to consider that if your plan works and results in higher prices for farm products, the same consumer whom, under allotment plan, you pity will have to pay the same billion dollar tax? ALVIN ANDERSON.

BORN IN REVOLUTION.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—The Rt. Hon. Henry L. [Power-drunk] Stimson, in one of his many silly speeches, referred to Russia as a country that we can never recognize "because its present government was established through violence." Some one ought to tell him what happened here in 1776. Gentle reader, that noise you hear is the laughter of the gods. ARTHUR ETCHINGHAM.

McGUFFY'S READERS.

Wheaton, Ill., Jan. 13.—I would like to see a new edition of McGuffy's readers come from the press in time for school next September. Nothing better could happen to elementary education. I, for one, would certainly enjoy teaching from them. PORTIA GILPIN.

INTERESTING IF TRUE.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—I am a grocer, located on 16th street in the Lawndale district. Considering the way times are now I have been accepting charity coupons from the Illinois Emergency Relief commission to help the customer and also myself. Recently men have been coming into my store and demanding a five to seven per cent interest on all tickets received from the commission. If I refused to give them this interest they threatened me by saying that they would stop all charity tickets addressed to this store. Being skeptical, I refused. Since then I have received only 50 per cent of the tickets that were sent to me previously.

My customers have been complaining to me about the way the relief clerks have been treating them. The customer has been ordered by the clerks to take the tickets where the clerks send them or they will not receive any ticket for food. The clerks have even gone as far as to force the customer to sign a written paper that she will not trade at my store any longer! The customer, realizing that if she does not sign the paper she will not receive any food, was forced to sign it.

I have facts, proof, and witnesses to back my statement. CHARLES LAVITT.

FOR A NATIONAL PROTEST DAY.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—I have a suggestion in connection with the fight on lower taxation and how to put pressure on congress to force action.

Why not have a national protest day? I think the reason more people are not writing and wiring their representatives is that there is no set time. I spoke before the Indiana Building Material Dealers' convention Tuesday in Indianapolis, and of the eighty dealers there most of them knew their representatives or senators, but when I had them hold up their hands to see how many had written them protesting against their action at this session of congress only three held up their hands. They were all mad and wanted something done and are willing to do something, but they kee, putting it off. I sprung the idea of a protest day on them and about half of them came up after the meeting and said they hoped something would be done along that line.

To follow that up, every civic club in the country should wire their senators an congressmen an invitation to appear before their club as soon as they return from this session and be prepared to explain their actions and why the budget is not cut. Local members of the club could be prepared to question them, and I am sure that in a few weeks, if this plan were carried out, we would get plenty of action. DAVID P. LIVINGSTON.

SAVING SCHOOL MONEY.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—To balance the school budget:

1. Let the park systems take over the school playgrounds.
2. Let the Chicago health department pay for the outfitting and upkeep of school bathrooms.
3. Let the University of Illinois run Crane college as a northern branch of our state university.

If these reforms don't total a three million dollar saving, no doubt the Chicago teachers can suggest other ways of saving without loss to the children. EDUCATOR.

ABOUT A BANK.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—When can a depositor reasonably expect a dividend from the Chicago Bank of Commerce? This bank closed June 25, 1932. It seems that, with diligent and intelligent handling, the receiver with his visible force of employés might in seven months' time pay at least something. LOUISE P. BLAKEMAN.

The Packard Hall of Precision—sensation of New York's Automobile Show Week—

OPENS TODAY AT EDGEWATER BEACH HOTEL

NEW YORKERS saw it during their Auto Show and applauded. Now that Chicago's Show is opening you can see the Packard Hall of Precision, the greatest exhibit of its kind ever presented. And you'll see it with the "original cast" intact—with every feature that was shown in New York, from precision instruments to world-famed motors and the trophies these motors helped to win.

In this exhibit are marvelous devices that enable Packard engineers and craftsmen to carry accuracy of manufacture to an almost incredible degree. A machine that, through the use of light rays, measures to a millionth of an inch. Scales that weigh the ink in a signature. A device that detects moisture in apparently dry wood. A machine that measures the volume of sound in a whisper.

When you have seen this exhibit, you will want to see the cars that these precision methods make possible. See them at the nearest Packard showroom. And by all means drive one over some road you know by heart. Compare it, feature for feature, value for value, performance for performance, with every other fine car 1933 can offer you. We believe you will agree that the new Packards are not only the finest cars Packard has ever produced, but the finest cars America has ever seen. Packard Motor Car Co. of Chicago.

PROFESSOR AUGUSTE PICCARD, CELEBRATED PHYSICIST and explorer of the stratosphere, inspects the Packard Light Ray Machine. This machine, through the use of a wave of red light, can check the accuracy of precision gauges to one-millionth of an inch, the finest measurement known to man.

MISS FRIEDA INESCORT, LEADING LADY of Broadway's reigning success, "When Ladies Meet", watching a Packard engineer measure the diameter of a hair from her own lovely head. This measuring device, used to check the precision of many Packard parts, is accurate to one one-hundred-thousandth of an inch, a measurement 200 times finer than the thickness of a human hair.

GAR WOOD, GREATEST OF SPEEDBOAT PILOTS, beside the Harmsworth Trophy, emblematic of the world's speedboat supremacy. Five of the "Miss Americas" with which Mr. Wood has defended the trophy have been powered by Packard motors. The latest and greatest, "Miss America X", driven by four 12-cylinder Packard motors developing 6400 horsepower, brought the world's speedboat record back to America with a performance of 124.91 miles per hour.

WALTER LEES, 13TH REGISTERED AIRPLANE PILOT in the United States, pictured with the Packard-Diesel aircraft engine. A plane powered by one of these engines and piloted by Lees, established the world's non-stop, non-refueling endurance record of 84 hours and 32 minutes in May, 1931.

MEASURING A CAT'S PURR with the Acoustimeter. With this uncanny device, Packard engineers have ferreted out and eliminated motor car noises that are inaudible to the human ear. It was this machine that enabled Packard to locate the sources of wind noises so that they could actually lessen the sound of the wind as it rushes by a speeding car.

LOWELL THOMAS, AUTHOR of a dozen best sellers, and famous as the radio voice of The Literary Digest, watches with interest as a Packard engineer weighs the ink in his famous signature. The Packard scales that do the weighing are accurate to one five-millionth of a pound.

PRESIDENT ALVAN MACAULEY OF THE PACKARD MOTOR CAR COMPANY telling a youthful visitor about the Collier Trophy, presented to Packard on behalf of the National Aeronautic Association by the President of the United States in recognition of "the greatest achievement in Aviation" in 1931—the Packard-Diesel Aircraft Engine.

H. P. EINTS, CHIEF ENGINEER OF THE "EUROPA", one of the world's fastest liners, and M. J. Steele, Chief Marine Engineer of the Packard Company, discuss the design of one of the four Packard motors that enabled the "Miss America X" to establish the world's speedboat record. Herr Eints was astonished to learn that the great engines of the "Europa" are only 19 times as powerful as these four Packard motors.

PRODUCE MORE! RUSSIA ORDERS HUNGRY MASSES

Better Work, Better Food! Stalin's Slogan.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Jan. 27.—Emphasizing that the bolsheviks' chief task for the present year is to increase the productivity of labor, President V. M. Molotov, right hand man of Dictator Josef Stalin, closed the session of the central executive committee at the Kremlin in Moscow last night.

Many of the 500 delegates, represent the 30 odd semi-autonomous soviet republics of Russia, will be forced to remain in Moscow for several days. Subzero weather is hampering transportation and trains are leaving Moscow station 50 to 60 hours late.

Acclaim Stalin's Policy.

The Red "parliament" unanimously passed a resolution acclaiming Stalin's policy. Not a single delegate protested the communist party's decision to reinstate the czarist passport system Molotov stressed the necessity of increasing discipline among both urban and rural inhabitants. He announced that the wanderlust of Russians, who are constantly migrating about the country in search of improved living conditions, must be curbed.

Meanwhile, the eviction of nonproletarian and doubtful elements from the cities is being organized. Moscow Leningrad, and Kharkov will be "cleansed" first of persons not entitled to receive passports or food cards and the soviet press estimates that in the spring more than 3,000,000 persons will be forced to seek homes elsewhere.

Like the kulaks (independent landowners), who, according to Stalin, were exterminated by the five year plan, migration of the declassed elements will be directed towards the north, which the Kremlin desires to populate. This movement will be controlled and directed by the G. P. U. (secret police).

Not Sufficient Food.

Not a word concerning the problem of transporting, housing, and feeding the first batch of the 3,000,000 exiles has been mentioned in the soviet press. Newspapers, however, comment on the prospects of improving the workers' living conditions, alleviating the housing situation in Russia's three largest cities, and rejoice that 3,000,000 less mouths to feed will help to solve the food problem in these centers.

Lenin's slogan, "Those who do not work do not eat!" has been changed to, "Those who work better should eat better!" and the Moscow press admits there is not sufficient food to go around.

Travelers arriving in Riga from Moscow and Leningrad report seeing great throngs of panic stricken people at the railroad stations seeking transportation to other centers in order to avoid arrest and being herded aboard freight trains for unknown destinations by the G. P. U., which has periodically exiled merchants, speculators, and other outlawed classes.

Fill Want Ad Columns.

The Krasnaija Gazette of Leningrad, one of Russia's two evening papers, and the only paper permitted to publish want ads there, is printing a full page of want ads daily of persons offering to sell furniture and other belongings in preparation to leaving the city. The advertisements graphically reveal the living conditions of the inhabitants, who ask 250 rubles ($125 in Russia, $5 elsewhere) for a second hand pair of women's felt boots, 400 rubles for five dining room chairs, 800 rubles for a second hand overcoat. One person offered to sell five yards of crepe de chine at 50 rubles a yard.

POLICE DISPERSE IDLERS AT THREE RELIEF STATIONS

Riots at two emergency relief stations were broken up and a third demonstration was prevented by police yesterday.

Trouble developed shortly after noon near the relief station at 501 East 50th place when Capt. James L. Mooney, in command of 50 policemen from the Wabash avenue station, started dispersing a crowd of 400 demonstrators, most of them Negoes led by a white woman. A woman later arrested and identified as Mary Wernick, 5132 South State street, struck Capt. Mooney on the head with an iron bar, and six policemen were struck by stones and clubs. Six men and two other women were arrested.

Capt. John Hogan and 100 policeman took part in the second mêlée near the relief station at 8610 Commercial avenue. Three of the demonstrators received head injuries and were taken to the Bridewell hospital.

A crowd of 400 demonstrators which started a march on the relief station at 4410 Ravenswood avenue was dispersed several blocks from the station by police squads without arrests or injuries.

FUR BUYERS FINED.

Coldwater, Mich., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Irving Gould, 28, and Charles Galler, 27, head of the Gould & Galler Fur brokerage at 190 North State street, Chicago, paid fines totaling $117.72 each in Lower court at Jonesville today when they pleaded guilty to the purchase of furs in Michigan without the required license.

GRANTED DIVORCE

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Marion O'Neal of the Ambassador hotel, known on the stage and in the movies as Veree Teasdale, was granted a divorce yesterday from William O'Neal, an actor, now traveling with a road company, by Judge Herbert S. Anderson in the Circuit court. Miss Teasdale testified that her husband left her in October, 1927, four months after their marriage in Cleveland. She ascribed the separation to "clashing temperaments." She is a niece of Sara Teasdale, poetess.

BOOST CEMENT PRICE 56%; CITY TURNS DOWN BIDS

Three Bidders Submit Identical Offers.

Because the only three bidders on the city's call for cement during the present year submitted identical bids, which boosted the price on bulk lots 56 per cent above that paid last year, Mayor Cermak advised yesterday that the department of public works reject all the bids. He acted after Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt had informed him of the nature of the bids.

In addition to advertising for bids, the city sent letters to four cement manufacturers and twenty dealers, inviting them to bid for the contract. Only three bids were received, however—all from dealers. The dealers who bid were the Moulding-Brownell corporation, the Consumers company, and the Material Service corporation. Their bids per barrel for various types of delivery and the prices which the city paid last year follow:

	1933.	1932.
Delivery by truck	$2.45	$1.75
Delivery by rail	2.10	1.70
Delivery in bulk	2.00	1.28

$108,000 Above 1932 Prices.

The department of public works asked for bids on more than 150,000 barrels, which Mayor Cermak said was the requirement of the city for the year if all the construction contemplated gets under way and proceeds without delay. On the basis of the bulk bids cement would cost the city this year $108,000 above the 1932 prices on the same quantity.

"Probably the most objectionable feature of the bids," said Mayor Cermak, "is the fact that each of the three bidding dealers desires an agreement under which he can change the price from time to time. In effect they have submitted rubber bids which can be bounded up and down from month to month.

"Flexible Price Sought."

"Each of the trio asserted that manufacturers had ceased to protect dealers on City of Chicago cement contracts as to price. In a word, it is proposed that the price to the city shall be boosted or lowered every time the manufacturers decide on a new price schedule. A search of the records of the department of public works shows that no such bid as this has been accepted during the last ten years.

"All of this is a surprise to me, in view of the information that I have received that nine important cement plants in the Chicago area are working only a small part of their capacity. The Petosky [Mich.] plant, with a capacity of 1,830,000 barrels a year, is shut down, I am informed. The La Salle [Ill.], plant of the Alpha Cement company, with a capacity of 1,645,000 barrels, is working only 10 per cent. Only one of the nine plants, that of the Marquette company at Oglesby, Ill., is working more than 50 per cent capacity."

BOOKS

Noted German Visitor Shows His Intelligence

Feuchtwanger Tells Plan of Literary Work.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

LION FEUCHTWANGER, author of "Power," "Success," "The Ugly Duchess," "Josephus" [which those of us who do not read German know in translation], and at least five other books which we do not know, has been our most recent distinguished literary visitor. There is something oddly beguiling about Herr Feuchtwanger. A friend of mine, a charming young Lake Forester, said that she and her husband came in on an early train the other day and in the station they saw a little man surrounded by photographers and they simultaneously said, "That is one of the most intelligent faces I ever saw. Who CAN it be?" knowing, of course, that it must be somebody to be met, as he was, by a barrage of snapshots.

LION FEUCHTWANGER.

None of his photographs prepared us for Lion Feuchtwanger. He looks incredibly stern in them, and somewhat leonine. There is none of the twinkling eye and knowing that illumines his face when one sees it, as casual North Western station comrades saw it the morning of his arrival. And oddly enough his portrait heads give one the impression not only of some one a little terrifying, but also of some one vastly tall and broad. He is neither. He is shorter even than I am [and I could never make the Juno class], and compactly thin. And he looks, seated next one at luncheon, an indeterminate age, but certainly not the forty-eight which he says he is.

He was the guest of the Francis Neilsons [returned after a long absence] just in time to celebrate the publication of Mr. Neilson's "The Eleventh Commandment." [Viking]. On the other side of me sat Prof. William Nitze of the University of Chicago and one of the most interesting sentences of all of Dr. Feuchtwanger's conversation was in answer to a casual question from Mr. Nitze. "How did you happen to choose Josephus to write about?" he asked. "Because," said Dr. Feuchtwanger, "Josephus was the first great man of whom we have a record who was torn spiritually between nationalism and internationalism. He was an internationalist intellectually and nationalist emotionally. And that struggle is, to me, the great struggle of today."

Linked with something that he said that evening in a lecture which he gave at Temple Sholom, Herr Feuchtwanger's whole literary creed is explained. He was showing his audience that in all fundamental things, in the subconscious flow of life [if one wants to put it so] man had not changed for two thousand years, despite the bathroom and the electric lights and the airplanes of his physical existence. And in that connection he said "I have tried in all of my historical novels to show not the physical differences between the past and the present, but the spiritual similarity." In those two sentences the end and the work toward that end of Herr Feuchtwanger's literary labors is summed up.

I asked him what American writers the great German novelists considered our best. [He was a proper one to put that question to because he is one of the four or five leading German novelists himself]. "Sinclair Lewis first of all," he replied, "and Upton Sinclair with Hemingway among the younger writers. But speaking of Hemingway, we find him less original than Americans do, perhaps."

"American critics think that he stems from Gertrude Stein," I answered, "but that he has created an artistic entity of his own."

"I do not know the work of Gertrude Stein, but all Europe knows the work of the great Danish impressionistic writer, Hermann Bang. We think that Hemingway writes in the tradition of Bang.

"Of Willa Cather we know only one book, 'My Antonia,'" he said when I asked him how she was considered among German critics, and told him that we looked upon her as our greatest woman novelist. "It must be, from the praise I hear of her work on all sides in America, the fault of the translation, but 'My Antonia' seemed a little sentimental. Germany knows best among your contemporary women novelists the work of Edna Ferber."

Herr Feuchtwanger's itinerary sounds like a fantastic modern romance in itself. Yesterday in Los Angeles, today in Chicago, tomorrow in Washington . . . he is literally getting a bird's eye view of America, hurtling through the air most of the time. But he is not going to put that view on paper. He looked horrified when I asked him. "But I know nothing about America, how could I write about it?" Which is one of the many manifestations of Herr Feuchtwanger's intelligence which passersby in railroad stations remark in his face.

Girl Who Fascinates Men Is Heroine of Odd Novel by Jesty

Simon Jesty in "Ye Drunken Damozel" [Smith and Haas] tells the fantastic story of a girl who manages so to fascinate men that they ruin one another for her smile. She is at first a child of the slums, delicate, sensitive, beautiful, a misfit.

Later she becomes a famous and fêted singer in Rio. All sorts of men cling to her skirts, begging for the privilege of kissing the hem, politicians, artists, laborers, sailors, and financiers, set against the background of exotic countries, teeming with life, and odor and color, a story of intrigue and romance takes place.

The novel is at once an adventure story, a study in characterization, and a strange literary exercise. The manner of writing is startling and unusual and constitutes part of the oddness of the book. A single glance at the chapter heads is bound to stimulate the imagination and the curiosity of the reader.

Brief Reviews

BY M. D.

"Theater and Friendship, Letters from Henry James to Elizabeth Robins" [Putnam], with a commentary by the actress Elizabeth Robins, uncovers a rich and neglected field in the life and personality of Henry James. Few people know of this fine friendship and of Henry James' fascinated interest in the stage so patently revealed in the letters. As valuable commentaries on the theater, as well as revelations of another and equally significant facet of Henry James' rich personality, these letters command attention.

HENRY JAMES.

"The Life of William Blake," by Mona Wilson [Ballou], is a new edition of the beautiful and stimulating biography of England's mad poet.

No woman poet in America has aroused so much discussion in the last few years as has Emily Dickinson. In a new book Martha Dickinson Bianchi adds to the first biography she wrote of her aunt. "Emily Dickinson Face to Face" [Houghton-Mifflin] re-creates in intimate scenes and personal incidents and anecdotes the life of this strange, elusive poetic genius. In the latter half of the book the author includes more than 150 notes and letters by Emily Dickinson that have not hitherto been published. This book adds a little more to the knowledge of this woman who had almost become a myth before she was rediscovered.

EMILY DICKINSON.

"The Island of Doctor Moreau" [Duffield & Green], by H. G. Wells, first published in 1896 and out of print for the last few years, may have been terrifying to our parents but in this day of subtle superhorror can be recommended to squeamish and neurasthenic readers to be read even when the electricity won't work, when no one is at home and when the wind is howling around the house.

Three Famous Authors Will Visit Chicago

Masefield and Nicolsons to Lecture Here.

CHICAGO will have more distinguished literary visitors the week of Feb. 5 than it has had in the same length of time since I can remember. The poet laureate of England and two writers whom their fellow townsmen call "the most amusing literary combination in London," John Masefield and "The Nicolsons" who are, separately, the Hon. Victoria Sackville-West and the Hon. Harold Nicolson.

Mr. Masefield will be the first English poet laureate ever to appear on an American platform, but he is known and joyously rewelcomed by Chicago audiences who met him during the war when he lectured here in 1916 and 1918. I shall never forget him as I met him then. He had the saddest eyes I had ever seen, heavy lidded, weighted with weariness. And he was shy beyond even my own very youthful pained and painful shyness, and for the first time I realized and have never forgotten that the creation of beauty is no facile play, but an actual raveling of the vital fabric of the artist, reknit.

Since then Mr. Masefield has been rewarded with the most spectacular honors of his generation, and he returns to Chicago in a blaze of glory. He will lecture at Orchestra hall on Tuesday evening, Feb. 7.

Victoria Sackville-West and her husband, Harold Nicolson, also come to Chicago from a triumphal lecture tour through the east. Not only as lecturers did they capture New York, but as human beings. They are said, by those who really met them, to be jointly and separately enchanting.

There is no novelist in England today who has a more delighted audience than V. Sackville-West. Those who are not lyric about "The Edwardians" think that "All Passion Spent" is enough to wind a bay wreath round her brow. And her latest novel, "Family History," has won passionate adherents to her standard.

Her husband, Harold Nicolson, who was born and nurtured in the diplomatic service, has written in "Public Faces" a delightful, but mordant satire on the ways of diplomacy. V. Sackville-West will lecture at the Drake hotel in the Town Hall series on Saturday, Feb. 4, and Harold Nicolson in the same series on Saturday, Feb. 11, and they will give one other public lecture in Chicago when they speak jointly on Marriage at Sinai Center on Monday evening, Feb. 6. They will be the guests of the Chicago chapter of the International P. E. N. club at a dinner at the Casino club on Sunday evening, Feb. 5, when they will meet their fellow craftsmen.

Phoebe Gaye Pens Another History Novel

Deals with Period of the Napoleonic Wars.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON, — [Special Correspondence.]—It is good news that Miss Phoebe Fenwick Gaye, the author of "Vivandière," is engaged upon a new novel dealing with the period of the Napoleonic wars. This was the period with which she was so successful in her first novel. Her subsequent books, "Good Sir John" and "New Heaven, New Earth," have been, respectively, ancient and modern; but the Napoleonic period, romantic, colored, remote, yet not too remote for our easy comprehension, suits Miss Gaye best. Miss Gaye is a very busy young woman. Not so long ago, she was acting as secretary to Mrs. Daphne Muir, but she is now married, has an interesting baby, and besides doing other writing is well under way with her fourth novel.

PHOEBE GAYE.

All genuine readers have received, or will obtain with the least possible delay, a great treat and indispensable companion. It is called "The Oxford Companion to English Literature," and has been compiled by Sir Paul Harvey. This book should do, but with rather more style, for modern readers what the estimable Dr. Brewer's two fat books, "The Reader's Handbook," and "A Dictionary of Phrase and Fable" did for those of an earlier day [the latter, by the way, has lately been revised and enlarged]. Like Brewer, Sir Paul Harvey has realized that while authors are learned and allusive, readers are often baffled by references to events, legends, characters, historical symbols, and other mysteries with which [or whom] they are unfamiliar. The new "Oxford Companion" changes all that. Its knowledges are inexhaustible and alphabetic. It is so packed with invaluable information that if the type alone were laid flat it would cover nearly 25 square yards, while if the lines of type were laid end to end they would extend for nearly a fifth of a mile. And not a word is wasted. The book represents, I should say, the hobby of a lifetime in its accumulation of fact and reference, but it will certainly lift many a frown from many a forehead by its clear explanations of the words and names we do not understand.

When Aldous Huxley praises a book, I am prepared to believe the book worth reading. He wisely does not broadcast his praise: to do that is to make it over familiar and in the end valueless. But no reader has a wiser or more understanding eye for excellence.

Mr. Huxley is allowing the English publishers to quote his enthusiastic praise of a long and very important German novel called "The Sleepwalkers," by Hermann Broch. This book, which is translated by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Muir, is a trilogy published [in the English version] in one volume. It covers the social history of Germany between 1888 and 1918, and is the work of a writer who is poet, psychologist, and philosopher.

The translators, who are good judges, say that "The Sleepwalkers" is perhaps the greatest imaginative prose work to appear in Europe since the war. Mr. Huxley endorses this praise. The fact should be borne in mind.

Among the New Books

FICTION.

Jealousy, by Norah C. James [Covici-Friede], portrays a woman's desire for spiritual privacy and a man's instinct to violate that privacy.

The Fallow Land, by H. E. Bates [Ballou], describes the adventures of a young servant girl who is thrown into an exacting life by marriage to a farmer.

Foul Weather, by George Gibbs [Appleton], is a dramatic novel of the sea and its victims.

NONFICTION.

Atom and Cosmos, by Hans Reichenbach [Macmillan], summarizes the whole field of physics, including the new and significant discoveries.

Psychology of Sex, by Havelock Ellis [Long & Smith], selects many of the important chapters from this author's famous seven volume work.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Log of the Sea, by Felix Riesenberg [Harcourt-Brace], took ten years to write and fifty to live, and is a meaty and fascinating record of a man's life on the sea.

Gandhi Versus the Empire, by Haridas T. Muzumdar [Universal], sympathetically portrays Gandhi and his movement in a monumental volume.

ABOUT PLACES.

The Book of Vagabonds [Coward-McCann] is an omnibus volume of three great vagabonding stories full of glamorous adventure and dangerous exploits.

DRAMA.

Cavalcade, by Noel Coward [Doubleday Doran], is an exciting panoramic drama of English life from 1899 to 1930.

Gentlemen Beggars, by Hagop Baronian [Bruce Humphries], is a light comedy concerned with the adventures of a man who gets riches and wants a bride.

HONEST, TOLERANT, Bitingly Incisive
THE STORY OF two doctors who specialize in obstetrics and gynecology. In the form of a unique novel it reveals the intimate life of women as no other novelist has hitherto had the grace to tell it.
Women will learn more about the mysteries of their bodies and about the concealed physical influences to which they are subject than they are likely to learn from any other source.
Men will discover more about their wives and sweethearts than they are likely to find out for themselves. It omits nothing that is vital. It conceals nothing for prudish caution. $2

ACUMEN
The Sharpness of the Mind
A keen mind may be likened to a sharp knife, which penetrates easily and quickly. For clean-cut action, both the knife and the mind must be sharp. So it is natural that, when a word was needed to denote the faculty of keen, penetrating thought, the Latin word for "sharpness" should be borrowed. Acuere, in Latin, means "to sharpen" and acumen means "sharpness." English borrowed acumen and used it figuratively for sharpness of the mind. There are thousands of such stories about the origins of English words in

PAY PRINCIPALS OF SCHOOLS LESS THAN ENGINEERS

One Custodian Gets $7,120 in Year.

The board of education places a higher value on engineer-custodians in the school system than upon principals. School board records disclosed yesterday that 31 of the building custodians had a higher income in 1932 than 21 high school principals drawing maximum salaries.

The maximum salary for engineer-custodians, which was set in 1928 by a school board controlled by the former administration, is $5,640. This was trimmed to $5,143 for 1932, with the men working one month without pay. The employés, however, boosted their compensation through overtime and evening school work.

Engineer Gets $7,120 in Year.

One engineer-custodian had an income of $7,120 from the school board last year. This was Harry A. Beals, who is in charge of the plant of the Fenger High school. His salary was $5,143, but the records reveal his compensation for overtime is $708 and night school work $1,269.

The income of four other engineers was more than $6,900 and five others were over the $6,000 mark. It is said that the Chicago engineer-custodians are paid on a higher scale than a similar class of employés in any other city of the country.

There are 21 high school principals who have maximum salaries of $5,708 each. Special devices such as shortening the school term reduced this salary to $5,101, or $42 below that of the engineer-custodians, in 1932.

The records show that the engineer-custodian is paid $2.25 an hour. He obtains time and a half for extra work on weekdays and double time for Sunday. His job is almost entirely supervisory. He superintends the school heating plant, building, and grounds. Janitors, firemen, window washers, and others are under him.

List High Pay Engineers.

A table showing the 31 engineer-custodians who enjoyed the highest income in 1932 follows:

Engineer.	School.	1932 Income.
Flans O. Anderson,	Crane High	$6,972
Edward H. Bade,	Steinmetz Jr.	5,143
Harry A. Beals,	Fenger High	7,120

Joe Spain,	Harrison High	5,845
†Michael P. Sullivan,	Phillips High	6,509
Joseph R. Tuley,	Austin High	6,982

*Lawson was transferred from the Waller High school to Tuley High school on Sept. 23, 1932.

†Although Sullivan is the only engineer-custodian in the foregoing list who is not paid the maximu salary, his compensation for overtime and night school work amounted to $1,844. His salary in 1932 was $4,805.

Costs Far Above New York's.

Records have not yet been compiled for 1932, but in 1931 the cost of operating the school plant per pupil in Chicago, as compared with New York City, was as follows:

Elementary schools—New York, $8.27 per pupil; Chicago, $16.17 per pupil.

Junior High schools—New York, $8.27; Chicago, $16.17.

Senior High schools—New York, $10.87; Chicago, $13.70.

Fifty of the 500 engineer-custodians operating Chicago school plants are temporary employés, placed in the system by political sponsors, it is understood.

Suspend Arson Sentence for Fire to Collect Insurance

Valparaiso, Ind., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Ira Berndt, interurban motorman who burned his home to collect insurance, was given a suspended two to fourteen years prison term here today. He has a family of eight. Berndt pleaded guilty to the charge of arson preferred by the state fire marshal.

Teacher Retires

ELLEN HANSEN.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Ellen W. Hansen retired yesterday as a teacher in the Chicago public schools after 45 years of service. She had spent the entire period as an elementary teacher at the Carpenter school at 666 North Racine avenue.

"I haven't any specific plans for the future," said Mrs. Hansen, "other than to sit around and wait for my back pay. Then maybe I'll take a trip."

Mrs. Hansen lives at 2501 Smalley court. She has two children, Evelyn and George, both of whom are married. Her husband, Dr. George H. Hansen, a Chicago physician, died nine years ago.

BLANTON AFTER JOBS OF 2 MORE U. S. OFFICIALS

Lists Forbes and Fall as His Victims.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—After 16 years of crusading in congress, Texas' fire eating representative, Tom Blanton, Democrat, thinks he is fairly qualified a Nemesis. He is going after the scalps of two more officials, Dr. E. C. Auchter, department of agriculture potato expert, and Maj. Edward L. Hoffman, army corps.

Mr. Blanton, in a speech in the house listed his previous victims as follows:

THOS. L. BLANTON.
[Acme Photo.]

Col. C. R. Forbes, director of veteran's bureau, imprisoned; Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior, imprisoned; Thomas W. Miller, alien property custodian, imprisoned; Col. Cuno H. Rudolph, president board of District of Columbia commissioners, resigned; Lieut. Col. Clarence O. Sherrill, superintendent of buildings and grounds, resigned; Capt. W. L. McMorris, superintendent of park police, removed; Col. Frederick A. Fenning, District of Columbia commissioner, resigned; Maj. William Wolff Smith, assistant director veterans' bureau, resigned.

Lectures on Government Time?

Mr. Blanton's complaint against Dr. Auchter is that while drawing a $6,400 salary from the government to develop new varieties of potatoes that so far have proved inferior to the standard varieties, he lectures on government time at the University of Maryland, from which he caused the department to lease 9 acres of land for experimental purposes at $100 an acre per annum.

Mr. Blanton demanded a war department inquiry to determine what influence Maj. Hoffman, who is in charge of parachute equipment at Wright field, Dayton, is exerting to procure adoption by the army of the Triangle parachute manufactured by a company which he organized and in which he owns $23,200 of stock. The war department is investigating.

DISREGARD NEW TAX COMPLAINT, BOARD IS TOLD

Fairweather and Bell Hit Pratt-Bistor Plea.

The request of James E. Bistor and John M. Pratt, officials of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers, that the board of tax appeals order a reassessment of personal property was termed illegal yesterday by County Attorney Hayden N. Bell. At the same time George O. Fairweather, who as chairman of the joint commission on real estate valuation took a prominent part in drafting the legislation which set up the present assessment system, pointed out the practical dangers of acceding to the Bistor demand, which was made Thursday at a meeting of the tax appeal board.

"The board of tax appeals," said Mr. Bell, "has no vestige of authority to order a reassessment, and I have so informed its members. That power rests with the state tax commission. This demand of Pratt and Bistor is entirely extra-legal, and I have advised the assessor to take no notice of it.

Receives and Hears Complaints.

"The only authority of the board of tax appeals is to receive and hear complaints as to single assessments. If Pratt and Bistor believe that Assessor Jacobs has failed to assess any personal property, let them file complaints against the owners of that property, which they may do legally. Then let them produce proof of their charges.

"They claim personal property is escaping taxation. Let them cease talking generalities and start presenting specific, legal evidence on which we can place some of the property they talk about on the tax rolls."

"Mr. Bistor's petition raises nothing new," said Mr. Fairweather in his statement.

"He says there is much personal property which is not on the tax books. Granted. What of it?

"Mr. Bistor knows as well as everybody else:

"1. That the statute governing personal property assessments is incapable of literal compliance, no matter who the assessor is.

"2. That the best that any assessor can do is to exhaust a sincere, intelligent and honest effort to put as much personal property on the books from as many persons as possible; at the same time maintaining equality and uniformity of treatment, which is the basic equity in the constitution.

More Returns This Year.

"3. That Assessor Jacobs has completed an assessment which surpasses comparatively any previous assessment in the particulars of the number of returns; the amount of returns, and the collectibility of the resulting assessment.

"4. That the admitted failure to place on the books all of the estimated or alleged personal property holdings is inherent in the antiquated revenue statute.

"Despite these facts, Mr. Bistor harps on the obvious. He demands an assessment discovery based on his estimates, which no assessor, not even he himself, could possibly produce. He is foolishly but dangerously contributing to the delay of the assessment on a complaint that no man or set of men or court or legislature could possibly remedy. He is dramatizing the unattainable.

"Unwittingly, I hope, but nevertheless actually he is throttling the creeping recovery of this county back to fiscal solvency. He is casting delay and doubt over local public credit, impeding the collection of taxes and the sale of tax warrants. He is insisting upon a full assessment loaf or none and he is keeping from $6,000 public employés the sustenance that even a fractional assessment loaf that might be collected can provide.

Calls Activity Futile.

"His futile activity, without any human possibility of actually accomplishing any improvement in the personal property roll now or at any time in the future, will, if recognized by competent authority, merely result in strangulation of the governmental process.

"I believe Mr. Bistor is sincere in his objective but grossly and dangerously mistaken in his method. I believe that any official credit given to his present misguided effort may well have as its direct consequence conditions of riots, disorder and disease which always accompany a crippled government."

HIS TRICK WRITS LAND "PULLER" IN JAIL FOR SIX MONTHS

Abie Ginsburg, 42 years old, 3833 Drexel boulevard, one of the foremost "pullers" in Chicago, was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction yesterday and fined $100 and costs by Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden. The charge was impersonating a deputy sheriff.

A "puller" is a person who, without the usual legal process, repossesses property when buyers are delinquent in installment payments. In order to make his pulling more efficient Ginsburg carried about with him on his business trips a number of replevin writs signed by "Judge Ginsburg." These and his assumed identity as a deputy sheriff enabled him to pull many radios and sewing machines.

ABIE GINSBURG.

He was trapped by Sergt. Ray Crane of the detective bureau, who made a telephone deal with him to pull a piano. Although he had boasted that pianos were his forte, the chagrined Ginsburg admitted after he had been arrested that he wouldn't have been able to pull one all by himself.

BLATCHFORD OUT; SCHOOL BOARD IN MAYOR'S CONTROL

Mayor Cermak, who yesterday received the resignation of School Trustee Carter Blatchford, said that he had no one immediately in mind for appointment to the vacancy. The appointment will give him control of the school board. Four of the eleven trustees are now his appointees, and a fifth, William D. McJunkin, has voted consistently with the Democrats in recent months.

Mayor Cermak also said that he does not intend to fill immediately the post of president of the board of local improvements vacated by B. F. Lindheimer, who resigned to accept appointment by Gov. Horner as chairman of the Illinois commerce commission.

"The board (which has charge of special assessment improvements) hasn't been doing much lately," said Mayor Cermak. "We may consolidate it with some other department of the city government when we make up the budget."

The mayor expressed pleasure over Gov. Horner's signature yesterday of the bill doing away with the necessity of a registration for the aldermanic elections this spring. He added that he will urge the passage of another bill now pending in the legislature which would give the election commission permission to fix the number of precincts in wards where there is no aldermanic contest.

BRUNKER TRYING AGAIN AT RENO TO RETAIN CHILDREN

Reno, Nev., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Judge B. F. Curler today set Friday, Feb. 17, for hearing a petition in the divorce case of Margaret Gaylord Brunker to modify the decree as it affects the minor children of Brunker and his former wife, since remarried.

Although Judge Curler on the last day of the year dismissed a similar petition, he agreed today to entertain a new motion and the order to show cause made returnable Feb. 17. Notwithstanding what appeared to be an agreement reached in Chicago following habeas corpus proceedings last week which is understood to have complied with the Reno divorce decree, Brunker filed his new motion here for modification.

LINCOLN PARK'S NEW COMMISSION TAKES UP DUTIES

Plamondon Elected Head of Board.

Lincoln park's new board of commissioners formally took office yesterday and held an organization meeting. A. D. Plamondon, who was Gov. Horner's choice to head the board, was elected president. Trustees Martin H. Kennelly, William Schlake, and G. Bernard Anderson were elected vice president, auditor, and assistant auditor, in the order named.

The board then appointed James Slattery as attorney, Bernard P. Jung, secretary, and J. Frank Lyman, general superintendent and manager. Frank M. Gordon, treasurer of the old board, will hold that position for the present.

Urges Votes for Bonds.

Mr. Plamondon told the board members that they must begin work immediately on the campaign to persuade the voters of the park district to vote "Yes" on a referendum for a refunding bond issue to meet a bond principal and interest payment of $1,839,000 falling due April 1. The referendum is expected to be placed before the voters in the aldermanic election on Feb. 28.

"I have been assured that the legislature will pass the refunding measure next Tuesday," said Mr. Plamondon.

A second meeting of the new board has been tentatively set for next Wednesday, at which the commissioners intend to complete the reorganization of the park administration personnel.

"We have been offered and expect to receive the coöperation of officials of the old administration until we are established and familiar with the details of the park organization," said Mr. Plamondon. "Mr. Nettelhorst, the retiring secretary, as well as other officials of the old board, have assured us of their help."

Budget Work Held Up.

The new board president said that no work could be started on a park budget until the new administration established the amount of money which it could expect to receive. With the most pressing problem before the board of meeting the bond issue payment on April 1, he said, it is unlikely that the commissioners will make any changes or innovations in the park's financial arrangements for several months.

"In the meantime we can assure the taxpayers that the system will be run on sound business principles," Mr. Plamondon asserted. "I am a firm believer in a budget and we will certainly adopt one as soon as it is feasible to do so."

Legal technicalities in connection with the bond issue refunding referendum were given to Attorney Slattery with the request for a report at the meeting next week.

A large group of friends of the new commissioners attended the installation ceremony. The park administration building was filled with flowers sent for the occasion.

Free Ex-Premier's Aid of Forging Dole Orders

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, Jan. 27.—Roland G. Starkes, one of the two partisans of former Premier Squires in parliament, was acquitted today of charges of forging government dole orders. The indictment carried 72 counts and the hearing took four days. Starkes survived the June landslide which swept F. C. Alderdice to the prime ministry.

HENRY A. BLAIR ESTATE IS GIVEN $500,000 VALUE

Inventory Shows $300,000 Is in Insurance.

The late Henry A. Blair, traction magnate, left an estate of $500,000, of which $300,000 was insurance, it was disclosed yesterday when an inventory was filed with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. The inventory revealed that Mr. Blair had debts of $225,000 owed to the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company and $8,000 to the Northern Trust company. Both debts are fully covered by collateral, the inventory stated.

At the time of his death last Feb. 15 Mr. Blair had $4,050 in a bank account. He possessed only six blocks of stock, which included 1,039 shares of Insull Utilities Investment, Inc. Today this stock is worthless.

Market Value of Stocks.

Other stocks and their value at yesterday's market quotations were:

200 shares Continental Chicago Corp.	$ 335
150 shares Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co.	13,500
22 shares Public Service Company of Northern Illinois	902
903 shares Commonwealth Edison company	70,434
2,810 shares Texas corporation	35,740

The estate also included more than 100 shares of stock in several loop buildings now in foreclosure. Other assets were a home at 1205 Ridge avenue, Evanston, half a dozen club memberships, and a claim for services as receiver of the allied traction companies.

Insurance to Be Divided.

The insurance was not listed in the inventory, but attorneys for the estate announced that the funds from the policies would be divided according to Mr. Blair's wishes as expressed in his will.

Mr. Blair was 79 years old when he died. His will directed that his estate should be divided into three equal parts, to be shared by his widow and his two daughters, Anita C. Blair, who resides with her mother at 209 Lake Shore drive, and Mrs. Natalie B. Bradley of Evanston. Mrs. Bradley's share of the estate will be held in trust until her death, when it will go to her children. She will receive the income during her lifetime.

$500,000 LUSSEM ESTATE DIVIDED INTO 53 SHARES

The estate of John Lussem, 1076 West Harrison street, who died Jan. 14 at the age of 93, will be divided among 53 relatives, according to the terms of his will, filed for probate yesterday. Mr. Lussem came to the United States from Germany in 1844, when he was 5 years old. He was in the real estate business. His estate consists of real estate appraised at $450,000 and personal property estimated to be worth $50,000. The estate is to be divided into 53 shares, of which seven go to the widow, Mrs. Minnie Lussem, and the remainder, in varying proportions, to eight sisters, nine brothers, five nephews, and six nieces of Mr. Lussem.

Mrs. James Fentress Sr., 91, Rail Lawyer's Widow, Dead

Mrs. James Fentress Sr., widow of the former head of the legal department of the Illinois Central railroad, died Thursday night in Memphis, Tenn., it was learned yesterday. Mrs. Fentress, a former Chicagoan, was 91 years old. She is survived by three sons and three daughters, among whom are James and Calvin Fentress of Winnetka.

HAROLD TEEN—HAROLD IS GETTING TOO POPULAR

TWO WOMEN ARE KILLED, 7 HURT IN AUTO COLLISIONS

Mrs. Ethel J. Bonny, 50 years old, 3441 South Leavitt street, was killed and three others were injured yesterday afternoon when their automobile collided with a truck at Lawndale avenue and Joliet road, near Lyons. The injured are Alvin Gert, 4442 South Mozart street, driver of the automobile; Miss Bernice Racynski, 4719 South Maplewood avenue, and Mrs. Bonny's husband. John Goebel, 3116 Grace street, driver of the truck, was held by police. He was not injured.

Mrs. Katherine Driscoll, 30 years old, 624 West 69th street, was killed yesterday and J. J. Hughes, 42 years old, 7611 Honore street, suffered a fractured skull when their automobile collided with another car in a state road north of Lemont. Hughes and the three passengers in the other automobile, the latter all Negroes, were taken to the St. Joseph hospital in Joliet.

These deaths and two others yesterday increased the Cook county automobile toll for 1933 to 65. The other victims:

John Pascan, 16 years old, of 1925 Blue Island avenue. Struck by an automobile in front of 1822 Blue Island avenue, while unloading a truck.

Mrs. Mary Bykowski, 45 years old, 4204 South Francisco avenue. Fatally injured by a hit and run driver at Archer and Francisco avenues. Died at county hospital.

RICH, IN PRISON FOR RAPE, FREE; TO LEAVE STATE

Jackson, Mich., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Arthur C. Rich, convicted in 1926 and sentenced to a life term for raping Miss Louise King, Battle Creek student nurse, was released from the Michigan state prison this afternoon.

He arranged to leave immediately for California to comply with the terms of his parole which required that he leave the state. In California he will be placed at work in the factory of his father, who has made an almost ceaseless effort to bring about his son's release.

It had been planned originally to release Rich on Monday, but presumably to avoid the gathering of a crowd of curiosity seekers, arrangements were made quietly to discharge him today.

Mrs. Ellen McInerny Dies in Evanston; Rites Monday

Mrs. Ellen McInerny, 81 years old, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Layton Gouldin, 2623 Prairie avenue, Evanston. Mrs. McInerny, who is survived by two daughters, moved to Evanston four years ago from Grand Rapids, Mich., where she was a leader in church and club circles. Burial will be in Grand Rapids on Monday.

Arthur Vorys, Taft's 1908 Campaign Manager, Dies

Columbus, O., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Arthur Isaiah Vorys, 76, nationally known authority on insurance law and campaign manager for the late President William Howard Taft in 1908, died at his home here today. He had been ill nearly a year.

SEEKS 'RANSOM' FOR STOLEN CAR; FINED $100, COSTS

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 66; recovered, 75; stripped, 11 (from Chicago police records for twenty-four hours ending at midnight Thursday).

Court cases: Elven Rogers, larceny of an automobile, and Louis Michaelson, receiving stolen property, held to the grand jury by Municipal Judge Graber.

William Ferguson, charged with extortion connected with the theft of an automobile, was fined $100 and costs yesterday by Municipal Judge John Gutknecht.

The complainant, R. A. Hoffman, 3207 Catalpa avenue, parked several days ago in front of the home of a brother of Ferguson at 1054 North Kedzie avenue. While there the car was stolen. Soon afterward he received a telephone message from William Ferguson.

"You can't find me," he said, "but I know where your car is and unless you give me $20 it will be stripped."

Hoffman went to the police and Sergt. Thomas Coen arrested Ferguson. He admitted making the demand for automobile ransom but denied he knew where the car was. It was found Thursday at Western and Ogden avenues and it had been stripped.

ERNEST MOSES, 70, SCIENCE CHURCH WORKER, IS DEAD

Ernest Moses, 70 years old, Christian Science practitioner, died yesterday at his home, 673 Sheridan road.

Mr. Moses lived in Chicago for thirty years during which he was identified with Christian Science work, especially in connection with the Seventh church. He was a frequent contributor to Christian Science publications and recently published a history—"Our United States." Mr. Moses was a member of the Sons of the American Revolution and a director of the local organization. He was born at Marcellus, N. Y.

Surviving Mr. Moses are his widow, Mrs. Catherine Ransdell Moses, and two children, Kenneth R. Moses of Orange, N. J., and Mrs. Homer B. Davis, wife of a naval lieutenant commander of Coronado, Cal. Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock Monday from the chapel at 2701 North Clark street to the Graceland chapel.

CHAS. V. WESTON, SURFACE LINES ENGINEER, DEAD

Charles V. Weston, 3122 Sheridan road, consulting engineer for the Chicago Surface lines and a director of the Chicago Railways company, owning the north and west side street car lines, died yesterday in Henrotin hospital. He was 75 years old.

Mr. Weston was born in Kalamazoo, Mich., and got his first job as a surveyor for the Texas Trunk railway. After serving as assistant engineer for several railroads, he came to Chicago in 1888. The following year he directed the construction of Chicago's intake cribs and water tunnels, and in 1890 built the Van Buren street car tunnel.

After serving as chief engineer for several elevated railroad companies, he became president and general manager of the South Side Elevated Railroad company, serving until the unification of "L" lines in 1911. He was also a member of the board of supervising engineers of the surface lines.

Mr. Weston is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. John W. Stanley of Needham, Mass.

WM. M'ELLIGOTT, 61, RETIRED FIRE FIGHTER, IS DEAD

William McElligott, 61 years old, 2919 Parnell avenue, retired fire department lieutenant, who helped fight the stockyards fire in which Fire Chief James Horan was killed, died in his home last night of heart disease.

Lieut. McElligott excelled in boxing, wrestling and handball in department contests and had served as an instructor in the physical development of recruits. He also was cited for bravery several times.

He is survived by three brothers, Charles L. McElligott, a retired fire lieutenant, and James Walter and George P. McElligott, retired firemen. The funeral will be held Monday afternoon from the home of James Walter McElligott, 2915 Parnell avenue. Interment will be in Calvary cemetery.

Girl Found Dead of Auto Gas; Believed Accident

Miss Gladys Singer, 22 years old, 4101 West North avenue, was found dead last night in a garage in the rear of 4116 West North avenue. Death was due to poisoning by carbon monoxide gas from the running motor of the girl's automobile. Her family said that she had no worries of consequence and attributed the death to accident. She had left home with the announcement that she was going to visit a hairdresser, it was said.

MRS. C. C. ERICKSEN SECRETARY OF G. O. P. COMMITTEE, IS DEAD

Mrs. Catherine Collins Ericksen, for twelve years secretary of the Cook county Republican central committee, died of pneumonia yesterday at the Franklin Boulevard hospital. She was 29 years old and lived at 4857 North Talman avenue.

Known to hundreds of prominent Republican politicians as Catherine Collins, she assumed her secretarial position under Homer Galpin when he was chairman of the committee. Mrs. Ericksen also served under former Chairman Bernard Snow and under the present chairman, William Weber.

MRS. ERICKSEN.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ericksen will be held at 9:30 Monday at St. Ignatius' Catholic church. Burial will be in Calvary. Surviving are her husband, Roy Ericksen, and her mother, Mrs. Mollie Collins.

A LEAD PENCIL SPEEDS FLAMING ARC OF CURRENT

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The "lead pencil" electric arc, a discovery which starts the flaming arc of a huge electric current in five-millionths of a second, was announced to the American Institute of Electrical Engineers today by Dr. Joseph Slepian and L. R. Ludwig of Pittsburgh.

The "lead" of a pencil is immersed in a pool of mercury and a tiny electric current shot into the pencil. Barely visible sparks shoot off the pencil graphite at its point of contact with the mercury, due to the high resistance of the graphite and low resistance of the mercury.

The infant spark, itself an "arc," sets off the big arc, which roars across the "pencil" and mercury pool instantaneously. This method speeds up by about a millionfold the previous methods of initiating the big arc. It is a speeding up sought for 25 years, the engineers were informed.

The "lead pencil" itself remains unharmed. Dr. Slepian said that for nine months several of these pencils have been in 24 hours' use without interruption, starting arcs sixty times each second, yet not one shows a sign of wear.

The discovery was said to have wide commercial possibilities because in large currents at low voltages the electric arc is useful for converting alternating into direct current, and vice versa, for arc lamps, welders, lightning arresters, spark gaps, and various forms of tubes. With the speedy little initiator Dr. Slepian said "many problems associated with the use of grids, particularly for large currents," can be eliminated.

LEWIS L. BARTH FUNERAL IS TO BE HELD TODAY

Funeral services for Lewis L. Barth, lumber man, will be held this afternoon in the chapel at Rosehill cemetery. Mr. Barth died Thursday night of heart disease in his home at 6736 Jeffery avenue. He was 82 years old.

With the late C. F. Wiehe and Edward Hines Sr., Mr. Barth was one of the founders of the Edward Hines Lumber company in 1892. He was made senior vice president and held the position until his retirement in 1928.

Mr. Barth was a member of the Indiana society, the Union League club, and the South Shore and Flossmoor Country clubs. He is survived by his widow, Margaret, and two daughters, Mrs. Lawrence B. Pryor, Memphis, Tenn., and Mrs. M. J. Agnew.

GEORGE N. HOLT, VOCAL TEACHER, IS DEAD AT 57

George Nelson Holt, 4436 Berkeley avenue, for many years a vocal teacher in Chicago, died yesterday at St. Luke's hospital of cerebral hemorrhage. He was 57 years old. Mr. Holt was a native of Rockford, and as a young man practiced law in that city. He later studied music in Paris, and on his return to America in 1907 joined the faculty of the Columbia School of Music, from which he retired two years ago. During the world war Mr. Holt served overseas with the American Red Cross. He is survived by his wife and one daughter. Funeral services will be held in the First Unitarian church at 4 p. m. Monday.

U. S. Air Line Inspector Dies After Plane Crash

Corona, Cal., Jan. 27.—(AP)—M. S. Boggs, Piedmont, Cal., airline inspector of the department of commerce, died today from injuries received when a government owned plane in which he was piloting two society women as passengers struck a high tension wire near here. The two women, both of whom gave their address as Los Angeles, were identified as Mrs. Mary Gogan and Miss Stacia Curry. Mrs. Gogan's arm has broken, and Miss Curry's hip was injured.

NINE CHARITIES LEFT $9,000 BY MRS. GUGGENHEIM

Widow of Copper Magnate Designates List.

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Nine charitable bequests of $9,000 each were named in the will of Mrs. Carrie Guggenheim, which was filed for probate in Surrogate's court today.

Mrs. Guggenheim, the widow of Isaac Guggenheim, the copper magnate, who died in 1922, made only simple gifts of jewelry to her three daughters, explaining in her will that "as my children were abundantly provided for by my late husband, who left a substantial share of his estate to them, I feel free to distribute my estate among charities and friends as I see fit."

No Estimate of Estate.

Mrs. Guggenheim's estate was formally estimated to be worth "more than $10,000." She died on Jan. 5 at the Los Angeles home which she had occupied since the death of her husband. The net value of her husband's estate was $10,163,113, according to an appraisal filed in Mineola last October.

The institutions which receive $9,000 each under the terms of Mrs. Guggenheim's will are:

Montefiore Home and Hospital for Chronic Diseases, the Bronx; New York Association for the Blind, Hospital for Ruptured and Cripples, New York; Babies' Hospital of New York; Hebrew Orphan Asylum of New York; Cedars of Lebanon hospital, Hollywood, Cal., and Anti-Vivisection society, Salvation Army, and Crippled Children's guild, all of Los Angeles.

Cousins Are Executors.

Clarence L. Myers and Otto L. Myers, cousins of Mr. Guggenheim, were named executors of Mrs. Guggenheim's estate. To the former was left $225,000, the testator's automobiles, furniture, jewelry, personal effects, and one-half of the residue. To the latter was left $25,000.

A clause in the will directed that the executors take care of her domestic animals and other pets, including dogs, cats, birds, and fish.

MRS. MARCY WILL LEAVES ESTATE TO 2 CHILDREN

The will of Mrs. Mary Dowse Marcy, who died Jan. 18 at the age of 102 in her home in Evanston, was filed for probate yesterday. It provides that her estate, valued at $25,000, shall be divided equally between her children, William E. Marcy, a retired grain commission merchant, who now lives in Pasadena, Cal., and Mrs. C. B. Kinley of Evanston. Mrs. Marcy was the widow of William W. Marcy, a real estate broker and close friend of the elder Carter H. Harrison, who died in 1909.

Tells Women 'Good Films Are Bad Business'

Declares Censorship Has Been Failure.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

When film producers weighed a "That's My Boy" and a "Red Headed Woman" in the scale of public patronage, it wasn't because they had no ideals that they shook their heads and sighed "Never again" about the first and grinned over the second—but because they had box office statistics. "That's My Boy" was one of those "good" films that turned out to be "bad" business, the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations learned yesterday.

In the most sympathetic vein, Miss Emma Abplanalp of the Chicago Film Board of Trade presented the representatives of many feminine organizations, gathered in headquarters at the Republic building, with the facts of censorship against which, she said, the Hollywood magnates have cracked their heads and often their pocketbooks. And her parting prophecy was, "The problem is not going to be answered by censorship, now or ever."

Years of experiment and cold statistical analyses, Miss Abplanalp set forth, have disillusioned the men who make the pictures as to the value of the approval of the uplift element.

"Of course, these producers were ex-pants pressers who saw the opportunities there were in this growing new industry years ago," she defended them warmly, "but I say, God bless them, every one, for the enjoyment and recreation they have brought into so many thousand lives. You get out of a picture exactly what you take to it. Censorship has been concerned not with truth but with propriety.

"These censors in Chicago are not stupid. They are grand persons. But they are depending upon their personal point of view, and when you ladies here say to me that a woman smoking cigarets on the screen, and scenes depicting drinking, are not true, then I must inform you that you are in the minority. These things are true. They are life. That is going on in our country, and that is why they are there.

"Censorship for the adult, I believe, is next to worthless. You can cut out all the gangster films you will—all the shooting scenes you will, and because you eliminate them there, do you suppose the same truths will not confront you from every newspaper and every court room? Learning the truth about life will not harm an adult if he has had the proper background of training at home. I'm not guessing. I know that. We have closed our eyes to life too long.

"Chicago has the reputation of the strictest censorship in the country. Yet I saw one film passed here in toto that received twenty-six cuts in Pennsylvania. Is it any wonder motion picture men are bewildered when they sit down around a table and confront the battery of national, state, and local censorship bodies they must satisfy and yet make a living for themselves?

"They have tried. They have given you the "Arrowsmiths" and the Arliss features and "That's My Boy." And every one except a single Arliss picture has been a box office flop, even with special publicity. Let them try to produce a "family" picture. They must make it down to the mental level of the six year old. Then the sixteen year old won't go—and right now even a single admission means something at the box office.

"If we could get anything out of these censorship bodies that would guarantee producers the most acceptable pictures for the greatest number of people they would be delighted. In another year less than half the number of films now being produced will be made and the problem will be twice as great. Locally the adult permit is not answering its purpose at all. Regular patrons bring their children and demand that tickets be sold them—and what can the proprietor do?

"When you consider that this era is the second development of peep shows and tent shows I think the industry has really gone a long, long way forward and that it will progress still further. Constructive, not destructive, criticism is your surest way to help."

Mrs. Carlton Randolph, film censor for Evanston, told the group that film exhibitors are sensitive to criticism and that audience reactions have definite effect in Hollywood.

Young Society Has Scavenger Hunt at Party

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

A policeman on North Clark street engaged in fisticuffs last night in defense of his whistle. A gray mare hitched to a milk wagon broke into a gallop down Rush street when she felt 3 of her chin whiskers being removed. And a gentleman who had retired early shouted for help when he realized that his alarm clock was disappearing out his bedroom window.

Scavengers were abroad on Chicago's Gold Coast, searching out everything from dog collars to old fashioned night shirts. And to the amazement of the copper who battled for his whistle and the milkman who tried to tame his runaway, these scavengers were scions of several of the city's most respected families.

Mrs. Howard Linn, interested in providing unusual amusement for the debutantes and beaux who have done their share of dancing for one season, sent her thirty dinner guests last evening on a scavenger hunt east, west, north, and south.

Old Noah Webster defines a scavenger as a person who gathers and removes dirt from streets. But Mrs. Linn exceeded the limits of the master's definition in the list of articles she gave each one of her guests before they left her house at 55 Cedar street shortly after 9 o'clock.

And several of the guests (they were not in pairs) exceeded ven Mrs. Linn's imagination in the things they turned up with just before midnight. Miss Jean Schweppe and Henry Chesley Jr. were the winners of the hunt, for they were the first to return to the home plate complete with a live chicken from Maxwell street, an egg, and a mouse trap holding a dead rodent—all of this their loot.

The mouse trap with its victim, Mr. Chesley carefully explained, represented "something that had been successful." This was one of four required items on Mrs. Linn's list of 21 articles.

There was no one to compete with June Osborne, however, who, with Mrs. Walter Field McLallen III., turned up with a small waif from the near west side. Unable to locate an alarm clock or a dog collar, they decided this young lad would do just as well, and he, in turn, had the time of his life digging into a plate of chicken salad and a chocolate parfait.

Cyrus H. Adams III. tackled a policeman at Clark street and Burton place, won his whistle and then returned to Mrs. Linn's to remove a nut from the back axle of his roadster, this to represent "a spare part." Lloyd Laflin simplified matters by selecting from his list a "stone weighing between a pound and a pound and a half."

He walked out in front and picked it up by the curbstone. Miss Louise Dewey was the only scavenger to get an old fashioned night shirt and she wouldn't tell where she got that.

Miss Marjorie Goodman and Miss Francise Clow, both debutantes of this season, were the guests of honor at the party. Other guests included Miss Mary Reed, Miss Marjorie Horton with her fiancé, Wiston Elting, Miss Constance Hasler, A. Watson Armour III., Mr. and Mrs. Adlai Stevenson, and Daggett Harvey.

Good Morning!

This, I think, is the best thing Ruth Chatterton has done for the screen. As "Frisco Jenny" she gives a sincere, a touching performance.

There's no escaping the comparison—"Frisco Jenny" is just another version of "Madame X." This time, however, the story's locale is San Francisco, and an illegitimate son [attorney] prosecutes instead of defends his unhappy mother. True, "Frisco Jenny" neither dopes nor drinks to excess—note that when she and her sisters in sin convene they imbibe only coffee!—nor is Jenny a bedraggled wreck when the law finally catches up with her. She's a mighty well preserved person with a shrewd brain that has made her queen of the underworld. But "Frisco Jenny," like "Madame X," counts the world well lost in the preservation of a secret—and there's your analogous yarn.

The action starts just before the San Francisco earthquake which robs the saloonkeeper's daughter of the piano player she had expected to marry. Some months later in sordid Chinatown her son is born. . . . Upon advice of her attorney, who later becomes partner in her illicit pursuits, carried on, you understand, to provide a fortune for the boy—she permits the child's adoption by a respectable and well to do family. This—that he may not be taken from her forever by the Children's Welfare society.

It is her plan to recover him in the near future, sail away, and in another land start a new and clean life. But the baby boy rebels. He loves his "papa and mamma." He doesn't want to go with the gorgeous, strange lady.

"I don't know her! I don't like her!" he wails.

That settles it. . . .

The picture holds your interest by reason of excellent acting and direction throughout. It has some most dramatic episodes and the final scenes are moving.

A press notice states that Miss Chatterton has decided to abandon the "salon for the saloon"—on the screen. Good news. Rôles such as "Frisco Jenny," are the things this player does best. In them she casts aside the corsets and squeaky shoes of affectation and is herself.

See you tomorrow!

Noted Etcher Attends Show of Work Here

Samuel Chamberlain Has Splendid Exhibit.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Samuel Chamberlain, the celebrated etcher, originally from Boston but for the last twelve years a resident of Senlis, France, is in town for a few days in connection with the opening yesterday of his exhibit of recent drawings and dry points in the Carson Pirie Scott galleries. Mr. Chamberlain is a youngish man, jovial and full of enthusiasm.

He admitted that the depression was as rampant in France as here and that it had struck hard even into the tiny protected village of Senlis where he with several other well known Americans, including Louis Bromfield, make their homes.

Prices in Chicago, said Mr. Chamberlain, are lower than prices abroad, except for rent and service. Coal, abroad, is out of all reason. Our groceries and markets are filling Mrs. Chamberlain with acute longing to carry them wholesale back with her, so small does the prices of American butter, eggs, potatoes, flour and the other essentials seem to her.

Meanwhile, until they sail the end of April, Mr. Chamberlain will teach graphic arts in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Boston.

Meanwhile his exhibit, in which only one etching shows among all the dry points, is truly magnificent. He has long been known for the delicacy and finess of his line and the solidity of his drawing. Here we find his craft as an etcher developed to a perfect thing.

The "Cathedral of Senlis" is a magnificent rendering of old church and gorgeous landscape. A smaller bit, more whimsical and friendly, is "The Porches—Dinan." The "Gables of Colmar" is another entrancing street of quaint houses. A wash drawing of a church in Gerona is an exquisite bit of soft color.

The drawings of French and English country houses fill one with a warm nostalgia, and the notes from an architect's log, scraps of different doorways, are priceless.

This is one of the loveliest exhibits in town. It will continue three weeks and is well worth seeing.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright, 1933, By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

CLASS DAY.

The students in Prof. Fordney's class listened with interest as he finished relating a story of murder in the frozen regions of the north. "Before dismissal," he continued, "here's another interesting tale.

"About twenty-five years ago there were a number of frauds, scandals, and controversies relative to the discovery of the north pole. Several explorers returning from the north brought different versions of their findings and for a while the world reeled dizzily on her axis, not knowing who to credit.

"While discussion was at its height I attended a banquet at which the explorer, Donald Hoxman, lectured. In closing he said, 'The temperature was 40 below; we were freezing. Our beloved leader was gasping his last. He was beyond human help; death was inevitable. As I stood there at the very apex of the world clouds in the south were gathering, portending stormy weather. Behind the huge, purplish tinted mountains of snow to the west the cold, blurred sun sank out of sight as we dug a shallow grave in the ice and laid him to rest there at the north pole. His success was achieved in death. A terrific price to pay, but I am sure the world will acclaim the greatness of our dauntless leader.'

"'I have some photographs and exhibitions on display in the adjoining room which I brought back with me. I shall be delighted to discuss them with any one interested.'

"I didn't go to see his collection," concluded Fordney, "as I knew the man was a fraud."

DO YOU THINK HE WAS? WHY?

Antiquarians and Their Guests Enjoy Exhibits at Reception

Disagreeable Weather Means Nothing on At Home Days of Organization; Lovely Party Held.

BY JUDITH CASS.

DISAGREEABLE as the weather was yesterday it didn't interfere in the least with the Antiquarians' reception in the McKinlock Memorial court of the Art Institute, for whenever the Antiquarians are at home every one who is a member or is invited makes a special effort to be present at the affair, which always is one of the outstanding evening social events of the season.

Mrs. Potter Palmer, president, said yesterday that they had considered not having the usual canopy put up outside the building, the weather has been so fine and unseasonable, but they thought to telephone the weather man Thursday afternoon and when they heard what he had to say they decided that there would be need for an awning, which there certainly was!

Mrs. Palmer, one of those fortunate women who seem to grow lovelier every year, was beautiful yesterday in a black velvet gown and a close fitting turban made of white velvet pansies over which was thrown a cobwebby short black veil. Mrs. Palmer habitually wears a silver fox scarf with afternoon gowns and she did not depart from that habit yesterday. She headed the receiving line in which also were Miss Florence Bartlett, smart in purplish wine color heavy crêpe with lavender orchids on one shoulder and a small hat to match her gown; Miss Marie Josephine Rozet in black velvet and a soft green hat; Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson in brown with gold brocaded sleeves and bodice, and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed whose black velvet gown was relieved with diamond clips at the point of the V-neckline and a single white gardenia.

See Exhibits, Then Take Tea.

No one had tea until she had seen and admired the exhibit which contained old fashioned costumes loaned by Miss Rozet and her sister, Mrs. William Prescott Hunt, fragile "verre do Nevers" given to the society by Miss Elizabeth McCormick and various other exquisite objects lent by several people, including old pewter which belongs to Mrs. Potter Palmer III., some dainty enamels loaned by Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, a scent bottle belonging to Mrs. J. Ogden Armour and some of the precious miniature articles from Mrs. James Ward Thorne's miniature period rooms which were exhibited last summer for the benefit of the Architects' Relief society.

It really was a great compliment to the exhibit that every one walked through the room where tea was being served into the exhibition room before they stopped to receive a cup of tea or coffee from one of the charming young women who presided at the tea table. It was an attractive table, too, decorated by Mrs. John H. Winterbotham. Covering it was a cloth made of alternate strips, about ten inches wide, of pale blue and white satin, and on it were the Antiquarians' handsome silver services at the ends, and in the center a Venetian glass epergne with a pewter base in which there were white carnations and rose pink double geraniums, massed together with only the blossoms showing in rows, two pink ones and one white one. Completing the decorations were four lovely frosted crystal candelabra in which there were white candles.

Come from Symphony Concert.

Pouring early in the afternoon were Miss Marion McFadden, smart in Venetian red, and Mrs. Potter Palmer III, whose blonde beauty was set off to advantage by a brown costume. Some of those who were there soon after the Symphony orchestra concert was over were Mrs. Thorne, another one who grows more beautiful every year, and who yesterday did not remove her black carucul coat with its fragrant bunch of white freesia pinned on the collar; Mrs. Valentine, who was in brown with a henna Ascot scarf; Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, all in black, with a touch of white at the neck; Miss McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Hunt, Mrs. William K. Kenly, Mrs. Wentworth A. Field, Mrs. C. Morse Ely, and Mrs. William B. Storey, who look enough alike so that they often are taken for each

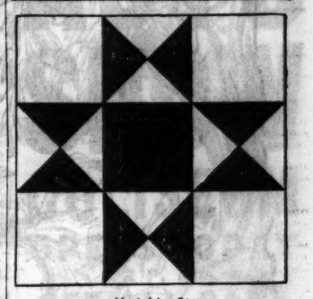
"Variable Star" Quilt Block Lives Up to Its Name



Variable Star

BY NANCY CABOT.

Though this quilt block is often used as a basic pattern and a foundation on which other designs are built, it has not lost its own charm and individuality. Formerly known as the "Tippecanoe and Tyler Too," because of many variations it is more commonly called the "Variable Star."

If you want your quilt to be historically correct, the blocks should be made of prints. It is lovely, though, and the design more outstanding, if pieced in plain colors. You are privileged to suit your taste, as every pattern varies with its maker. As we have said, it is the "Variable Star."

For a pattern of the "Variable Star" design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune.

FOLLY ISLAND

By Wallace Irwin

SYNOPSIS.

Bart Burgess is marooned in a catboat on Peconic bay, fifty miles from his Long Island home in Wyattville. His companion, Ingalls Frederick Warren, spoiled child of a new made fortune, known as "Rosey Ingy," rows to town for a carpenter. A girl in a canoe invites Bart over to her family's island, but her small brother says their mother would have a fit. Bart senses a family secret. Ingy sends help and takes home. Bart learns that the Bayleys have lived on the island fifteen years, but don't mix. The father travels. He invites the girl, Alice, to visit him in Wyattville. Less than a week later Trevor Burgess, Bart's father, dies suddenly from a heart attack. Bart is left with the care of his invalid mother. Shortly after the funeral Lore Sackett, a distant relative and recent divorcée calls on Bart. The family lawyer gives Bart a letter sent for him by his father, in which he confesses to being a bigamist. The Bayleys of Foley Island are his second family. He asks Bart, for his mother's sake, to guard the secret, and leaves a fortune to provide for the Bayleys. Bart calls on Mrs. Bayley and finds her a lovely woman, not the harridan he expected. He returns two weeks later with the legacy. Bart is happy to learn that Alice isn't Matthew Bayley's daughter.

INSTALLMENT XII.

A LITTLE GODDESS.

A wild triumph surged through Bart, and he would have flooded her with more reckless questions, but he heard her say calmly, "I've told you enough, Mr. Burgess."

Blood was surging in his cheeks. "Please don't think I was rude, Mrs. Bayley, but I had to know." Then desire seized him and he asked, "May I see Alice now?"

"But this is confidential, Mr. Burgess."

"I promise you that. Where can I find her?"

She motioned toward the hills above the garden. Distantly he could hear the dogs barking.

In the uplands, hidden by rocks from the quaint houseboat and delightful garden, he saw a spot of rose under a twisted pine. Over there, unconsciously drooping, Alice's dark head leaned flowerlike over an open book. The girl read a great deal, because she had nothing else to do. At first she was inconscious of Bart's approach, across an open pasture, and in the short walk he was burning with excitement. The warm delight which had drawn him to her in their first unfettered hour together had returned with a renewed enchantment. Mrs. Bayley's short confession, strangled though it was by a guarded secret, had banished a nightmare and left Bart free to follow the strong impulse of his heart.

Then Alice looked up from her book.

Then Alice looked up from her book. A silly embarrassment covered him as she gave a little cry and came to her feet. The sway of her fair young body, the light in her eyes expressed a joy in seeing Bart again. She was even lovelier than he had remembered her.

She was the first to speak. "I knew you'd come back. I wanted to talk to you ——"

"I wanted to talk to you, too." But why was he so stiff and solemn? There was so much to say, so much more to conceal. "I thought it was better to leave you alone—then."

"Yes—sort of." Her lower lip slightly indrawn, her eyes averted. He studied her thoughtfully. In these short weeks she, too, had matured: it was hard to understand the light in her face, as if some inner burning had given her strength. Vividly he saw how she had loved the man whom she must always be encouraged to think of as her father. He ached to comfort her. But how?

"I didn't want to bring this to you," he said.

"I'm glad it was you who did it." Her beautiful eyes were full on him now, bright with unshed tears. Then they seemed to take on all the colors of her mother's flowers, and she smiled bravely. "It's all right now, Bart."

But his consolation left a bitter taste in his mouth. "You're fortunate to remember him, as I'm sure you do, Alice——" hating his husky voice—"and that's something very fine."

They had strolled over to the rock bound ledge, and her gaze, all spirit now, took flight across the inlet.

"When mother told me," she said, "I wanted to die. I went to bed, and I wasn't ever going to get up again. Everything was over with me. How silly I was."

"Dear Alice," Bart caught himself saying.

"Then I seemed to hear him arguing with me." Strange thought. Trevor Burgess, returning to console poor Alice, kindly withholding the essential truth from her. "He laughed at me for sulking, the way he used to do when I was a baby. 'If people die,' he said, 'it's to let the world go on. If you remember me with a black monument,' he said, 'then my life and my love have been wasted. But life's always going on, happy life, the way mine was. I'll never be far away from you, because I'm not really dead.'

"And men like that don't die!" Her arms opened toward the sea. He felt the levitation in her fair young body, denying death. She might fly and greet the sun. "He was the finest man God made. I can hear him laugh. I can hear him talk. He isn't dead, because he can't be. It's the idea—that's all that counts for us."

A little goddess, hair blowing, skirts blowing, she stood on the marge, blessing life, contrary to the facts as a goddess should always be. But her words tore at Bart. His father, disloyal and weak, would always live for this girl because he was so entle, good and kind. Trevor's son might have cried out with pain, but Alice was saying:

"I'm glad he died the way he did—just taken away by the ocean. He'd have wanted it that way, he loved the water so. He went while he was still young—and beautiful. He'd have hated to be old. And he'll never be that."

Her eyes were filled with the enchantment of the idea. Bart Burgess, wholly drawn to her now, felt that she had gathered happiness from sorrow, as a phoenix brightens its plumes from dead ashes. He glowed with admiration for her, and for her mysterious mother down there in the garden. They would not be stricken down. Unconscious of any disloyalty, he compared them to his own mother, querulous, broken, with no inner philosophy to guide her.

The book Alice had been carrying had fallen to the ground. When Bart stooped to pick it up he saw that it was L'Isle des Penguins, in the French. But the girl was moving back toward the tree where she had been sitting. He followed her, and they were silent for a while seated in the shade. Then she said a thing which touched him oddly.

"Don't think I'm not the same as I was before." She was even smiling now, the dimple blossoming in her cheek.

"Yes, Alice," he said gently. "You're not going to let this change you. The way you're taking it, it isn't a tragedy—it's a glory." He stumbled a little, unused to fine phrases.

"I'm a mess of faults, but that's just me."

"I want you to be as you are."

"Do you?" Her look struck him to the heart, but she went rippling on, outwardly merry as the girl he had first seen in the red canoe. "I've been thinking about you a lot—about what you told me. You remember?"

"I think I do." But what was she going to say now?

"About how I belong in Wyattville."

Before he thought he felt a warning, bright as a red flag, Wyattville! Wyattville now, to visit his mother's house where Trevor Burgess' picture hung prominently in almost every room, where it would be impossible to keep his father's identity a secret?

Be Patient.

"Dear Miss Blake: The boy I love never kisses me. Do you think he cares for me? He is always kind and gentle. BLUE STELLA."

If he takes you out and is kind and gentle, isn't that enough to ask for?

No Question of Propriety.

"Dear Miss Blake: Is it proper for George, who is 19, to wed before his brother, John, who is 22? JACK."

It isn't a case of propriety, Jack! Whichever succumbs first as Cupid's target is the man to marry.

Play Is Vital in the Life of Every Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Do you remember reading the fascinating story of the railroad genius of a certain famous locomotive works who, during the war, worked twenty-one hours a day for weeks? He didn't go home at all—slept on a cot in the great factory. To that man his work was not only absorbing—it was his very life, his play, his recreation.

With a child we might say the reverse is true. His play is his business, the absorbing, important work of his life. Probably very few mothers have a faint realization of how important play is—how vital to a child's whole development. They know he must play, but they don't know what play does for him and to him.

So, although I have recently given you advice as to where to get really authoritative lists of play equipment, I don't like to leave it at that. Bare lists are not enough. It is not merely what little children shall play with that is important, but how they shall play, or what happens to them when they do play with the right things.

Two interesting little leaflets lie before me as I write which deal with the subject. One is called "The Play of Two Year Olds," by Louise P. Woodcock. The other is called "The Play of Four Year Olds in the Nursery School." These were both papers delivered at the National Nursery School association conference in Philadelphia in 1931. The price of each is seven cents postpaid, obtainable from the bureau of educational experiments, 69 Bank street, New York City.

No One Bids on Oil of Ulric at Belasco Sale

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—No one would give even a dime today for an original oil portrait of Lenore Ulric, once David Belasco's leading lady, and so an auctioneer pounded his hammer and the sale of the late producer's 4,000 treasures went on.

Yet a few moments later a sentimental, gray haired woman bid $1 for a pair of rose-colored glass cuspidors.

The auction was full of such paradoxes.

There was incongruity even in the crowds that swarmed through an east side auction house. Stage folk in quest of some cheap little Belasco memento mingled with brusque second hand dealers looking for bargains. And then there were curious folk who paraded around as if in a museum and never bid.

The vast building indeed was a museum, for the producer had spent nearly half a century amassing this collection from all parts of the world.

"Now here's the original taxicab," shouted the auctioneer, as a handsome sedan chair was brought up. It went for $7.50.

"Terrible," a little gray man murmured. "Worth $750."

A piano used by Belasco in the "Music Master" brought $37.50—and many a sigh from those who couldn't bid more.

The auctioneer made little pretense of knowing anything about some of the "treasures," as Gest called them.

"What in the world can this be?" he asked frequently, and there was no answer.

As the sale proceeded he developed a penchant for describing every piece of old furniture as "another ancient Portuguese piece from an old South American church."

A portrait of an unidentified bewhiskered gentleman had just sold for $1.50 when the painting of Miss Ulric was displayed.

The portrait was heavy with dust. Some one wiped the face.

"Who'll give $1? Fifty cents, any one? How about ten. All right, we'll have to send Miss Ulric out into the cold."

And the sale went on.

Wives Find Lots of Happiness on a $35 Salary

BY DORIS BLAKE.

It can be done, and happily, according to "Mrs. H. W."

"I married my husband," she reports, "before the depression and he was only making $35 a week then. That was when people were getting large salaries. But did that stop me? I should say not. Nor would it now, were the income only $25.

"I like a home. I like to be at home, but I worked for a year or two until we got our home together. And, Miss Blake, I live in a small flat, whereas before I married I lived with my parents and had all the luxuries a girl in my circumstances could want—good home, good clothes, good food, and plenty of good times.

"But I wouldn't change back on a bet. My husband [thank God] is still working and he makes $35 a week yet. We have a car. We do not lack good food, even delicacies on the table, now and then. We have enough to satisfy us both. We have plenty of friends who like to visit us and generally have a darned good time.

"The secret, I suppose, is that we are in love. We love each other enough to try to do with things we can get and not make ourselves unhappy by wanting things we cannot get. Probably, when times are better, we will have better things. But I know we won't enjoy them any more than we do the things we now have."

Thus "Mrs. H. W." presents her argument for marriage to one wavering "Jean." If "Jean" loves her "Jim," "Mrs. H. W." advises her to marry him, spend money wisely, and learn the valuable lesson for future use that you don't have to have everything you see to be happy.

"Alice Dowd" also urges marriage: "If Jean loves her young man, why couldn't she marry him and work for a few months to save? Or, better still, start right in, as my husband and I did, and save for a few months together before marrying. We did that. I worked for six months after we were married. That put us just a little ahead of the game.

"I've had eleven and a half years of married life. A wave is an event in my young life, true, but there are five very active and good reasons why I'm not sorry. My husband was making $27.50 when we married. And we haven't minded doing without a lot of things others believe essential."

Winners in Table Contest.

Quite a few of those at the Antiquarians' reception had been before or went later to the tea that was given at Sears' Clinic of Household Science to decide the winners in a table setting contest. A bachelor host, Richard A. Boaler, won—the decision was made by the guests, who cast votes for their favorite table—but it isn't as strange as it might seem that a man should win when four such artistic young women as Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, Miss Janet Fairbank, Lady Hastings, and Mrs. Lawrence Williams were entrants, for Mr. Boaler is a professional decorator as well as a popular bachelor.

His winning table—each entrant did a smartly "dressed" table and a "tacky" one—was in brown and white and illustrated the charm of simplicity.

Mrs. Lawrence Williams, who won second, had used blue with contrasts of yellow and white for her color scheme and field flowers for her centerpiece. Arthur Meeker Jr. had set two children's tables, the "approved" one with a washable oilcloth cover, dishes with raised edges which prevent spills, and metal cups that will not break. Walter Frazier and David Leavitt were the other bachelors who "did" tables.

Miss Harvey Bride Today.

Today Miss Roberta Harvey will exchange wedding vows with Royal C. Vilas Jr. in a candlelight service to be read by the Rev. Harrison R. Anderson at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, 340 Barry avenue. Miss Harvey is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Hatfield Harvey.

In keeping with Miss Harvey's wish that the wedding remain small and simple, she is to be attended only by her sister, Mrs. Charles G. Le Forgee. Andrew McNally III. will be best man for Mr. Vilas.

The couple will leave immediately after a reception for a three weeks' honeymoon in Bermuda.

"It's to be as informal as the invitations, and they were by telephone," explained Mrs. Charles W. Isaacs Jr. yesterday in speaking of the progressive dinner dance she and her sister, Mrs. William R. Odell Jr., are giving tonight for their debutante niece, Miss Marjori Goodman.

Not one of the dozen girls invited wasted a minute in accepting her invitation, for all of them like a gay party quite as well in January as in December.

There will be cocktails first at Mrs. Odell's house in Crabtree lane in Lake Forest. Then the debutantes with their beaux will don their evening wraps and motor over to Mrs. Isaacs' house for a five course dinner.

After this will come the frosting on the cake. It's to be several hours of dancing at the Lake Forest home of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins, Miss Goodman's parents.

The Hopkins family has missed only one week-end in the country this winter.

Dr. Frederick A. Stock will introduce Olin Downes at the tea the Arts club is giving at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon for him. Mr. Downes is to lecture on "Contemporary Soviet Music."

Taylors to Hold Housewarming.

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Gale Taylor [the former Jane Willett] are giving a very small housewarming this afternoon, which will cause their friends to find the shortest way out to the Taylors' new west side apartment at 321 South Central Park boulevard.

The causes of the recent revolution in Spain and conditions following the revolution will be discussed by Señor Don Antonio G. Solalinde at the luncheon of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations at 12:30 o'clock today at the Palmer house.

Dr. Walter Lichtenstein, who has just returned from Madrid where he acted as representative of the United States government at the International Telecommunications conference, will preside.

Among those who will be in the audience are Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mr. and Mrs. Ira J. Couch, Dr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Croftan, Mrs. Howard E. Chickering, Mrs. Edward B. Butler, Mrs. Ralph T. Winston, Miss Elizabeth Faulkner, Mrs. Paul Shorey, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Carton, Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, Robert Hall McCormick, Stephen Y. Hord, Russell Tyson, and Stuart H. Otis.

Suzanne Russell Wedding Feb. 22.

Miss Suzanne Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Arthur Russell of 1320 North State street, is to be married to Dr. Charles Edward Stepan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Stepan of 3900 Sheridan road, just a year from the day her engagement was announced.

The ceremony will be performed at 5 o'clock on Feb. 22 in the little chapel of Holy Name Cathedral, with only the immediate families and a few intimate friends attending. A wedding in this little chapel is recognized as a privilege.

Miss Russell will have her sister, Virginia, as her only attendant. Alfred Stepan will serve his brother as best man. A small reception at the Ambassador East hotel is to follow the wedding.

The concert that Amy Neill, violinist, and Janet Fairbank gave yesterday morning at the Woman's Athletic club was a great success, with more than 300 members and guests in attendance. After the program most of the audience remained for luncheon in the club's lovely dining room.

Miss Fairbank's dress was of her favorite black, brightened by an interesting silver necklace. Miss Neill's gown was of rose colored chiffon.

Miss Beverly Strange, a guest in Chicago from the south, will dance the tango with Jack Stephan at the frolic Le Cercle Française is to hold this evening in Curtis hall of the Fine Arts building.

Durands on Interesting Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott S. Durand of Lake Forest departed on Thursday for another of their interesting trips. They will sail from New York today on the Santa Clara for a two months' cruise around South America, going first through the Panama canal and down the west coast, with stops at many inviting places.

Later they will take a ten day motor and lake steamer trip through the Chilean and Argentine lake country in the high Andes, and across to the east coast. On their way up the east coast they will stop at Buenos Aires, Montevideo, Santos and Sao Paulo. Before sailing homeward they will spend two weeks in Rio de Janeiro.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Marshall of 10 East Schiller street returned on Thursday from a three weeks' cruise to Jamaica and Nassau.

Mrs. Bowman C. Lingle, vocalist, and Mrs. Clifford D. Caldwell, pianist, will give a musical at the Three Arts club tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, after which tea will be served.

The Contract Whist club is giving a buffet dinner dance tonight in the French room of the Drake hotel for two of its members, Robert W. Halpin and Louis Haddad, who recently won a tournament in Miami, Fla., in which contestants from ten metropolitan cities and Cuba took part.

Two country clubs, the Skokie and the South Shore, are going to celebrate the days of '49 tonight with parties replete with the old bar and rail, tinpan pianos, sourdoughs and wild cowboys.

Wedding Styles from England

Miss Nancy Beaton became the bride of Sir Hugh Smiley in one of the most picturesque of recent London weddings. The dresses were designed by Cecil Beaton, the bride's brother, who is a well known society artist. In this picture behind the wedding couple are the bride's sister, Miss Baba Beaton, and Miss Margaret Whigham, who will shortly be the bride of Charles Sweeney, American golfer.

THE STAGE

Mildred Didrickson, widely known as "Babe," broke her broad jump record yesterday. She leaped from the sports page into the admiring arms of the theatrical department. This feat was accomplished at the Palace theater, where, as headliner [naturally] of the vaudeville program, she made her debut into the realm of the footlights.

Viewed as a frank exploitation of athletic fame on the stage, the "Babe's" act is decidedly effective. She is there to be seen, and she rewards observation, for the grace of her performances, as she darts over a hurdle and flits over a high-jump bar, is striking. Moreover, the "Babe's" figure, as revealed in jaunty silk track meet garb, is of interest, even to eyes that have spent years in appraising the merits of Ziegfeld girls.

She has an efficient assistant [male] who prods the act along and does most of the talking. When this master of ceremonies challenges her to prove that she is an actress, "Babe" demands a microphone and pretends to sing "Fit as a Fiddle" into that instrument. A loud speaker located in a stage box, obligingly emits the song while "Babe" makes the gestures.

Celluloid golf balls, mashied by "Babe" out into the audience, serve as souvenirs of the occasion. Seven baskets of flowers were hoisted over footlights at the close of the act to prove that this was a veritable debut.

The Irish players from the Abbey theater of Dublin will end their stay in New York tomorrow night and start on a tour. They are a prospect for Chicago.

Another "Little Show"—the fourth in this series of revues—will be staged early in the spring by Dwight Deere Wiman . . . De Wolfe Hopper has been engaged to star in a revival of the mystery play called "The Monster," which is scheduled for a Broadway premiere Feb. 7. C. C.

New Gadgets Will Brighten Winter Dress

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Dozens of alert, appraising shoppers are dashing about the town finding lots of new costume accessories that will revive a slightly jaded appetite as well as a weary winter wardrobe.

They have found the new double circle scarf clasp, two ovals of silver, gold, or copper metal that are quite the biggest things that have been seen in weeks. You wear them with angora, silk, and knitted scarfs, with the two ends held in place with this interlaced pair of shiny metal elongated circles.

Some long bar pins to hold your fuzzy wool sports frocks in place on your chest look like a row of gold life savers. Another stunning row looks like marbles and you can find some good looking cord bracelets and necklaces hung with two colored balls that are as unusual as they sound.

Some more of this cord stuff is used with dull silver or gold buckles for smart new neckwear . . . white, brown, black, and lavender ½ inch cord is strung through a simulated silver or gold metal buckle effect and you'll be surprised what a grand dress parade difference they will make on a black or dark colored silk frock! Silver and gold band bracelets with buckles can be found to match these chokers. And while you are among the bracelets, look for the handcuff model, made wide and swanky of the new oxidized silver or a shiny silver or gold metal. They are perfect with severely tailored wool daytime dresses.

Glove hunters will bag some beauties when they find the clever fabric gloves of black, brown, and dark street colors. These two-faced gloves are distinctly different from any fabric styles that have been shown before. They are smoothly fashioned in a slip-on style of wool, a rather rough surfaced wool on the top, with pa' s and inside fingers of matching leather or kidskin. They ought to be frightfully interesting gloves for the gal who drives her own car . . . the leather is where it will do the most good.

Other leather finds are the colored reptile skin handbags . . . knockout looking affairs in cinnamon brown, all good shades of gray, and some of the best looking blues that have been shown. It's been no shopping trick at all to find good salty shades of navy blue, but the cornflower blues have been conspicuously missing from practically every collection. However, some bright and understanding designer has wangled the dye pots, and the result, some extraordinarily good cornflower blues. You will see some swanky oblong and square shapes lined with a matching blue silk, a double amount of compartments and divisions, each with a comb, an encased double mirror, and everything an excess baggage carrying shopper could possibly wish for.

Jumper Dress Has Buttoned, Side Closing

WOMAN'S OR GIRL'S DRESS.

Here is an unusually smart jumper dress, given a sports air through its buttoned, wrapped closing. The puffed sleeves of the guimpe, the collar and tie are all smart details. A dark hyacinth blue rough silk crêpe with light hyacinth blue crêpe will be lovely, and wool crêpe and wool jersey are also suitable materials.

The pattern, No. 3378, come in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36 and 38 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 39 inch material for the dress, with 1¼ yards of 39 inch material for the blouse.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a Saturday morning radio feature—will be presented weekly by Miss Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 9:45 today for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

Another day in the kitchen clinic!

First, here's a question I'm glad has come up, for it's only by knowing for certain that modern canned foods are completely free from harmful ingredients or bacteria that we will feel safe in making use of them as labor and time savers on busy days. The question comes from Mrs. M. D. G., who asks: "In the commercial canning of vegetables such as peas, green beans, etc., is there any addition of chemical preservative?"

No. Preservatives which can be in the slightest degree detrimental to health are not permitted to be used in commercially canned foods. Any product containing such a preservative would be illegal.

Next, about cloudy soup stock. Mrs. J. C. K. asks for the method of clearing it. Here is the best method we have found to date: Measure the stock and add one stiffly beaten egg white and the shell of the egg washed and crushed fine for every quart of stock. Bring the stock to a boil in a large saucepan and cook, stirring constantly for two minutes. Then reduce the heat and simmer for ten minutes longer. While still hot strain the soup through three thicknesses of fine cheese cloth.

A volley of meat queries come from Mrs. P. S. M.: "Which roasts," she asks, "are more desirable covered and which uncovered? Does the heat vary under the two conditions of cooking? Does covering force steam? Should water be placed in the pan with covered roasts? Does steam force out juices?"

Except in the cases of mutton and fowl, meats, to be correctly roasted, should never be cooked with a cover on. Covers create moist heat and we are then not roasting but stewing or pot "roasting," which isn't really roasting at all. The meats which are best adapted to cooking in moist heat are those which are rather tough in fiber—usually the cheaper cuts of meat, such as the chuck, brisket, round, or rump—since the moist heat and long, slow cooking softens the fibers. Stuffed shoulder of veal and leg of lamb are also "steam roasted." As a rule the temperature for open pan roasting is moderate (350 degrees F.), while that for covered steam cooking is lower—about 250 degrees F.—when the oven is used. No, covering of meats, if I understand what you mean, will create little if any pressure of steam unless the cover is clamped down. Liquid is usually added when a pot roast is to be cooked. As a rule steam roasts (leg of lamb and veal shoulder) do not require added water. Spareribs and chuck, sometimes cooked in steam, often have a little hot water added. Such steam as may gather will not "draw out" the juices, there being usually less cooking loss in meat cooked at a low temperature than in cuts cooked at higher heats.

Lastly, for a recipe on special request from Miss M. R.:

Poise Creates Charm in the Plainest Gal

Lack of It Detracts from Beauty.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I had occasion recently to study closely two girls. One represented charm and poise in an alluring way. The other represented how undisciplined habits kill a woman's charm. This latter girl has developed a habit of choosing the lowest seat in the room and crouching her whole body down, giving an impression of half her height, really.

Her head is drawn down till it reminds you of nothing so much as a pigeon pulling its head down and in for the night. Along with this queer body mannerism are painfully stiff hand gestures and a voice without a shade of vitality or life left. There's a sort of beaten, cowed impression given.

There's no reason for the appearance of dejection. Probably no one has nagged the girl into sitting up and looking as if she could take life on the chin.

The poised one sits beautifully with her hands in her lap. While not nearly so smart as the other one, she is infinitely more charming to listen to. Her voice carries well. She expresses herself with the easy grace of a thoroughly poised person. And the lines of her body are pleasing to see.

The more you see of people, the more valuable as a beauty aid you realize this thing called poise is. It begins, of course, with a well held body, a certain pride of bearing, an "air," if you will.

The real test comes when women are sitting around together chatting. As an observer your eye is constantly taking in each gesture, move, and line of the body. And you make people comfortable or uncomfortable, calm or nervous, according to your poise or lack of it. Their judgment of your appearance is based on their reaction to your self-control or lack of it.

If you want to appear attractive you have to possess a pretty fair opinion of yourself, or look the part. At least, you can't look cowed and apologetic. You have to sit up and speak up and have your muscles disciplined so they'll hold you up in a respect winning way. This is awfully important to beauty, believe it or not. It isn't aggressiveness. It is simply sureness. Sureness that you are doing the best with what you have. That you're raising your head to its best angle, your body to its best line, and your hands to their most quietly forceful mode of speech.

Fashion Show

Now, what secret about the card party and fashion revue to be given this afternoon by the auxiliary of the House of Good Shepherd could Miss Margaret Amberg be whispering to her sister, Virginia?

The Misses Amberg are among the young girls who will assist at the party which is to start at 2 o'clock and will be given in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house. Mrs. Archibald R. Eldridge is president of the auxiliary and Mrs. George J. Aste chairman of the committee on arrangements. Mrs. Jerome J. Crowley is treasurer of the committee.

The fashion revue, which has been planned by Princess Rostislav of the Fair, will start promptly at 2 o'clock.

Ninth Hoosier Salon Opens at Reception to Be Held Tonight

The ninth annual Hoosier salon, at which the work of Indiana artists is being exhibited, will open tonight with a reception and pre-view in the Marshall Field & Co. galleries.

Several hundred residents and former residents of Indiana, artists or patrons of art, are expected to attend. Franklin B. Mead of Fort Wayne, Ind., will speak on "The Influence of Fine Art in Architecture on a Community." John C. Shaffer, president of the Hoosier Salon Patrons' association, will preside and welcome the artists.

BANKER CALLS LOSS OF YOUNG CHURCHES' FAULT

Stephen Baker at Parley on Laymen's Inquiry.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Stephen Baker, New York banker, yesterday told a group of Episcopal churchmen that if young people have been lost to the church it is the church's own fault. He spoke before a luncheon group at the La Salle hotel in connection with the recent inquiry of the laymen's mission in which he was a leader. The report of that inquiry, which represented laymen's point of view on foreign mission, recently appeared and has resulted in widespread controversy because of some of its radical suggestions.

The report criticized many of the present methods of churches in foreign fields. It urged the creation of a super board to administer the missionary work of the various denominations, and asked for the adoption of a revised theological motive for foreign missions.

Holds "Spirit" Essential.

Mr. Baker said one of the main objects of the inquiry was to stir up controveries and to stimulate general interest in the whole problem of foreign missions. One of the results of the study made by the committee, Mr. Baker said, was the confirmation of his belief that the church cannot be maintained unless it has a missionary spirit; that a religion unable to stir a desire that it should be sent to the whole world is not good enough to be kept. "We cannot have a church withous missions," he added.

As for the younger people, Mr. Baker pointed out that pastors have failed to answer their challenge for a vitality in the churches which would be witnessed by the desire to broadcast that vitality throughout the world.

Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese introduced Mr. Baker. The bishop described the attitude of the Episcopal church toward the report as one mixed with favor and disfavor. The report, he said, does not divide the churches into two opposing camps. This, he added, is not possible because it no longer can be said that Christianity is separated into liberal and conservative camps.

Church Keeps Open Mind.

"Christian thought has become too complex for such an easy division as that," said the bishop. "There is one group, generally regarded as very conservative in its views of the nature of the church, but which is regarded by certain Protestant groups as radically liberal in biblical criticism. Liberalism and conservatism are words that no longer have meaning."

While praising the spirit of the report, Bishop Stewart said "the heart of the whole matter is the incarnation of Jesus Christ and whether or not Christ is the revelation of God in his eternal nature. While the report is a wonderful document, we as Episcopalians hold open minds to all points of view except the incarnation and the definitely organic nature of the church."

Bishop Stewart reviewed the official attitude of the national council of the Episcopal church toward the report, and agreed with the inquiry committee's view that missionaries should receive far more training than at present.

Favors Indigenous Churches.

The bishop said the church also approves the inquiry's proposal that indigenous churches be set up in foreign lands. Anglican churches already have created locally administered churches in Japan and China, he said.

Episcopalians also agreed with the proposal of the inquiry that greater sympathy and more careful consideration should be accorded to non-Christian religions by missionaries.

Last night Prof. William E. Hocking of Harvard university, chairman of the inquiry committee, addressed the first session of a two day conference on the report. The conference is being held under joint auspices of the seven denominations represented on the laymen's inquiry commission. Sessions will continue throughout today.

SONS IDENTIFY BODY OF MOTHER IN TORCH SLAYING

New York, Jan. 27.—[Special.]—The woman who was murdered and whose partly burned body was found near the great stone known as Spook rock on the new Nyack turnpike-Saddle river crossroad, near Spring Valley, in Rockland county, today was identified as Mrs. Lena Carnara of Lodi, N. J., wife of a gas station proprietor.

The identification was made through two sons, who said that rings and clothing found on the body belonged to their mother.

Police of New Jersey and New York were asked to find Frank Carnara, the woman's husband, by Sheriff Thomas L. Farley immediately after the identification at New City, the county seat.

Their mother and father had quarreled recently, the sons, Joseph and James, told the authorities, according to Sheriff Farley. Their mother, who had her husband jailed for beating her, yesterday was going to see a lawyer in regard to a divorce action, the sons said.

Contrary to his recent custom of sleeping at his gas station, their father spent Wednesday night at home. Yesterday morning, when he left, he said he was going for a walk, according to the sons. Later, their mother gave one of them some money and sent him out to buy paint. When he returned she was gone.

Later in the morning, the body of Mrs. Carnara was found burning alongside of a boulder about seventy-five feet from the crossroad. It had been sprayed with gasoline.

Rate of Woman's Sneezes Reduced to 18 Per Minute

Princeton, Ky., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Lonnie Dickson, 48, who has been sneezing almost continuously since 5 a. m. Monday, was sneezing today at a rate her physicians said was 18 times per minute. Mrs. Dickson was standing the strain well, they said. Last night the rate was reduced to 10 a minute for a short time, after which Mrs. Dickson was able to sleep about two hours.

107 Years Old Today

MRS. JANE JACKSON.

Scales Mound, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Mrs. Jane Harvey Jackson tomorrow celebrates her 107th birthday. Born in Cornwall, England, her health was of great concern to her family during her girlhood.

Growing into a frail womanhood, her will to live carried her through frequent illnesses and the bearing and raising of ten children on what was then the frontier in this country. She was active until a few weeks before her 104th birthday, when she fell and fractured her hip.

At the age of 20 she was married to John G. Jackson, a miner in Cornwall, and the following year, 1847, they came to this country. Jackson, filled with the roving spirit of the miners of that day, in 1852 came to the lead and zinc mines of this district, settling at Hazel Green, Wis.

Here Mrs. Jackson and the family made their home in the frontier mining country of that day and here the seven youngest children of the family were born, the three oldest children having been born in New Jersey and Virginia. In 1883 the family moved to Scales Mound, where Jackson died at the age of 86.

OSWALD SLAYING BAFFLES POLICE OF MILWAUKEE

Quiz Kin and Business Associates.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—After an all day investigation police of Milwaukee and authorities of Washington county tonight admitted they were without clews to the murder of William J. Oswald, 42, Milwaukee building and loan executive and real estate promoter, who was found shot to death alongside a lonely road three miles northwest of Richfield early today.

Oswald lived at 2836 North Grant boulevard. He was president of the State Finance and Securities company and secretary of the Pyramid Building and Loan association.

Dozens of witnesses were examined, including relatives, associates, employés of his firm, and friends, in a search for some possible murder motive. None could give information that police considered salient to the solution. They all declared Oswald had no enemies.

Police said the facts which appeared to have been established by the witnesses were that Oswald was killed some time before 5 p. m. yesterday; that he was endeavoring yesterday afternoon to raise $10,000 to stave off creditors with notes for $80,000 which were due today from one of Oswald's companies; that his murderer or murderers drove his automobile back to Milwaukee, and that the one bullet which killed him was apparently fired at the spot where the body was found.

Abandon Suicide Theory.

Shortly after the body was found the suicide theory was abandoned. There were no powder burns around the single bullet wound in the head, and there were no bloodstains in his automobile, later found abandoned in Milwaukee. His hat was found 15 feet from the body. No pistol was found. A coroner's jury at Richfield late today decided that Oswald met his death at the hand of an unidentified person.

His body was found shortly after 12:15 a. m. today, lying face upward, beside the old Fond du Lac road near Richfield. John Hopple Jr., a farm boy, who lives near the scene, stumbled upon it while returning home. There were no signs of a scuffle nearby.

Empty Cartridge Found.

After the body was identified as that of Oswald, police found his automobile on West Concordia avenue, between 36th and 37th streets. There was an empty cartridge but no pistol in it. George Herzog, 3304 North 37th street, told police he had seen it there at 5:30 p. m. yesterday, and at other times during the night. It was in the same place where police found it, he said.

Erwin W. Marquardt, bookkeeper of the State Finance Loan and Securities company, was the last person police have found who saw Oswald alive. Oswald telephoned to Marquardt yesterday morning and asked him to bring $15 from the company's office at 2423 West North avenue to North 23d and West Center streets, where Oswald would be awaiting him, police said; the two met there. Marquardt told police that Oswald expressed an intention to go out Thursday afternoon to raise $10,000 to partly meet the notes due.

Oswald appeared nervous, Marquardt said. He ordered Marquardt to jump into the automobile quickly, stating further: "I don't want any one to see me talking to you here."

Avoided Office Callers.

They drove around the block to a side street to discuss matters, Marquardt said. He further stated his employer had been avoiding office callers for some time. This last statement was partly corroborated by Harry Einen, brother-in-law of Oswald, who said Oswald had been staying away from the office since Tuesday, endeavoring to make collections.

ASH COLLECTOR IS BEATEN.

Einar Thornquist, 40 years old, 4810 North Seeley avenue, an independent ash and garbage collector, was beaten by four men yesterday in an alley at the rear of 4531 North Hamilton avenue. Thornquist told police that he had had trouble with other ash collectors.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Welker Cochran dashed into the lead in the fight for the world's three cushion billiard championship at the Wabash Recreation rooms last night. He turned back Tiff Denton of Kansas City, 50 to 30, in 41 innings. The victory put him ahead of Jay Bozeman, his fellow Californian, by half a game. It was Cochran's fifth victory in six games. Bozeman has triumphed four times in five starts.

Cochran has only three more games to play. He must battle Bozeman, Johnny Layton and Augie Kiechhefer. If he can win two of them there is no way of keeping him out of the championship. He long has been famous as a balk line player, but this is his first attempt to capture the three cushion championship. Willie Hoppe and young Jake Schaefer, more noted even than Cochran as balk line wizards, have tried for the title in the past, but always have failed. So Cochran's brilliant play in which he has defeated most of the three cushion stars has thrown the tournament into a turmoil.

Builds Big Lead.

From the time Cochran began shooting last night the result was never in doubt. He was complete master of the ivories and had a 24 to 12 lead over Denton at the end of the 19th inning.

Cochran's finest shot came in the 23d inning, when he played and completed an uncertain kiss shot. Denton's cue ball was near the head rail, one diamond from the left side rail, and the red ball was frozen to the left side rail, with Cochran's ball directly out from it.

Cochran kissed his ball back across the table from the red ball with reverse english to the right side rail, thence back to the end rail, where his cue ball clicked the object ball for the count. Cochran's performance caused him to be installed as a short priced favorite to win the title. Score by innings:

Kieckhefer Beats Thurnblad.

Kieckehefer, defending champion, pulled a game out of the fire when he beat Art Thurnblad of Chicago, 50 to 42, in the afternoon. He won in the 49th inning with a run of five and went into a tie with Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., for third place.

Kieckhefer had Thurnblad badly beaten in the early innings, but in the 29th inning it became a nip and tuck affair. Thurnblad made 5 in the 29th and seven more in the 30th and was leading, 33 to 31.

Kieckhefer tied the score at 35 in the 34th inning, only to see Thurnblad run five more from difficult angles in the 40th inning. Then Kieckhefer stepped out and began to play as he did when he won the championship a year ago.

Makes Brilliant Shot.

Kieckhefer had the high run of the contest, a cluster of eight, which came in the 27th inning. But Thurnblad made the most brilliant shot. It came in the 18th inning on a most difficult four cushion follow shot. The red ball was a half diamond from the left side rail and two diamonds from the head of the table. Augie's cue ball was a diamond and a half from the right side rail and three diamonds from the foot of the table. Thurnblad's ball was behind the object ball near the center of the table.

He played a follow shot through the red ball to the head rail near the left side rail with heavy left hand english. The ball ran from there to the left side rail, then to the foot of the table and to the right side rail and met the white ball. Score by innings:

SHAKER LADY WINS SUWANEE PURSE BY NOSE

Beats Moon Shy, Former Stable Mate.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Shaker Lady, a daughter of Dis Donc bred by the late Harry Payne Whitney but now racing for D. B. Midkiff, won the Suwanee purse at Hialeah Park today, defeating C. V. Whitney's Moon Shy, a former stablemate, by a nose. A length and a half back Fervid took third by a head from Memories Dear.

Shaker Lady's performance was a surprise and she returned $37.40 for $2. The test was at seven furlongs over a fast track, and Shaker Lady was clocked in 1:26 3-5.

L. H. Miner's Modern Times won the fifth race by three lengths from Sunfire. Workless was third, a head behind Sunfire. Sunfire was one of the shortest priced favorites of the meeting, but finished lame. Modern Times ran a mile and a quarter in the slow time of 2:07 3-5, and paid $6.20, well ridden by C. Eames.

Mrs. A. Carfano's General A., carrying top weight of 122 pounds, but aided by Workman in a jam when he was sandwiched between the early leaders, won the third race by a length. Shaking off Vishnu and The Point, the favorite easily withstood the challenge of Mountain Elk, which finished second. Wise Count was third. The winner paid $4.50. The time was 1:13 for six furlongs.

Race Commission Bill Introduced in Ohio

Columbus, O., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—A bill was introduced in the Ohio legislature today to provide for a state horse racing commission. The state would assess tracks operating parimutuels. The bill is designed to aid the harness horse races to operate with a slight profit.

Crosby Square Authentic Fashions

faithful duplicate of famous British custom shoes

$5

You've seen a lot of good values in the shoe sales around town—but we're sure you've never seen anything like Crosby's. Their thorough cobbling, their distinguished British styling—their costly calfskins, cordovans and imported Scotch grains—everything about them is so fine that men claim they're every bit the equal of standard $8 shoes

BETTING DROPS $10,000,000 AT MARYLAND RACES

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Betting at the four major race tracks in Maryland declined approximately 10 million dollars during 1932, figures made public today by the Maryland racing commission show.

The total wagers in the pari-mutuel machines amounted to $35,306,982, as compared to $45,232,587 in 1931. This is a decline of almost 20 million dollars over 1928, the peak year in betting for Maryland, when the total was $54,680,165.

None of the race tracks earned full dividends, although Havre de Grace and Bowie stockholders were paid from surplus funds. The Pimlico track not only did not earn its dividend, but suffered a net loss of $30,606 for the year. The Laurel track, while omitting dividends, showed a surplus, according to the racing commission.

The report of the racing commission said that all tracks must reduce expenses substantially in continuing operations.

Announcement that reductions are to be made in purses for 1933 already has been made. Pimlico this week received approval of the racing commission to slash the Preakness stake from $50,000 to $25,000.

Broom Sage Hides Georgia Quail Coveys

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, Ga., Jan. 27.—Come along this morning for a trip through the Georgia quail country. As Jim, the big black side de camp of the expedition will tell you, "it ain't soon 'nuff in the mawnin'" for the best hunting. We are late in reaching our hunting country.

But what difference does it make this "mawnin'"? The day is warm and muggy. The sky is partly overcast. The air is as mild as a June day. We are in our shirt sleeves as the old flivver carries us past the unpainted Negro cabins on the plantations. In fact, it is a bit too warm for our northern blood when it comes to vigorous hiking across the rolling brown fields and through the yellow acres of

EVANSTON LIGHTS DEFEAT MORTON QUINTET, 30-29

Take Undisputed Lead in Suburban League.

Evanston's lightweight basketball team took the undisputed lead in the Suburban High School Basketball league last night by defeating Morton, 30 to 29, on the winner's floor. Jones, Evanston star forward, contributed 16 points. It was Evanston's fourth victory.

In the heavyweight game Evanston defeated Morton, 27 to 18.

York heavies won their seventh straight West Suburban league game when they defeated Glenbard, 25 to 20. The Glenbard lightweights evened matters with a 24 to 22 victory.

Oak Park Heavies Win, 28-23.

Oak Park heavies kept their hold on first place in the Suburban league by winning their fifth straight victory against New Trier, 28 to 23. The Oak Park lights also won, 20 to 21.

Downers Grove handed Maine a double defeat in the West Suburban league, the heavies winning, 40 to 20, and the lights, 25 to 22.

Leo heavies defeated De La Salle, 34 to 23, for their fourth straight victory in the south section of the Catholic league. The Leo lights also won, 33 to 21.

St. Patrick Heavies Win.

St. Patrick heavies went into the undisputed lead in the west section of the Catholic High School league by defeating St. Ignatius, 39 to 25. St. Ignatius lights moved out of the cellar, winning their first league game, 32 to 26.

De Paul heavies and lights held first places in the north section by handing Weber a double defeat, the former winning, 55 to 8, and the lights, 39 to 21. Both teams are undefeated.

St. George Beats Loyola.

St. George lightweights defeated Loyola, 25 to 23, on the latter's floor in a Catholic league north section game. St. George has won three games and lost one.

The Hyde Park lights beat Austin, 26 to 23, in a practice game on the winner's floor. Friedman was high scorer for Austin with 13 points.

In another practice game Parker heavies defeated Phillips, 30 to 26. Rump scored 13 points for the winners.

MOON MULLINS—ACTIONS SPEAK LOUDER THAN WORDS

MY WORD! WHO WAS THE STUNNING BLOND I NOTICED GOING OUT AS I CAME IN, EMMA?
YOU MEAN THAT SILLY MRS. PRATT WHICH POOPOOHED AT EVERY ROOM FOR RENT IN THE HOUSE UNTIL I MENTIONED THAT YOU LIVED HERE, LORD PLUSHBOTTOM?
AFTER THAT THE SILLY THING INSISTED ON PAYING ME A MONTH'S RENT IN ADVANCE! AND SHE'S BEEN BUMPING INTO EVERY MAN IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD EVER SINCE AND GUSHING "OH I BEG YOUR PARDON, BUT AREN'T YOU LORD PLUSHBOTTOM?"
BUT I PUT A STOP TO THAT—I EXPLAINED TO HER THAT I AND YOU WAS ENGAGED—AND SHOWED HER YOUR PHOTOGRAPH.
HUMM—AND WHAT DID THE LITTLE LADY SAY WHEN YOU SHOWED HER MY PHOTOGRAPH, EMMA?
NOTHING! SHE JUST PRESSED MY HAND IN SILENCE, LIKE A PERSON DOES AT A FUNERAL.

Cooper Takes His Cold South for a Round of Golf Today

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

"This id almost ad bad ad Phoedix, said Harry Cooper, Glen Oak Country club professional, speaking through the crossed wires of a severe head cold yesterday as he examined the prevailing brand of Chicago weather on his arrival from the west coast portion of the winter golf campaign.

Incidentally, that head cold was collected at Phoenix, where winter up until now has been just a word in the dictionary. But in spite of it Harry took first place in the annual open tournament there to climax a successful performance on the Pacific circuit. The Phoenix open was transacted almost entirely in a combination of rain and sleet, with a heaping dose of snow, the first in Phoenix in 20 years, just after the meet was concluded.

Today Harry and Mrs. Cooper will leave for St. Petersburg, Fla., where he and other Chicago golfers will begin the final half of the winter tour in the 36 hole St. Petersburg open tournament on Feb. 8. Yesterday he conferred with Gus Munch, Glen Oak president, who had just returned from Florida, where he golfed and fished with Jimmy Wilson, St. Louis Cardinals' catcher, at Bradenton.

Father-Son Team.

During the conference, it was revealed that another Cooper probably will be on the Glen Oak scene when Harry returns to resume work at the Glen Ellyn club around April 1. The newcomer will be no stranger to golf for he is none other than Harry's father, Syd Cooper, veteran teacher who began developing Harry's swing when the latter was three years old back in England. Syd has spent the last three years as professional at the Phoenix-Biltmore club in Arizona. He is expected to share the professional's duties with Harry when he arrives at Glen Oak.

Harry was well up among the money winners in the coast campaign, for in addition to winning the Phoenix open, he took second in both of the best ball meets at Santa Monica with Lester Bolstad, the Minneapolis amateur, as his partner; second in the Pasadena open, and fifth in the Agua Caliente.

Putting Spells Victory.

With reference to his rivals on the winter circuit, Cooper pointed out that putting spelt victory or defeat for a majority of them, citing the work of Craig Wood of Deal, N. J., who has already collected nearly $4,000 in winter prize money, as one who clicked on the greens, and Olin Dutra, P. G. A. champion, as one who didn't. Cooper himself holed more putts in the Phoenix open than he had in any other tournament on the schedule. He praised the play of Paul Runyan, victor in the Agua Caliente open; Horton Smith of Oak Park, who played an exceptional game in nearly every tournament he entered, and Johnny Dawson of Glen Oak, who has been the leading amateur of the California open season.

All will compete in the concluding battles of the season, which will extend through Florida and up into North Carolina. Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr and his bride, the former Mabel Donaldson; Wood, and Runyan are already enroute to Florida, and Smith, visiting in Springfield, Mo., is expected to join them shortly. Following the St. Petersburg open, the pros are scheduled to compete in the following meets: Tampa open, Feb. 10-12; international four ball matches at Miami, where a plan is afoot to use the proposed eight inch cups, Feb. 19-22; Coral Gables open, March 3-5; Charleston open, March 23-25, and the North and South open at Pinehurst, N. C., March 28 and 29.

Cooper Favors New Cups.

Cooper favors the eight inch cups suggested by Gene Sarazen, pointing out that they would, if nothing else, supply greater thrills for the gallery, and might be a boon to the golfer who has no difficulty in reaching the green, but is all over it getting down.

The rain at Phoenix still runs second in Cooper's opinion to the fickle wind encountered during the Agua Caliente open. He exhibited a photograph of Bob Sweeney, the American amateur now attending Oxford university, going to the first green. Cooper's own threesome playing into the wind, had taken three healthy wallops to reach the green and barely got their par 5's. Sweeney, on the tee next, found the freakish wind at his back in a few minutes, and was near the pin in two for an eagle three.

The wind shifted all over the course during the remainder of the tournament, and Cooper offers as a prize example a situation Mortie Dutra, Leo Diegel and himself met up with at the seventh tee of the first round. Cooper and Dutra, with the wind back of them, produced long straight drives. Diegel, last to tee off, stepped up to drive. Just before he completed his swing, the wind did an about face and Leo drove into it, his ball falling 60 yards short of those of Dutra and Cooper.

M'FARLAND FILES BOND; READY TO TAKE RING POST

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Packy McFarland of Joliet today filed his bond as a member of the Illinois state athletic commission and will take office formally, succeeding Fred Gardner of Chicago, as soon as his commission from the secretary of state reaches him.

McFarland was appointed several days ago and will serve with George Getz, present member of the commission, and Joseph Triner of Chicago, another Horner appointee, who is expected to take office in a few days.

Maroon Wrestlers Meet Cornell College Tonight

University of Chicago wrestlers will meet Cornell college in Bartlett gymnasium tonight in the only match on the Midway. Sypros Vorres, Maroon coach, who has had to shift his men into classes beyond their weights in earlier meets, hopes to have his squad in their proper divisions for the Iowans. Recovery of Capt. Bion Howard, who was ill with the flu, also will improve the Maroon chances.

Bowen Prep Five Beats Culver Academy, 41-33

Culver, Ind., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—Culver Military academy was defeated by Bowen High school of Chicago, 41 to 33, today. The Cadets excelled in speed and in handling the ball, but were erratic in shooting. Dolac and Lawler of Bowen led in scoring with 14 points each.

Water! That Means Run to Mr. Metcalfe

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Marquette's football team took time out.

"Water," signaled the captain.

Across the field, running as a streak, came the water boy. His dazzling speed awed Marquette's tired foes.

"Holy smoke!" a rival lineman shouted, "look at that fellow run! I'm glad they don't sic him on us in a football game. We're getting licked now, but what would happen if he got in?"

"Not a chance, not a chance," chirped a lineman from Marquette. "That's Ralph Metcalfe and before this school year is over he'll be the world's fastest human."

Sprints Back to Side Lines.

The colored sprinter didn't hear the conversation. With as much gusto as a hero worshiping freshman, he dished water liberally to the tired football heroes and sprinted back to the side lines.

Track isn't a year around proposition for Marquette's great sprinter, but from January to January he keeps in trim. During fotball season he lugs water for the football team and acts as a rubber. When the basketball team swings into action he picks up the water bucket again and rubs 'em down some more. He's always active, always in shape, always eager, willing, and anxious.

"Metcalfe's the answer to a coach's prayer," remarked Conrad M. Jennings, athletic director at Marquette. "It isn't because of his natural sprinting ability, but because of his natural inclination to keep sharp. He never has any rules to break in training. His natural mode of existence keeps him fit the year around."

Ready for Heavy Schedule.

Metcalfe is ready right now for the heaviest track schedule in Marquette history—a program that includes dual meets with Wisconsin, Iowa, Notre Dame, Michigan State, and others; the central intercollegiates, the national intercollegiates, the Drake or Penn relay carnivals, and the national collegiate meet at Chicago. He trains daily on the cork pathway of Marquette gymnasium, spending most of his time on starting. It was a slow start that beat the Marquette flyer last year—when he was beaten.

He favors the A. A. U.'s change to the metric system of measurement. The longer the sprint race the better he likes it. His backers say that those extra nine yards or so in the 100 meter dash will make him unbeatable at the distance.

Metcalfe has two more years of competition at Marquette. He is studying law.

BOOSTERS VS. WHITE EAGLES.

The E. J. Chesrow Boosters lightweight basketball team will meet the White Eagles peeles tonight at the White Eagles gymnasium, Noble and Bradley streets.

96 Bowlers to Roll Tonight in Match Tourney

Ninety-six of Chicago's best bowlers will participate in the second round of the Chicago match elimination tournament tonight.

The first round of the tournament, held last Saturday, resulted in several upsets. Frankie Kartheiser, Eddie Krems, and other leading bowlers were eliminated.

The finalist in the tournament will represent Chicago in a home-and-home match with the winner of the contest between Joe Falcaro, the present title holder, and the victor in the eastern match tournaments.

Joe Miller, Buffalo, is leading the eastern finalists, while Barney Spinella, Brooklyn; Andy Varipapa, New York, and Chet Arnhorst, Bronx, follow in the order named.

Tonight's matches:

Bruck's, 6044 S. Halsted—Levine, Czerny, Gawron, Fischer, De Vito, Diba, Orizer, Murray, Gaines, Notz, Wilman, Knopcich, Boyle, Reith, Einar, Petersen, R. Johnson, Daglow, Kiley, Landman.

Uptown, 1103 Bryn Mawr — Sampayo, Lange, B. Petersen, Bishop, Kopinski, Wernicke, Strouse, Waterson, Skovie, Fliger, Schaffek, Bunning, Plunge, Robert Johnson, Wenholz, Sowa, Krumske, Lenzen, Goldammer, Pagel, Watson, Rankin, Gerstein, Scott Sandquist.

Stevenson & Schalk, 757 S. 79th—Carlson, Miller, Wachter, Malecki, Farnan, Marinello, Buckley, H. Fristac, Moore, Gratz, Stehno, Dunn, Kuglin, Barker, W. J. Smith, Zobott, Kaad, Heinrich, Heerman, Fetz, Belt, Winsberg, Barberis, Pecaro.

Oak Park Recreation, 1112 S. Boulevard, Oak Park — Hoffman, Zajac, Fuller, Bradek, Kluze, Wass, Lock, Hoar, Seeley, Collier, Hilo, Canfield, Hejna, Golcheri, Bernicchi, Pehrson, Brown, Faetz, Butler, Matson, Fitzgerald, Frana, Garvey, Galloway, Cheyken.

FOUR UNBEATEN POLO TEAMS WILL PLAY TONIGHT

Four undefeated contenders in the Metropolitan Indoor Polo league tournament will battle tonight at the 124th Field Artillery armory, Cottage Grove avenue and 52d street.

In the senior division the Chicago Riding club, strengthened by the return of Capt. Maxwell Corpening, will meet the 6th Corps Area trio, led by Maj. C. C. Smith.

An equally hard fought game is expected in the junior division, with the 124th Field Artillery Cardinals facing the 122d Field Artillery.

All four teams competing tonight won their last games easily. The Chicago Riding club triumphed over the North Shore Polo and Hunt club, the 6th Corps Area over the 124th Field Artillery, the 122d Field Artillery over the Chicago Shamrocks, and the 124th Field Artillery Cardinals over Fort Sheridan. Lineups:

6TH CORPS AREA.		CHI. RIDING CLUB.
Capt. Wilkinson	No. 1	James Hannub
Capt. Davis	No. 2	Capt. Corpening
Maj. Smith	No. 3	Prentice Porter
124TH F. A. CARDINALS.		122D FIELD ARTILLERY.

Coast Regatta Too Far for Easterners

New York, Jan. 27. — [Special.] — Maxwell Stevenson, chairman of the board of stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing association, today said there was "no chance" of any eastern crew accepting the proposed invitation to travel across the continent and compete in a national championship regatta planned by civic organizations at Long Beach, Cal.

"It is very interesting that three California crews plan to hold short distance races on the Olympic course as a new event in rowing," Stevenson said, "but there is no chance of any eastern crew making the trip, particularly for a 2,000 meter race, as there are plenty of short distance events scheduled in the east this year. It is unlikely they would make the trip to compete in a four mile contest, as it is doubtful a four mile race can be rowed on the lagoon at Long Beach.

HANLEY RETURNS FROM WEST WITH WARNER, INGRAM

Dick Hanley, coach of the Northwestern university football team, returned yesterday from the Pacific coast, where he has been since late in December when he went west as coach of the All-Star Eastern football team which met the West in a charity game at San Francisco on Jan. 2. Hanley was accompanied to Chicago by Glenn (Pop) Warner, former Stanford coach and newly appointed coach of Temple university, and Bill Ingram, coach of the University of California.

Hanley contracted influenza while in San Francisco and was confined to a hospital there for a time.

Warner is on his way east to confer with Temple officials, while Ingram will stop off at Notre Dame to discuss the possibility of a Notre Dame-California game on the coast. Later he will go to New York with Hanley for a meeting of the coaches' advisory committee on rules.

LOYOLA U. ROUTS MEXICAN FIVE IN 2D HALF, 39 TO 22

Hogan Contributes 11 Pts. to 8th Victory.

Loyola university defeated the Fal basketball team, amateur champion of Mexico City, last night at the Loyola gym, 39 to 22. It was Loyola's eighth victory in eleven games this season.

Loyola took a 20 to 13 lead at the half, although the Mexicans' baffling bounce pass gave the defense considerable trouble. With Loyola leading 34 to 17 in the second half, the regulars were relieved by substitutes, who held the visitors on even terms for the last ten minutes.

The game was marred by frequent penalties for rushing. The Mexicans committed 22 fouls and Loyola 15.

Hogan led Loyola with 11 points, while Rodriguez and Santoyo were high for the visitors with 6 points each. Lineup:

KRONE IS UNDULY IRKED; FRONTON PLANS NO ACTION

The wrestling program planned by Doc Krone for the Broadway armory Monday night will be presented without legal interference by officials of the Rainbo Fronton, the dread of which Krone had publicly expressed Thursday night.

John Callahan, manager of the Fronton, declared last night that Fronton officials at no time had contemplated action against Krone.

Krone said the Fronton had violated an "exclusive" agreement he had with it to hold shows there, and that he had subsequently sought the armory as a site for his shows. Yesterday Callahan maintained that the only "exclusive agreement" for wrestling at the Fronton had been dissolved last fall when the promoter failed to fulfill a clause which required him to hold at least two shows a month there.

Joe Stecher will meet George Zaharias in the windup bout on Monday's card.

OTTO VON PORAT RETURNS TO U. S. TO SEEK BOUTS

New York, Jan. 27. — [Special.] — Otto Von Porat, the Norwegian heavyweight fighter whose career was halted by a one round knockout at the hands of Young Stribling in Chicago two years ago, is en route to the scene of that knockout. Von Porat landed here today from Norway and left immediately for Chicago, where he plans to resume fighting.

R. K. O. PLACED IN RECEIVERSHIP BY AGREEMENT

Orpheum Circuit Files a Voluntary Petition.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 27.—The Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation, the amusement company affiliated with the Radio Corporation of America, with assets of about $133,000,000, was placed in equity receivership late today by Federal Judge William Bondy.

At the same time the Orpheum Circuit, Inc., a $23,000,000 operating company, with theaters in 27 cities, controlled by the Keith-Albee-Orpheum corporation, which in turn was controlled by RKO, entered a voluntary bankruptcy retition. The Irving Trust company was designated by Judge Bondy to serve as receiver in both instances.

Action Like Paramount.

Action in the RKO case followed somewhat the proceedings which the day before had placed the Paramount-Publix corporation in equity receivership and a subsidiary, Publix Enterprises, Inc., in bankruptcy. The voluntary petition in bankruptcy was not filed with the United States District court clerk, but was taken directly to Judge Bondy.

M. H. Aylesworth, president of RKO, in a statement tonight said voluntary petitions in bankruptcy were also filed in the federal court of Delaware on behalf of Western corporation and Southern corporation, subsidiary theater companies of RKO.

Some of the theaters controlled by the subsidiaries could be profitably operated under present conditions, he said, "if necessary revisions of rentals and other fixed charges could be effected."

Explains Consent to Receivers.

"The parent company is unable to obtain cash necessary to provide for its presently maturing obligations and for other necessary requirements," he added, "and the board of directors has reluctantly reached the conclusion that a continuation of operations without a substantial overhauling of the burdensome rental and fixed charge requirements could serve no useful purpose but merely diminish further the company's assets. There was, accordingly, no alternative but to consent to the appointment of receivers."

The action placing the RKO company in equity receivership was predicated upon a petition filed last Monday by Alfred West, holder of $5,000 of the corporation's 6 per cent gold notes.

Following closely upon the heels of the Paramount-Publix receivership the film world seethed with rumors that negotiations were under way between the Fox Film corporation and Warner Bros. looking toward a merger of the two firms.

Western Union Telegraph.

I would appreciate your report on Western Union Telegraph bonds and stocks.—Mrs. R. C. C.

Western Union Telegraph company handles about four-fifths of the land line telegraph business in the United States, contacting almost every community in the country. It has an extensive international cable system.

In 1931 an agreement with R. C. A. Communications, Inc., was reached whereby Western Union was granted the use of its international radio message facilities to points not touched by Western Union cables in exchange for Western Union land facilities.

The bulk of revenues comes from business messages. With decline in business activity the number of messages declined. Competition of long distance telephone, wireless, and radio telephony has increased. Laboring under heavy fixed charges [property accounted for about 26 per cent of total assets on Dec. 31, 1931] it is difficult to reduce expenses at a time of decreased gross.

Gross revenues for the first 11 months of 1932 were $76,329,000 and net loss was $1,398,.00. For the corresponding 1931 period gross was $100,074,000 and net income was $5,558,000. Gross for the full 1931 year was $108,737,000, against $130,582,000 for 1930, $145,467,000 for 1929, and $136,450,000 for 1928. Net income in 1931 was $5,974,000, or $5.72 per share, against $9,247,000, or $9.03 per share, for 1930. Net for 1929 was $15,475,000, against $14,.es,000 for 1928, and $15,030,000 for 1927.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $30,634,000 and current liabilities were $13,178,000. Cash was $6,315,000. Working capital was $17,459,000 against $21,700,000 the year before.

Bonded debt totals $109,690,000 and capital stock [par $100] totaled $104,528,000. The dividend due July 15, 1932, was omitted for the first time since 1874.

The company's facilities are equipped to handle twice the amount of available business. In April, 1932, there was talk of a merger between Western Union and Postal Telegraph and Cable, which was denied by President Carleton. The White act, which still remains in force, forbids merging wireless and telegraph companies in this country. Advantages claimed for such a merger are elimination of duplicated facilities and consequent reduction in overhead.

While demand for communication facilities remains at the present low ebb not much in the way of earnings may be looked for from Western Union. In view of increased use of long distance telephone and of wireless telephony, it remains to be seen what share of the available business Western Union will be able to obtain when such demand increases.

The company's bonds, all issues, are somewhat speculative at present. The capital stock is a speculation.

REPORTS DIFFER ON R. F. C. LOANS TO DAWES BANK

Couzens Urges End of Aid to Rails.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—[Special.]—A discrepancy between two Reconstruction Finance corporation reports, concerning the 90 million dollar Dawes bank loan, came to the attention of the senate today as Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] brought corporation policies to the fore with a demand for the suspension of further loans to railroads.

SENATOR JAMES COUZENS.

Discussion of the resolution, introduced by the senate interstate commerce committee's chairman, brought out not only a 30 million dollar difference between the Dawes loan report to the senate and yesterday's report to the house, but news of a statement by a director of the R. F. C. that the loan might result in a 25 million or 35 million dollar loss to the corporation.

Confidential Report Cited.

According to the confidential report made available to him under senate authority, Senator Couzens said, out of the 90 millions pledged to Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Central Republic Bank and Trust company of Chicago, only 40 millions had been advanced, of which $3,195,720 had been repaid, leaving a balance outstanding of $36,804,280.

"I might add that the R. F. C. directors assured me they had 120 millions as security," Mr. Couzens remarked.

Then he pointed out that the report to the house, published yesterday showed that the entire 90 millions had been advanced, of which $23,576,236 had been repaid, leaving a net indebtedness of $66,422,761.

"Discrepancy," He Says.

"It is a discrepancy," replied Senator Couzens to inquiries concerning the possibility of further advances since the report was made to him.

"Do the securities include Insull stock?" asked Senator John J. Blaine, Wisconsin radical. Senator Couzens replied that he had not been able to investigate the security.

Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart, Iowa radical, remarked that Gardner Cowles, corporation director, had told him that if the loan had to be adjusted now there would a 25 to 35 million dollar loss.

"Mr. Cowles told me the appraisers estimate the security at 120 millions, but it wasn't actually worth that much," Senator Brookhart said.

Against Railway Loans.

Senator Couzens advocated adoption of his resolution to suspend railroad loans, at least, he said, until passage of the pending bankruptcy bill, which provides for railroad reorganizations.

He cited the case of the Missouri Pacific, which has already received $14,000,000; has asked for $3,800,000 by Feb. 1, $3,000,000 by March 1, and which has 34 millions of securities falling due on May 1.

"We cannot, with the taxpayers' credit, maintain the capital structure of many of the railroads that are in difficulties," Senator Couzens said. "Unless reorganized and recapitalized many roads will have to go through receivership.

"Yet we have the houses of Morgan and Kuhn-Loeb begging for these loans and assuring the R. F. C. that the security on which they themselves will not make a loan is quite adequate."

He believed the R. F. C. put pressure on the interstate commerce commission to get the Missouri Pacific loan approved.

Inflate Credit Is One Group's Recovery Plan

This is the sixth of a series of 10 articles reviewing the attitudes toward the solution of the depression held by business leaders, financiers, and economists in the United States today.

BY REUBEN CAHN.

The credit inflationists are a substantial group. Among them are included the leading bankers of New York [not Chicago, take note], the Federal Reserve Board [at times], and most of the economists whose names are familiar to the general public. Credit inflation is, moreover, Secretary Mills' plan for combatting deflation and the federal government policy since early last year has been for the most part consistent with it.

The credit inflationists observe that prices in the past have risen with an increase in the use of credit and declined as less credit was used. They would solve the depression, therefore, by increasing such credit as is under ready control. That happens to be Federal Reserve credit.

Reserve Increases Credit.

The Federal Reserve banks are urged to buy government bonds as a means of pushing Federal Reserve credit into use. The effect of such a purchase is to give cash to those who formerly had bonds. If the former bond holders be individuals, they might use the cash to buy goods or securities or to increase their bank balances. If the bond owner was a bank the sale of the bonds increases its cash reserves. In either case the pushing into use of Federal Reserve credit, by the purchase of bonds, would put pressure upon bankers to put money to work. This, so the reasoning goes, they would do by becoming more generous with loans or by purchasing other bonds.

Moreover, say the credit inflationists, the effect of making a stronger market for government bonds is to strengthen markets for all bonds. And bond prices influence both stock prices and commodity prices. Thus would the whole price structure be lifted. So much for the theory.

Decline of Credit in 1931.

In the autumn of 1931, England's lapse from the gold standard was followed by a collapse of stock and commodity prices in the United States. The amount of credit in use fell likewise, and at the rate of 25 per cent. In other words, credit was declining from use at a rate that would have extinguished all credit in four years. Some well known economists at that time demanded that the Federal Reserve System should offset the decline by pushing federal reserve credit in substantial amounts into use.

Instead, the reserve system permitted the amount of credit to decline by about $800,000,000. A spokesman for the Federal Reserve board at the time, decried any efforts to check the decline by the use of federal reserve credit and called such practices "manipulation." He said that we had been living in "an overmanipulated world," and that the manipulations had worked out badly.

Reserve Reverses Policy.

That sounded very ominous, but it wasn't many months before the Federal Reserve system completely reversed its policy and began inflating the credit at the rate of a hundred million dollars a week. When heavy gold withdrawals came as a consequence, the policy was substantially modified.

Such inflation of the credit as has so far been done, has probably slowed down the decline in commodity prices, during the periods in which it was employed consistently. But as a means for catching up with the depression, it is like the big building policy, described in an earlier installment in this series: It hasn't made a dent in the situation.

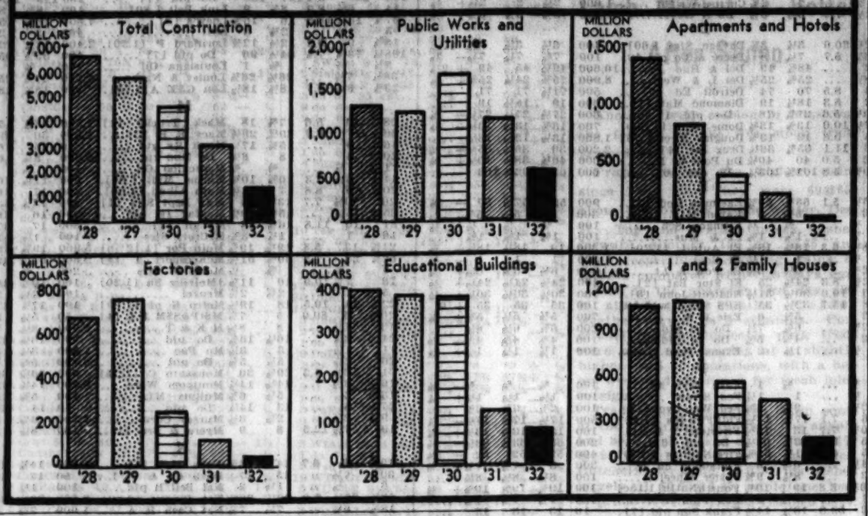
Value of Building Contracts by Classes for Five Years Compared



17 Out of 32 Rails Increase December Net

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 27.—Of the first thirty-two railroads to report for December, seventeen showed increased net operating incomes for the month, compared with the same month a year previous. In November fifteen members of the group recorded increase in this account. Three of the roads reported operating deficits in December, against four in November.

Net operating income of the thirty-two lines amounted to $16,261,000 in December, against $17,206,000 in December, 1931, a decline of 4.9 per cent, and against $34,043,000 in December, 1930, a drop of 51.9 per cent. In November, their net operating income was $18,104,000, against $21,147,000 in November, 1931, a decrease of 14.3 per cent.

Gross Revenue Drop.

Gross revenue of these roads in December was about $128,338,000, against $152,958,000 in December, 1931, a decline of 16 per cent, and against $197,385,000 in December, 1930, a drop of 34.9 per cent. In November their gross was about $133,198,000, against $161,466,000 in November, 1931, a decline of 17.5 per cent.

"Roads which increased their net operating incomes in December included the New York Central, the Baltimore and Ohio, the Lehigh Valley, The Boston and Maine, Erie, Maine Central, Chicago and North Western, Bangor and Aroostook and Rock Island. The Reading had a lower net operating income in December, but a larger one for the year.

Rock Island Net Gains.

A sharp improvement in December earnings was reported yesterday by the Rock Island lines. Net operating income for December was $219,957, compared with operating deficits of $165,012 for December, 1931, and $164,965 for November, 1932. Total December operating revenue in December, 1932, was $5,140,903, compared with $6,208,122 for December, 1931, and $5,124,591 for November, 1932. Operating expenses for December, 1932, decreased $150,219 from November, 1932, and $1,067,097 from December, 1931.

The New York Central increased its income $1,574,000 in December despite a decrease of $3,537,000 in gross revenue, its operating ratio for the month falling to 74.9 compared with 84.3 in December, 1931. For the year its operating ratio was 77.4, against 80.3 in 1931. The system increased its net operating income also in February, September, October, and November.

N.Y. Stock Exchange Table to Include Only '33 Range

Beginning on Monday, quotations in the New York Stock exchange table will include the yearly range for 1933 only, instead of the range for both 1932 and 1933, as at present.

CLOSED BANKS' BETTER ASSETS HELD BY R.F.C.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

What has the Reconstruction Finance corporation done for the depositors in the Chicago banks to which it has made loans?

When the R. F. C. was being organized its sponsors asserted that such a federal credit institution would arrest the deflation. They said that it would halt the process of liquidation that was tearing down the value of securities and other assets. Chief among the promised blessings was the protection that it would afford the bank depositor.

The report on loans for the period from Feb. 2, 1932, to July 20, 1932, shows that during that time 65 banks in Chicago received loans from the R. F. C.

47 of 65 Borrowers Close.

Of those 65 banks only 18 are still open. The other 47 have been closed since they borrowed from the R. F. C.

The 47 banks got a total of approximately 100 millions from the R. F. C. Of this they have paid back an aggregate of a little more than 28 millions.

Excluding the 90 million dollar loan to the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, total borrowings by 46 now nonoperating Chicago banks from Feb. 2 to July 20 amounted to $9,870,000, of which about half has been repaid.

Depositors in some of the banks aided by R. F. C. have themselves been among the loudest critics of the R. F. C. They declare that this reservoir of credit has done them more harm than good.

R. F. C. Got Best Assets.

These people argue that the R. F. C. loan simply set up a preferred creditor and that when the bank folded up—although the closing was postponed—the best assets of the institution were in Washington as security for the R. F. C. loan.

This same criticism of the R. F. C. plan of solving the depression has been voiced by disinterested observers along La Salle street. No fault is found with the R. F. C.'s protecting its loans with adequate collateral. The objection has been rather against the futility of a system which offers two alternatives: Either loss to the taxpayers through the making of poorly secured loans, or placing a preferred creditor ahead of the depositors, leaving the latter the cats and dogs after adequately securing the loan.

Like Insull Stock Owners.

The plight of the depositors of closed banks owing money to the R. F. C. is not unlike the plight of the people who hold the securities of the Insull investment companies, Middle West Corporation Securities, and Insull Utility Investments.

The depositor would be better off now if his bank had obtained no R. F. C. loan. The investor in Insull Utility Investments would be better off had his company received no bank loans.

The big New York and Chicago banks have been severely criticized for lending to the Insull concerns and taking the assets of these concerns to secure the loans. Yet the R. F. C. has done the same thing in the case of many of the Chicago banks that closed.

New Receiver Is Named for Foreman Bank

Charles H. Albers has been appointed receiver of the Foreman State Trust and Savings bank by Edward J. Barrett, state auditor, it was learned yesterday. He succeeds Charles A. Aaron, who was picked as receiver by former State Auditor Oscar Nelson a few days before he turned over his office to Barrett.

Attorneys for the receiver have also been changed, it was learned. The law firm of Castle, Williams, Long & McCarthy has been named to succeed Ryan, Condon, and Livingston, who were named by Nelson.

Former Chicago Examiner.

Albers is a former examiner for the Chicago Clearing House association and is now in charge of the closed bank department of the state auditor's office.

Shortly after Barrett took office the first of the year he notified receivers to disburse no more monies for expenses and salaries but to continue paying dividends until further notice.

Barrett's new appointments have been approved by the court. Albers' appointment was described as temporary, although it was said that it may be made permanent.

It is understood that Barrett has been working on a plan which would cut the number of bank receivers who are now in office. Under his program it is said that the work now handled by hundreds of receivers and attorneys appointment by the auditor will be concentrated in a few hands.

Investigate Legal Angles.

Announcement of the plan has been held up in order to investigate the legal questions involved. The scheme is described by Barrett's friends as an economy move. The new attorney general, Judge Otto Kerner, is said to be working with Barrett on the plan.

A receiver was first named for the Foreman State on Jan. 6 this year. The action was necessary to facilitate the winding up of the trust business. It did not affect the former depositors. The deposit liabilities were paid or taken over by the First Union Trust and Savings bank under an agreement made in June, 1931.

NATIONAL TEA BUYS PIGGLY WIGGLY GROUP

The Chicago Piggly Wiggly, Inc., a subsidiary of the National Tea company, has concluded the purchase of the Chicago stores of Great Lakes Piggly Wiggly company, according to an announcement made yesterday by Albert H. Morrill, president of the Kroger Grocery and Baking company and the Piggly Wiggly corporation. This action is a result of amicable settlement of litigation between the Piggly Wiggly corporation and National Tea, the statement says.

F. H. Massman, vice president of the National Tea company, and president of the Chicago Piggly Wiggly company, stated that fixtures and inventories of six Great Lakes Piggly Wiggly stores have been acquired for around $900,000. One location of the present Piggly Wiggly units will be abandoned, leaving five in operation, he said.

"It is the plan of the new company to add new units to the small Piggly Wiggly group at a very slow rate, possibly not more than six or a dozen at the outside during the first year," Mr. Massman said.

LOREE EXPLAINS BUYING N. Y. C. RY. STOCK WHEN $10

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 27.—By acquiring 10 per cent of the stock of the New York Central railroad, the Delaware and Hudson company has acted to protect itself in future consolidation negotiations, Leonor F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson, so declared today. He indicated, however, that the move did not mean opposition to the four system plan approved by the eastern trunk lines. He remarked "much had to be done to stabilize" that alignment.

The consolidation plan approved last summer by the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, and Chesapeake and Ohio, in conformity with a ruling by the interstate commerce commission, omitted reference to the Delaware and Hudson.

Mr. Loree said he gave no thought to buying New York Central stock when it declined to $8.75 a share.

"We began at $10," he said. "We thought that was the bottom."

RESERVE BOARD TELLS STORY OF DROP IN LOANS

Add Picture of Huge Funds Available.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—The story of a deflation that has wiped almost 12 billions in loans and investments off the books of the country's banks in the last three years, was traced today by the federal reserve board.

As a sequel to the story, the board in its monthly financial review, painted against the background of the deflation a picture of adequate loanable funds now being held in readiness for attractive lending opportunities.

Between Oct. 4, 1929, and Sept. 30, 1932, loans and investments of all the banks in the country have fallen by $12,983,000,000, and on the latter date amounted to only $45,852,000,000, the board declares in its analysis of the shrinkage in credit which followed the stock market crash.

Interest Rates Drop.

Open market loans, from all sources, have dropped to 12 per cent of their 1929 total, from $10,086,000,000 to $1,173,000,000, and the board stressed the fact that they remain at this low level despite the fact that interest rates on open market operations have fallen from 5½ and 9¾ per cent to ¾ and 2½ per cent.

Loans to customers have declined less slowly, but reports from all banks in the country show that they have dropped from $23,249,000,000 in 1929 to $14,497,000,000 on Sept. 30, 1932, the board says.

Loan Opportunities Lacking.

Explaining the shrinkage in these two categories of loans and inferring that the present low level is due more to a lack of loan opportunities than to a lack of funds, the board says:

"Customers' loans, which represent the larger part of the total volume of bank credit outstanding, show the largest reduction in absolute figures of any class of loans. This reduction reflects a large number of influences, all of them related to the depressed condition of business and agriculture. It reflects a reduction in the demand for credit due to a reduced volume of business operations. It also reflects the reluctance on the part of business to incur indebtedness in view of the uncertainty of business prospects and the desire on the part of banks to maintain an unusual degree of liquidation.

"Reduction in open market loans has been smaller in absolute amount than the reduction in customer loans, but larger in proportion. It represents a decrease in the demand for funds because of the low level of business activity rather than a shortage in the supply. That open market funds are available in large volume is indicated by the fact that the rates charged for them are the lowest on record. The demand, however, has been small. The demand for funds for stock exchange purposes has dwindled to insignificant amounts in keeping with the low level of operations in the securities markets."

As an additional piece of evidence in its argument that there are adequate funds for lending in the country, the board reveals that the member banks of the reserve system alone had excess reserves of 575 million dollars when the year began. It was at this point, when according to the board's position there was sufficient money for credit expansion, that the open market operations were reversed.

5 NEW DIRECTORS NAMED ON BOARD OF ARMOUR & CO.

Five new directors were added to the board of Armour & Co. at the annual meeting of stockholders yesterday.

The new directors are D. R. McLennan, president of Marsh & McLennan, Inc., and director of a score of corporations; D. A. Crawford, president of the Pullman company; Frank G. Allen, chairman of Winslow Brothers & Smith, Boston; Harry G. Mills, vice president in charge of plant operations of Armour, and I. M. Hoagland, vice president in charge of sales.

John S. Pillsbury, vice president of the Pillsbury Flour Mills company; Harvey J. Sconce of Sidell, Ill., and Charles A. MacDowell of Chicago are the retiring directors.

E. J. Bermingham Resigns from Dillon, Read & Co.

E. J. Bermingham, for the last twenty-five years associated with Dillon, Read & Co., and directing the Chicago office, has announced his resignation from that firm. Mr. Bermingham plans to enter the investment banking business with his own firm, E. J. Bermingham & Co.

3 Insurance Concerns Issue Good Reports

Among the insurance companies issuing their annual statements yesterday were the Continental Assurance company, Chicago; the National Life Insurance company, Montpelier, Vt.; the Home Life Insurance company of New York, and the Western and Southern Life Insurance company, Cincinnati.

President H. A. Behrens of the Continental reported, as of Dec. 31, 1932, that the company had total assets of $17,839,675, including the following: Cash, $505,921; United States government obligations, $1,054,618; other public bonds, $1,450,280; railroad, public utility, and other bonds, $2,624,514; policy loans, $3,021,098; mortgage loans, $5,250,218, and real estate, $1,228,001. The liabilities include policy reserves of $13,326,239.

Gets Record New Business.

Mr. Behrens states that new life insurance written during 1932 totaled $46,302,545—the largest amount ever written by the company in any calender year. The amount of insurance in force on a paid for basis is $161,783,807, he said.

"During 1932 and in the face of larger payments to policyholders and beneficiaries than ever before, the liquid condition of the company's portfolio was further increased," Mr. Behrens stated. "It will be noted that after a substantial increase in the cash on hand there were added to the portfolio $700,000 of United States government bonds."

The only bonds in the company's portfolio on which interest was not paid, Mr. Behrens said, was a small block of Cook county forest preserve district and no final loss on this is expected.

Policy Loans Decrease.

In his annual statement, Fred A. Howland, president of the National Life Insurance company, states that there was a 28 per cent decline in policy loan demands for the last six months of 1932. Net assets as of Dec. 31 were given as $148,156,491, including $17,713,436 in United States government and municipal bonds, $11,738,760.

"The company reports an increase of $3,648,165 in assets," Mr. Howland stated. "Increases in payments to policy holders bring the total for the year to $20,818,000 [not including policy loans], which is the largest distribution in the company's history. These unusual demands were readily met from current income and the year closed with no borrowed money, with bank balances twice the amount normally carried and with an increase in the company's large holdings of municipal securities."

Largest Surplus in History.

Ethelbert Ide Low, chairman of the board of the Home Life Insurance company of New York, reported that gains in surplus, contingency reserve, and total assets, bringing each of these items to the largest figures they have ever reached in the company's history.

The report stated that assets increased by $835,875 to $79,985,126; more than 99 per cent of the company's investments are paying the interest or dividends contemplated at the time of investment. Out of more than $30,000,000 of mortgages on city and suburban improved real estate, the total real estate owned or in process of foreclosure is less than 1½ of one per cent, the statement says, and adds that out of more than $20,000,000 in bonds, only three issues totaling $145,000 ceased paying interest in 1932.

The Western and Southern Life Insurance company reports as of Dec. 31, 1932, total assets of $128,351,597, an increase of $3,490,415 during the year, and capital and surplus of $20,236,125, an increase of $1,984,346 over 1931.

HOPE TO AVERT FARMERS' STRIKE IN ARGENTINA

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 27.—While the government is giving closest attention to measures to prevent a nation-wide agrarian strike on Feb. 1, banking and commercial circles are inclined to believe the farmers' lack of organization will cause failure of an effort to make that movement general.

It was admitted, however, there exists widespread sentiment among the farmers, even where unorganized, to cut no corn, harvest of which begins in March, their attitude being the creditors can come, cut it and haul it away in payment of the debts. Since banks and commercial creditors obviously cannot do this, there is serious danger a large part at least of the corn crop won't be harvested.

The farmers' demand of a minimum price of five pesos per quintal—33 2-3 cents a bushel—at the nearest railroad station would mean a seaboard price of around 7.50 pesos per quintal—49 cents a bushel—compared to the present price of 4.50 pesos per quintal, which would put the crop outside world market prices and require governmental valorization measures.

OPERATING MEN SLATED TO QUIT EDISON BOARD

Propose Reduction of Directors to 9.

Retirement of a number of operating executives from the board of directors of the Commonwealth Edison company and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois forecast in a statement issued last night by James Simpson, chairman of both concerns.

SAMUEL INSULL, JR. [Keystone Photo.]

Stockholders of each company will vote at the annual meetings to be held Feb. 27 on proposals to decrease the membership of each board from 13 to 9 members.

"During the last few years," Mr. Simpson said, referring to the Edison company, "six of the directors have been men who were also executive officers of the company.

Take Officers Off Board.

"The present management of the company desires to decrease the number of the board to nine, which is the number which comprised the board prior to 1930, with the definite plan of having not more than two officials of the company on the board, namely, the chairman and possibly the president, and of having the balance of the board consist of a group of outstanding men in the community who have no official connection with the company other than as directors.

"It is the belief of the management that the smaller number will be a more compact, efficient group to administer the affairs of the company, and that by having the board consist primarily of men who serve the company only as directors, the interests of the company, the stockholders and the public will be better served."

Officers Who Are Directors.

Operating executives of the Edison company who are also directors include Edward J. Doyle, president; Louis A. Ferguson, John F. Gilchrist and John H. Gulick, vice presidents. Samuel Insull Jr., who holds the title of vice chairman of both Edison and Public Service and is still nominally a director of both companies.

It is indicated that all of these men with the possible exception of Mr. Doyle will retire as directors.

Britton I. Budd is president and director of the Public Service company. It is undecided whether he will continue in the latter position, Mr. Simpson's statement indicated.

The directors slated to quit are known as "Insull" men. They worked their way up through the operating department and were made board members by Insull. The change in policy means that the old Insull men will be replaced by outsiders.

Provide Check on Management.

It is known that the new management is of the opinion that the board should sit in judgment upon the management which is the direct opposite of the policy of Samuel Insull. Many of the Insull directors were men that Insull "brought up" in a business sense. The new policy will provide the necessary check on the management, in the opinion of the present management.

The new policy was really put in force last spring when the executive committee of the Edison company was reorganized. President Doyle and Vice President Gulick were replaced by Solomon A. Smith and Sewell L. Avery. Both of the latter were outside men and had no close connection with the management.

It was in the years immediately preceding his collapse that Insull increased the number of hand picked directors on the boards of the local operating companies. In 1930 the Edison board was enlarged to include several operating executives.

Fred E. Hummel Is Made Goodrich Transit Trustee

Fred E. Hummel was appointed trustee for the bankrupt Goodrich Transit company yesterday by Referee in Bankruptcy Garfield Charles. The appointment was placed in the hands of the referee when counsel for the creditors and the bankrupt steamship line could not agree on the election of Capt. E. E. Taylor, president, who has been receiver. Mr. Hummel will inspect the properties of the company, including steamships and docks, in several Lake Michigan ports. Later he will make recommendations regarding continuance or liquidation of the company.

Guy Richardson Is Appointed Receiver of Chicago Railways

Guy Richardson was appointed receiver of the Chicago Railways company yesterday in an order signed by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. Mr. Richardson, who is president of the street railway system, succeeds Frederick H. Rawson, chairman of the board of the First National bank, whose resignation was accepted by Judge Wilkerson.

GUY A. RICHARDSON. [Tolon Photo.]

Mr. Rawson's resignation was presented by Attorneys Weymouth Kirkland and James M. Sheean, counsel for the receiver. He gave ill health as the reason for his action. Mr. Rawson stated that he is going to California for a rest, and he feels that some one should act who is able to keep in closer touch with the street railway situation. He will retain his position with the bank.

The petition presented to the court yesterday also requested that proper compensation be granted the retiring receiver. Originally, after litigation began in 1926, there were three receivers, the late John J. Mitchell, the late Henry A. Blair, and Mr. Rawson.

Each of the receivers received compensation at the rate of $60,000 a year between 1926 and 1928 when the city council passed a resolution holding that this amount was excessive. Since 1928, at the request of the receivers, no compensation has been paid. Mr. Mitchell died in 1928 and Mr. Blair died last year.

The compensation to be allowed Mr. Rawson will be for a four year period, and for the estate of Mr. Blair for a three year period. A hearing to determine the amounts to be paid will be set after a hearing on March 15.

Bond for Mr. Richardson, whose appointment becomes effective Feb. 1, was set at $50,000. The Chicago Railways company operates the north and west side lines. The south side lines are in special receivership, with Edward N. Hurley acting as receiver.

CALGARY BALKS AGAIN AT PAYING EXCHANGE RATES

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Refusal to pay $7,000 in exchange charges on maturing debentures was voted by the Calgary public school board today.

Declining to act on all debentures maturing during the year, the board made its ruling applicable only to the Feb. 1 maturity of $46,193, which was part of a $950,000 issue of 1912. Payment will be made in Canadian funds only.

Wording of the bonds was given as the chief reason for the decision, similar to that taken by the city of Calgary Jan. 1 in refusing to pay $300,000 exchange charges on debentures totaling $2,135,000.

MAKE CHICAGO HEADQUARTERS FOR BUS GROUP

Motor bus company executives from all over the United States, gathered in convention at the Congress hotel, yesterday selected Chicago as national headquarters of the newly formed National Bus Traffic association.

The new association states that it will stabilize motor bus rates throughout the country by coordinating the rates of various motor bus companies.

HOW EVEN CANDY BAR CAN HELP BUSINESS IN MANY OTHER LINES

How increasing activity in one line of business helps others and increases employment in many other lines is discussed in a report by the Curtiss Candy company on its 1932 efforts. The company gives the following table showing how it increased its purchases of elements entering into its products in 1932 over 1931:

	1931 Jly.1-Dec.31.	1932 Jly.1-Dec.31.
Peanuts, pounds	9,807,053	17,765,866
Corn syrup, pounds	4,553,486	15,380,372
Chocolate, pounds	4,414,685	11,915,443
Sugar, pounds	3,745,380	11,788,225
Eggs	2,351,592	9,683,888
Milk [condensed] pounds	1,656,432	1,931,214
Miscellaneous raw materials, pounds	867,412	1,704,912
Boxes	6,058,736	9,477,485
Box wrappers	12,117,478	18,954,980
Candy bar wrappers	208,628,000	805,390,600
Gas consum'd [btu]	6,319,272	11,287,280
Electricity consumed [k.w.hrs.]	1,706,117	2,360,769
Rail and truck tonnage, exclusive of Chicago hauling	49,097,178	118,575,832

The report states that the average daily Curtiss employment for the second week of October was 1,739 in 1931 and 5,270 for 1932. It adds that the increased activity of the company was responsible for 25,000 additional people being gainfully employed.

James R. Leavell Is Slated for Reserve Bank Directorate

James R. Leavell, president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, is slated to be named a director of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago, it was said yesterday in banking circles.

It is expected that Mr. Leavell will be named to succeed George M. Reynolds, who tendered his resignation yesterday after serving for 19 years. Mr. Reynolds was a member of the original board of directors when the bank was founded, and had played an active part in the organization of the federal reserve system. His resignation was accepted at the regular meeting of the reserve directors yesterday.

Mr. Reynolds retired as chairman of the board of the Continental Illinois on Jan. 7, bringing to a close an active banking career which spanned more than half a century.

The election of a successor to Mr. Reynolds, who was a class "A" director, rests with the member banks under the reserve system's rules. Each bank in group one, which includes the larger banks in the seventh reserve district, can propose nominees.

Nominations are made by mail. When all nominations are in, the candidates are balloted on by mail. Under this procedure the election takes about 60 days.

Mr. Leavell as head of Chicago's largest bank is regarded as the logical successor. He is said to have the support of the other banks in the district.

UNIFIED TRANSIT CONTROL NOTION BOOSTS STOCKS

Washington News Aids Railway Shares.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 27.—News out of Washington was a little more to Wall street's liking today. Business uncertainties, however, continued to blur the picture, making caution the better part of speculative valor.

Doubts as to the fate of the United States Steel preferred dividend at the meeting of the corporation's board next Tuesday was one of the chief worries of those preferring the long side.

Stock prices, sagging in the earlier dealings, perked up anew in the afternoon, ending the session no worse than mixed. Selling was rather heavy in a number of specialties.

Rail Shares Favorites.

Railroad issues were the best liked—due mainly to Washington dispatches indicating that the incoming administration is disposed to make a determined effort to bring relief to the country's hard pressed carrier systems. The President elect is understood to be considering the formation of a transportation bureau with jurisdiction over the railroads, trucks, pipe lines, air lines, and water borne traffic. Improving earnings reports of recent weeks also have helped to bolster the rails into a position of market leadership, although advance estimates indicate that tomorrow's car loadings report will not make such bullish reading. Word is that the report will reveal a loss of about 11,000 cars traffic for the week.

The first twenty-five roads to report earnings for last month showed a gain of nearly 5 per cent over their figures for December, 1931.

Atchison, Delaware and Hudson, New York Central, New Haven, and Union Pacific enjoyed profitable demand in the afternoon's trading. Delaware and Hudson recovered nearly 3 points of the heavy loss it suffered on its dividend omission earlier in the week.

Chesapeake and Ohio rose to a new high since 1931. Canadian Pacific was sold steadily and slipped to a new low. In addition to the depression with its heavy draw on railroad, hotel, and steamship services that Canadian road struggles under the burden of competition with a nationally owned railroad system, there have been reports in the street lately that if the Dominion government doesn't go out of the railroad business, the privately owned lines may have to shut up shop.

Steel Shares Show Strength.

Bethlehem Steel receded fractionally under the impact of its poor fourth quarterly earnings statements, but rode the recovery movement back to its starting point. United States Steel common waved ahead slightly and the preferred dipped about a point.

Farm implements trailed wheat prices down in the forenoon, but recovered most of their losses toward the close.

The Paramount receivership brought further liquidation into the amusement shares. Paramount itself was sold heavily. It gave up a third or so of its book value rating. Consolidated Film issues were under some pressure.

'Ask Cheaper Illinois Coal Rate to Beloit, Wisconsin

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—(AP)—The Illinois Coal Traffic bureau and the Northern Illinois Coal corporation filed briefs with the interstate commerce commission today, urging lower freight rates from their mines to Beloit, Wis.

WHEAT MARKET IS STILL IN RUT, TRADERS AVER

Futures Remain Around 48 Cent Level.

WHEAT PRICES IN GOLD

Wheat prices in world markets reduced to United States funds at rates of exchange when they closed:

Buenos Aires, May	.37⅝	.37½

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The wheat market is regarded by leading traders as in a rut. To confirm their belief they point to the fact that prices have held within a range of 2¼c during the last two weeks.

Scattered early selling of wheat futures yesterday caused a dip of about ⅝c from Thursday's finish. Buying against bids absorbed the surplus in the pit. When shorts tried to cover they found little for sale. Closing trades were ⅛@⅜c lower, with May finishing at 47⅝@47¾c; July, 47¾@48c, and September, 48¾c.

Buy Against Canadian Sales.

Spreading operations constitute a good part of the day's business. There was buying here against sales at Winnipeg, and the reverse. There were similar operations between the Chicago market, Kansas City, and Minneapolis. Liquidation of a line of long wheat for eastern account was said to have been responsible for the break to the lowest figures of the day, while interest that traders bought on reports suggesting the possibility that political relations between Japan and Russia were not altogether friendly.

Winnipeg wheat prices showed no change for the day. Liverpool finished ¼@⅝c per bu lower, and Buenos Aires was off ⅛c for the day.

Reports of dust storms in the dry areas of the winter wheat belt have become an almost daily occurrence, but the trade continues to express the belief that it is still too early for the outlook for the new crop to be the dominating influence in the market.

Even the railroad reports, noted for their conservatism, are indicating unusually poor conditions for the new wheat crop in parts of the belt.

Hog Prices Above Corn.

A widening in the price ratio between hogs and corn is attracting some attention from the traders, the average for the former in the Chicago market yesterday being about 14 times the price of cash corn. Under normal condition when the price of hogs is ten times that of corn the traders figure there is a profit in feeding corn to hogs rather than selling it as grain. Liberal farm consumption is anticipated in consequence.

Corn futures held within a range of around ⅛c Friday, and finished unchanged to ⅛c higher, with some buying which the trade attributed to a local operator offsetting the reports of beneficial rains in Argentina. May closed at 26⅝c; July, 28¼c, and September, 29½c. The country sold 145,000 bu cash corn to arrive.

Oats closed unchanged with a limited trade, May being 17⅛c and July 17⅜@17⅝c. Rye was ¼c lower with wheat, with May 34½c, and July 34c at the last, while May barley was unchanged at 28c.

COTTON FINISHES HIGHER FOLLOWING EASY START

Cotton markets developed a stronger undertone toward the last, after being easier, with light trading the greater part of the day. The strength at the finish was due in a measure to short covering and limited offerings. A surprising lack of interest on the part of the outside and general trade is reflected in the narrow price fluctuation. There was a reiteration of previous reports of a possible large order for American cotton cloth from Russia, although no confirmation was had, it was said by trade interests.

Spinners' takings of American cotton for the week aggregated 218,000 bales, compared with 285,000 bales the previous week and 308,000 bales last year. Prices moved within narrow limits. Futures closed with gains of 1@4 points in Chicago, and other markets were up 2@5 points. Spots advanced 5 points, New Orleans and Galveston being 6.10c, New York 6.25c, and Houston 6.05c. Liverpool closed 1@2 points net lower. Prices follow:

USED AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

It's a Fact!
Used Hudsons, as sold by us, are as smooth in operation as they are thrilling to drive, yet as safe as the very ground you walk on. You'll agree with us when you drive one. Hudson, the maker of SUPER MOTOR CARS, produced the Super 8s and Super 8s with many features entirely original with HUDSON. They are fast, economical, and well designed. Here are a few typical Hudson values:

1931 Hudson Coupe, rumble seat.....$495
1931 Hudson Sport Sedan..... 525
1930 Hudson Sport Sedan..... 325
1929 Hudson De Luxe Sedan..... 265
1929 Hudson Coach..... 175
1927 Hudson Coach..... 85

ESSEX enjoyed popularity right from the first cars that were put on the highways. That was in 1918. And Essex today is still in a commanding position. The brilliance of its performance, its smooth, powerful motor, and the economy that goes with an efficiently designed car are all qualities of the Essex. An Essex that has seen service does not lose any of these qualities. Here are a few typical Essex values. Come in and see them:

1931 Essex Coupe, rumble seat.....$275
1930 Essex Sedan, new tires..... 225
1929 Essex Sedan..... 175
1929 Essex Coupe, rumble seat..... 150
1928 Essex Coach..... 70
